By a narrow margin of one vote the Senate subordinates the rights of 500,000 taxpaying citizens of the District to politics and senatorial courtesy, and forces on the city a piece of legislation which we don't want, but for which we shall have to pay. The supporters of Senator Capper happily have one more opportunity to give us, in the mothers' pension act, the old-time T. R.

Secretary Wilbur thinks up a plan for honoring Commander Byrd, the first man ever to reach the North Pole by cold air.

Those who also got caught out in the cloudburst yesterday will understand just what the poet meant by being "knee deep in June."

One gathers that Coolidge economy has already saved the government more than there is.

Uncle Sam insists at Geneva that the Boy Scouts must be considered as a part of a nation's armaments, but why ignore the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine?

Thus James Thomson, in "The City of Dreadful Night" sums up the case for agnosticism better than Clarence Darrow can hope to. The Tennessee fundamentalists know mighty well where evolution inevitably leads, but why pass a law against the search for Truth if there is nothing to fear when you have found it?

It is generally observed that Senator Borah usually gets all dressed up so early in the campaign that by election day he has no place to go.

5,000 BILLS DESIGNED TO TAKE TREASURY MONEY INTRODUCED

Record Only Includes Measures Not Fathered
by Administration.

SURPLUS PROVIDES FOR FUNDS ALLOWED

Nation Would Soon Be Bankrupt if Every Item Was Authorized.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, JR.

More than 5,000 bills designed to get money out of the Federal Treasury have been introduced in the present session of Congress, now near adjournment. This reckoning includes only bills not fathered by the administration and does not include appropriation bills recommended by the President for carrying on the government's necessary routine.
It does not include the deficiency bills, either; appropriation and deficiency bills approved by the President run to about $4,400,000,000, including the Post Office bill, but only an expert accountant can tell the huge total of other proposed spendings.

The record shows that Congress, having passed a tax reduction bill, settled down to the consideration of measures calling for the spending of money net in the Treasury and not anticipated there. Thus far, in 1926, the leaders in House and Senate have curbed the will of the rank and file to spend lavishly for pet projects and isms, but whether they can steer next winter's lame duck Congress through the waters of extravagance to the haven of economy, no one can foretell.

Tax reduction next year, therefore, has an outstanding obstacle in its path in the form of Congress itself. So far as can be seen now, it appears to be the main obstacle. If the present Congress can be held in line at its short session, beginning in December, and will restrain its desire to spend mythical fortunes from the Treasury, a sizeable surplus appears in the making for another tax cut in 1927. If Congress takes the bit in its teeth, however, and runs away from the economy policy, taxpayers can kiss good-by, then and there, the early prospects of another cut.

Out of Surplus.

The Treasury carries, generally, a balance of less than $300,000,000 in cash. Its surplus this year, ending June 30, will run to not less than $250,000,000, it is estimated.
Out of that surplus must come whatever money Congress spends in addition to the existing routine expenditures of the government.
It can't be spent for debt reduction or tax reduction and other purposes, too. Government money doesn't do double duty; Uncle Sam's dollar will buy only 100

Soldiers on Joy Ride In Plane Fall; 2 Drown

Leavenworth, Kans., June 1 (By A. P.).—Two soldiers from Fort Leavenworth who last night took possession of an airplane and started off on a joy ride, met death a short time later when the "borrowed" plane fell into the Missouri river near here. A third soldier swam to safety. The dead: Private Otto C. Hathaway, St. Joseph, Mo.; Private William R. Garrett, Lexington, Okla.

Hathaway and Garrett and Private Leonard Lemay, the third member of the joy ride party, were attached to the air service detachment at Fort Leavenworth.

Airships for Army Retained by Senate

(By the Associated Press.)
The Senate decided yesterday against the advice of its military committee, that the airship should be continued as a weapon of the army.

Considering the House bill to expand the army air service, it authorized the Secretary of War to maintain as many airships, as well as free and captive balloons, as he deems necessary for training purposes. The House placed the limit at ten, but the Senate committee had eliminated the provision on the ground that those craft were virtually useless for army purposes and their development should be left to the navy.

Briand Wins Chamber Vote After Defying Own Party

Premier Flatly Refuses to Permit Discussion of French Finances Now or in Near Future—Radicals
Split—Vote Is 313 to 147.

Paris, June 1 (By A. P.).—The Briand ministry, aided by a powerful outburst against his political opponents by the premier himself, today weathered the second storm within a week and obtained an overwhelming vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies.

Premier Briand, defying the radical members of his own majority, refused to discuss the financial situation at the present time, and on this issue gained the vote of confidence. He declared that he had enough of the present parliamentary tactics and that he would abandon the helm unless he were left in peace to work out the financial salvation of the country.

The premier brought a safe majority of the chamber under his charm with a burst of eloquence which reminded his hearers of his

TAX CUT IN FEW YEARS, IS VIEW OF PRESIDENT

Reduction in National Debt Would Offer Opportunity,
He Believes.

AGAIN URGES ECONOMY

(By the Associated Press.)
President Coolidge sees no opportunity for another tax reduction for several years, despite the apparent surplus which will be available at the close of this fiscal year,
June 30.

The fiscal troubles of the government, it was said at the White House, are not so much concerned with this year as they will be next year and the following year, when the real effect of the present tax reduction will be felt.

It was reiterated on behalf of the President that if another tax reduction is to be possible or even a deficit averted next year Congress must go lightly in the way of adding permanent expenditures to the government's pay roll.

As the national debt is reduced,
however, the President sees another opportunity in the course of a few years for a reduction in taxes.

While some Treasury officials believe the surplus this year will amount to, at least, $250,000,000, the President is not quite so optimistic as to the amount, feeling it is impossible to gauge the total until the June quarterly income tax payments have been made.

Last of 5 Americans Released in Mexico

Amarillo, Tex., June 1 (By A.
P.).—A telegram from J. W.
Shanklin to his wife at Canyon,
Tex., today that he has been freed by Mexican bandits announced the release of the last of the five Americans seized and held for ransom by outlaws in the southern republic recently. The telegram stated that Shanklin "is back on the job" at a sugar plantation, El Potrero, state of Vera Cruz, from which he and a bodyguard were kidnapped.

Other Americans kidnapped and later released by bandits are C. B.
Braden and Jules B. Gallagher, San Antonio mining engineers, who had been operating the Texana properties at Descurridora, Durango, and two oil men named Briggs and Greely, kidnapped from oil fields in the state of Vera Cruz.

Vermont Farmer Says the Victims, Woodcutters, Had Attacked Him.

Rutland, Vt., June 1 (By A. P.).
A 60-year-old farmer of powerful physique admitted to police today that he had struck down with single blows of his fists two brothers found dead in his barn. Randall Tubbs, the farmer, was held on a technical charge of murder.

The brothers, Barnardo and Sam Carraro, woodchoppers of Clarendon Springs, were both strong men and one was of nearly giant stature.
Tubbs said he killed the men in self-defense when they attacked him in the course of an argument.

A bloody ax, however, was found on the farm.
Having injured one arm in the fight, he was driven by his son to Rutland to be treated, the police were told. They asked a physician to come to the farm and attend to the injuries of the two men. The doctor notified Sheriff Henry R.
Adams. Tubbs' son was arrested today.

SENATE PROGRAM ALLOWS SESSION'S CLOSE IN 3 WEEKS

Farm Relief and French Debt Are Made Major Items on Slate.

MINOR MEASURES
MAY BE INSERTED

Move for Cloture on Migratory Bird Bill Defeated by 34-to-46 Vote.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

As a result of conferences between Senate leaders and developments on the floor yesterday, the end of the present session of Congress now appears in sight. The uncertainty of the last few weeks has given way to a definite program calling for full consideration of farm relief legislation, adoption of the French debt settlement, if it is ratified in Paris, and adjournment sine die between June 19 and 25 or thereabouts.

Senator Curtis, the majority leader, conferred with the president Coolidge at the White House yesterday and the assumption is that the President has been informed of the program. By making farm relief and French debt the only major matters of consideration, it is inevitable that some administration bills will be left unacted upon in the jam. But other minor measures may be sandwiched in by laying aside temporarily the matters of major consideration. However, no bill that can so prolong debate as to endanger the program is to be kept before the Senate.

Senator McNary got farm relief before the Senate as the unfinished business yesterday. This is in the form of the House cooperative bill with the McNary-Haugen bill tacked on as a rider. As soon as the bill had been made the unfinished business, it was laid aside temporarily for the bill to improve the army air service which was under discussion for the remainder of the day yesterday.

Radio Bill to Have Chance.

The administration's radio bill is also going to be given a chance to pass, it is said, and other measures will from time to time temporarily supplant the farm bill. But probi-tution legislation, the Copeland coal bill, the Lausanne treaty and measures that promise long and bitter controversy appear already sidetracked. Such bills, it is conceded, could only be forced to passage by bitter and prolonged battles and the idea of promiscuously applying the cloture rule got a setback yesterday when the Senate by a vote of 46 to 33 refused to clap cloture on the migratory bird bill, which has been the unfinished business since May 18. This was less than the necessary two-thirds vote. Accordingly the bird bill, first sponsored by the recently displaced Senator Brookhart and now championed by Senator Norbeck, has fallen by the wayside and gone back to the calendar.

President to Attend W.V. Hodges' Wedding

President and Mrs. Coolidge will motor to Glenelg Manor, Howard county, Md., Saturday to attend the wedding of William V. Hodges, treasurer of the Republican national committee, and Mrs. Charles Thomas Lowndes. Senator William
M. Butler, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. Butler also are expected to attend.

Mr. Hodges was made treasurer of the committee following the death of Fred W. Upham, of Chicago. Mrs. Lowndes was formerly Miss Catherine Beasley, of Princeton, N. J. The wedding will take place at the country seat of her brother-in-law, W. Blades Lowndes, who is a Republican leader in Baltimore.

French Kill 30 Rebels In Damascus Gardens

Paris, June 1 (By A. P.).—A Havas dispatch from Beirut says that French partisans in the course of cleanup operations in Damascus gardens, between the Kurd and Amara quarters, killed about 30 bandits.

The escaped prisoners: John F.
Bicknell, 23, Williams, Conn., desertion and escape; Russell Miller, 24, Cedarhurst, N. Y., desertion; George Larkin, 20, California, desertion; Joseph Aaronson, 23, Chicago, desertion and escape; Angelo Dido, 18, New York city, assault, robbery, carrying concealed weapons; Clifford Strong, 23, Round-out, Ill., desertion.

Mother and Child Unaccounted for After Washington Irving Founders Near Pier.

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—

A woman and her 3-year-old daughter, passengers on the steamer Washington Irving, which sank today in the Hudson river after a collision with a steel oil barge, had not been located tonight by officials of the line checking the passenger list. All other passengers and crew were reported safe.

The missing passengers are Mrs.
Lynn A. Hoag and her daughter, Mary, of New York. Two other children of Mrs. Hoag were put ashore when the steamer sank off Jersey city. There were 200 passengers and a crew of 150 on the vessel.

The disappearance of the mother and child was discovered when the two other children were found wandering about the Jersey City pier, crying. It was said that the father is at Niagara Falls, Canada, and that his wife and children were to meet him in Buffalo.

Two theories were advanced for the continued absence of Mrs. Hoag and her child, one was that she might have become mentally unbalanced and sought refuge in a hospital, the other was that when she became separated from her other two children she might have rushed below decks with Mary, in a frantic search for the missing ones, and have been trapped and drowned.

Rammed in Fog.

Emerging from an impenetrable wall of fog today a big steel oil barge, one of a pair under convoy of the tug Thomas E. Moran, rammed and sank the steamer Washington Irving, flagship of the Hudson River Day Line, so quickly that persons aboard had barely time to escape with their lives.

Through the seamanship of Capt.
David H. Deming, veteran skipper of the giant excursion steamer, the largest river passenger boat in the world, practically all on board were landed at Jersey City a few minutes before the vessel settled in 35 feet of water.

The Washington Irving had just started on her daily run to Albany and had reached midstream when the collision came. The steamer began to settle at once. Capt.
Deming signaled for full steam ahead and steered for the New Jersey shore, meanwhile blowing the distress signal. Tugs and ferries hove alongside and took off some of the passengers.

Although the pumps failed to keep pace with the rushing water

Woman Is Accused Of Poisoning Flores

Culiacan, Sinaloa, Mexico, June
1 (By A. P.).—Given added impetus by the statement of Miguel Sarabia, former member of the staff of the late Gen. Angel Flores, that he could positively identify Manuel Camarigo and Blanca Rechy, French adventures, jointly accused of poisoning Flores, the hunt for the pair has been renewed in this section. They have not been seen since Flores died, March 31.

Sarabia says the poisoning occurred at a hotel in the town of Quila, where Flores and his staff were stopping.

Whether the pair acted on their own initiative, or under the instruction of some one else, Sarabia does not venture.

BOGUS LORD SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR A YEAR

Debonair 'Beaverbrook,' Who Made Love to Victim, Is Termed Most Heartless.

WANTED IN MANY CITIES

Philadelphia, June 1 (By A. P.).
Still poised and debonair, as he has remained throughout his arrangement and trial, Frederick B. Stanley, alias "Lord Beaverbrook," and a score of other fictitious names, today was sentenced to serve one year in the county prison, after pleading guilty to embezzling
$8,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs.
Frances C. Kemp.

Stanley was arrested in a barber shop here recently by detectives who had followed him for weeks on complaint of various women that he had married and swindled them out of large sums. The man today steadfastly refused to give his correct name, which officials declared is Herman Krueger.

The indictment under which Stanley was sentenced was returned in July, 1922, after he had disappeared with jewelry from the store here of Mrs. Kemp, widow of a jeweler. Mrs. Kemp said the defendant had been employed in her jewelry store prior to his theft.

Warrants for his arrest have been received from many cities. Police records show that Stanley served sentences in Sing Sing, N. Y., and is wanted there now for violation of his parole.

The man, detectives explained, was an accomplished actor and was able to adapt himself to the ideals of the woman he wishes to impress.
"In twenty years in the detective bureau," said George Getson, city detective, "I've never seen a man who could pose so well as the perfect lover and who had less conscience in using that way to get money. Every day we get more complaints from women to whom he had made love, married and deserted, taking their valuables. He blew it all on gambling, high living and crooked police."

3 Killed by Lightning; Gale Unroofs Houses

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1 (By A. P.).—Three persons were killed by lightning and considerable property damage done by storms in Indiana late yesterday. The dead are:
Oran Patton, 44, of Greensburg;
George E. Patton, 31, of Terre Haute; and Kenneth Wessel, 16, living near Linton.

A heavy windstorm unroofed several houses and damaged other buildings at Marion. Communities near Marion also suffered damage.

MORO OUTLAW BAND BROKEN UP; 140 DEAD

Campaign of Extermination
in Mindanao Completed, Manila Is Advised.

Manila (Wednesday), June 2
(By A. P.).—The band of Moro outlaws in Lanao province, Mindanao, against which the Philippine constabulary has been waging a campaign of extermination for the last two weeks, has been virtually wiped out.

This was the belief of officials today as reports were received from the fighting district showing that the past three days of the campaign have resulted in the killing of nearly 50 others. Since the fighting began in Lanao a fortnight ago, about 140 outlaws have been killed and many wounded, while the constabulary's losses have totaled seven killed and 34 wounded.

Many of the Moro leaders are among the dead, while the remaining outlaws have been scattered into small groups. The Moros' power of resistance has been reduced to a minimum by the loss of most of their arms and ammunition.

LAMBERT TESTIFIES FENNING DROPPED CASE ON GESTURE

Says Mere Suggestion in Court Quickly Ended Lunacy Move.

BLANTON AND HOGAN
CONTINUE TO CLASH

Representative Green Tells Inquirers That Letters Are Missing From Files.

Another sharp clash between Representative Blanton, of Texas, and Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, in which Wilton J. Lambert, prominent local attorney, figured, marked the hearing of Commissioner Fenning's case before the House judiciary subcommittee last night.

It came in connection with the Texan's examination of Mr. Lambert.

Mr. Lambert, for the time being,
was sitting idly in the witness chair while Mr. Blanton was reading from a stack of court papers. Mr.
Hogan kept challenging Mr. Blanton as he read, saying "Give me those papers, Mr. Blanton." The Texan would reply, "Wait until I get through with them."

Texan Sees Insult.

Finally Mr. Blanton turned to Mr. Lambert pleasantly and asked:
"Do you fight that way down in your court?"

Mr. Lambert smiled and replied:
"No, Mr. Hogan and I get along very well."

"I always get along with gentlemen," Mr. Hogan interjected, and the Texan swung around to face him.

"That's a ——— insult," exclaimed the Texan, demanding that the committee make Mr. Hogan withdraw his remark.

"The committee hasn't the power to make me withdraw it," retorted
Mr. Hogan. Order was restored and the examination of Mr. Lambert proceeded.

Bennett Case Reviewed.

Questioned by Mr. Blanton, Mr.
Lambert testified concerning the case of H. P. Bennett, whose nephew, a man named Slade, sought to have declared insane.

Bennett was an elderly man having an estate of approximately $400,000. Mr. Fenning acting for Slade filed the lunacy petition and subsequently rode with Dr. D.
Percy Hickling, District alienist, in the patrol wagon out to Bennett's house to get him. Dr. Hickling was one of the supporting alienists for Mr. Fenning.

Bennett, summoned to appear in court to defend his sanity fled to the house of a friend, Mr. Lambert, testified, and communicated with Mr. Lambert. Mr. Lambert counseled him to stay where he was.
Subsequently, Mr. Fenning called on Mr. Lambert, but the latter told Mr. Fenning that he would not deliver the man but would produce him in court at anytime agreeable with Mr. Fenning. The case came on for hearing.

Fenning Drops Case.

The first thing he did, Mr. Lambert testified, was to raise the ques-

COUNCIL OVERLOOKS REJECTION OF PLAN BY COMMISSIONERS

Delays Consideration of District Officials' Action on 10-Year Building Program.

CHAIRMAN TO CONFER WITH BELL ON MATTER

Ballou and Fowler Disagree on School Medical Service Bureau Bill.

Undeterred by the rejection by the District commissioners yesterday of its proposal for a conference to map out a ten-year program for the "future orderly growth and development of the District," the Citizens Advisory Council met last night in Commissioner Bell's office in the District building, approved a report by George H. Wales favoring establishment of a medical service bureau in the District, and discussed the school medical inspection bill, but took no formal notice of the slap administered by the city health department.

Obviously put out by the action of the District commissioners, the council agreed with Jesse C. Suter, chairman, that it should delay consideration of the commissioners' reply until the letter had been received.

Whether the council will make the commissioners' letter the occasion for a new declaration of its purpose and scope has not been determined. It is expected that Mr. Suter will confer with Lieut. Col. Bell after he has received the letter and before the next regular council meeting Tuesday night, and the outcome of this conference will affect the council action.

Disagreement on School Bill.

Wide disagreement between Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, and Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, were disclosed in a discussion by them of the merits of the pending bill providing for a school medical service bureau in the health department. They were in agreement on only one point, that the bill should not be enacted in its present form.

Proposal of "reasonable insistence" be placed on the correction of physical defects in school children as one of the prerequisites to promotion from grade to grade and graduation, was one of the high lights of a health-building program suggested for the schools by Dr. Ballou. He wants the school medical work which he said is "nine-tenths educational and one-tenth medical," placed under authority of the school officers. Dr. Fowler wants the work under his control.

"I feel sure that the health officer is sufficiently broad to subordinate what I might describe as his bureaucratic disposition to come to an agreement," Mr. Suter suggested.

"We'll never get together on this question," Dr. Fowler closed the discussion. Dr. George E. Richardson was instructed to make a report at the next meeting on the bill.

The commissioners' letter was written to Mr. Suter in reply to a letter from him to the commissioners asking them to join the council in a conference on the plan.

The council said the plan should embrace the "school five-year building program, public libraries and branches, water and sewer systems, sewage disposal works, refuse disposal, parks, playground and waterfront development, street lighting, health department and hospitals and the annual normal growth of the fire and police departments."

Stepped Out of Place.

The council also voted to invite the chairman of the National Capital park and planning commission to join the conference. When the council launched this new project it stepped out of the character that had been assigned to it by the commissioners. It was first organized to advise with the commissioners on budgetary estimates and pending local legislation.

In replying to the council's invitation to confer, the commissioners said: "About two years ago such a plan was initiated and publicity given to a proposed bond issue to provide for the construction proposed. The matter has been held in abeyance, as it appeared manifest that there was not sufficient favor-

Sisters Win 22-Year Fight For Share in Prall Estate

Appellate Court Upholds Jury Verdict Refusing to Recognize Woman's Claim—Inheritors Wrote Own Briefs to Obtain Review.

One of the most remarkable cases ever contested before the Supreme court of the District was closed after 22 years of litigation yesterday when the appellate court upheld the decision of the jury in the lower court refusing to recognize the claim of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Prall to any part of the property at 918-20 Sixteenth street northwest.

The decision resulted in a complete victory for the defendants in the case, Mrs. Emma Prall Knorr, Mrs. Anne Prall Fahnestock, and Miss Virginia Prall, joint inheritors in the estate with their brother, the late William E. Prall 2d, whose share of the property was, after his death, the basis of the litigation.

Mrs. Prall is now an inmate of the government hospital for the insane, where she was committed in 1913, after three lunacy hearings beginning in 1913. The claim was contested by her committee, Charles V. Imlay, after her commitment.

The complete record of the litigation is confusing in its great volume. The case has been in appellate court on three occasions.

The climax of the case came in 1921 when Mrs. Knorr and Mrs. Fahnestock prepared their own briefs and arguments and without engaging counsel went before the appellate court, obtained dismissal of the receivership in which the property had been placed, and a complete bill of review. Mrs. Prall was ordered then to start all over again with her contention.

Previous to this time the decisions had been against the defendants for the most part. The culmination had been reached when the sisters were put into the property in use for fifteen months. They were charged with contempt of court for not leaving the house "forthwith," according to court order. The property was sold, it was then that the sisters decided to prepare their own briefs and fight their own case themselves. They retained no advisers. And with the decision of the appellate court and previous actions and decisions, both of the appellate court and other courts, were made null and void, and the case stood as it did when it was begun by Mrs. Prall in 1904.

During the course of legal actions taken aside from the main issue at this time the District government stepped in and threatened to sell the property for taxes. The property was inherited by the four children under deed of trust from their father, the late William E. Prall, who built the Gordon hotel, which adjoins the property, and was in his lifetime under single ownership.

Mrs. Prall contended that she was the wife of William E. Prall 2d, who died March 28, 1903, and that she had borne him a son, who able public sentiment to justify the expectation that Congress would approve the proposed bond issue, however, without a bond issue, but with increased tax rates, as evidenced in the initiation of the five-year school building program and adoption and initiation of a plan of a street-lighting plan and the creation of the National Capital park commission, with funds provided for purchase of parks and playgrounds.

Careful Study Needed.

"It is not to be expected that the public and Congress will be willing to accept comprehensive plans without convincing proof that the plans have been prepared by competent persons after careful study and have been checked by thoroughly informed and impartial agencies. It is believed that the act of Congress creating the National Capital park and planning commission has created such an agency."

The commissioners' letter then cited from the law referred to, the jurisdiction of the recently created commission showing that it was created by the kinds of development referred to in the council's invitation. Then the commissioners' reply proceeded as follows:

"Congress has seen fit to place this planning in the hands of experts as provided above, and it is the earnest desire of the commissioners that all departments of the District government comply fully with the spirit of the provision for creating and carrying out plans."

"If it becomes manifest as these plans mature that a bond issue must be provided, the matter will be taken up again, with confidence that the public and Congress will support a proposition based on plans thus proposed."

Columbia Heights Group Censures Advisory Council

The Columbia Heights Citizens association, meeting in St. Stephen's hall last night, adopted a resolution censuring the citizens' advisory council for making recommendations to the commissioners without first having consulted civic bodies affiliated with the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The resolution was offered by W. B. Todd, who is a delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations. The action was urged as result of rejection by the commissioners of a ten-year program for the growth and development of the District.

The association voted to have its president and secretary communicate with the Senate and House District committees and urge the founding of a separate public utilities commission.

John C. Mulford was elected third vice president of the association after he and Francis J. Ford tied their race for that office at the election last week. At the election Mulford and Ford were tied for the office. Last night, after the polls had been opened for two hours, a count was made which showed that one vote separated the two, the final standing being Mulford 26 and Ford 25.

at the time of his death was 13 years of age. On the basis of this claim she filed suit for one-fourth share in the property, which is valued at $150,000, she inherited share, and since the property would succeed to the children after the death of the present heirs, to further her claims based on her son's title.

The validity of the marriage and legitimacy of the son were contested by the sisters, to whom the brothers' share would naturally revert. The jury in Justice Wendell P. Stafford's court last June decided that Mrs. Prall had no claim.

Mrs. Prall was long a familiar figure about the courthouse, where she passed a great deal of her time. She was usually attired in purple. She handled her own case for a long time before she was adjudged insane. The steps she took in regard to the property were items of interest for many years.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BODY DEPLORES WATER LETTER

Civic Federation Condemns Questions as Derogation to Asa Phillips.

945 SIGN FOR SYSTEM

The Arlington County Civic Federation meeting last night in the county courthouse adopted a resolution deploring the publication in The Post Sunday of an open letter addressed by two residents of the county to Asa Phillips, consulting engineer, asking questions concerning the proposed $750,000 bond issue for installation of the water supply system. The resolution reads:

"Resolved, That the Arlington County Civic Federation deplors publication in The Washington Post of May 30 under the caption, 'Arlington County Bond Issue Fight Breaks into Open,' and condemns the implications therein contained derogatory to Engineer Phillips and of the plan for securing water for Arlington county."

Arthur Orr, chairman of the special committee on character of signatures for the new water system, reported that the present total of 945 will be greatly increased at the meeting to be held at the high school tomorrow night. The general campaign committee will make its weekly report at that time.

The federation unanimously endorsed a recommendation of the legislative committee regarding the use of sidewalks by persons driving automobiles. The recommendations will be submitted to the board of supervisors in an effort to have a special ordinance passed.

Society of Virginia Has Entertainment

More than 1,100 persons attended the entertainment and dance of the Society of Virginia at the Raleigh hotel last night. It was estimated. This was the last indoor meeting of the season but plans are already being made for several excursions during the summer months.

Mrs. M. deClare Berry, historian of the society, spoke on "The Sunken Constable," sister ship of the "Mayflower," which landed in Virginia. Miss Ellen Stuart, of Bristol, Va., played the violin. Mrs. Allard H. Gasque, wife of Representative Gasque, of South Carolina, gave a recitation. Miss Alta Smith sang, accompanied by Miss Avis Washborne.

Two Stabbed in Fight.

Milton Lee, colored, 28 years old, 2605 Eleventh street northwest, was cut in the neck and hands early yesterday morning, and Thomas Kelly, colored, 24 years old, living in the rear of 1636 Fourteenth street northwest, was stabbed in the left arm and hand during a fight with an unidentified colored man at 2024 Fourteenth street northwest. Both injured men were taken to Freedmen's hospital. Lee's condition is serious.

Woman, 77, Injured by Auto.

Mrs. Clara Goldman, 77 years old, 2109 Eighteenth street northwest, was seriously injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile driven by Clarence Hensar, 921 New Jersey avenue southeast, at Eighteenth and Wyoming avenue northwest. She was taken to Emergency hospital by Hensar and treated for cuts and bruises on the face and body contusions.

Struck by Taxicab; Arrested.

Alfred R. Thornette, 44 years old, 214 C street northwest, was struck by a taxicab driven by Carl Smith, 1329 Third street southwest, yesterday morning at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He was taken to Emergency hospital and treated for bruises and lacerations on the body. He was arrested later on a charge of being drunk, and taken to the Gallinger hospital.

Boy Drops Charge.

James Kalfus, 16 years old, 1212 Sixth street northwest, declined to press an assault charge against his father, Abraham Kalfus, yesterday in police court and the proceedings were dismissed. The boy appeared with his head bandaged. Police of the Sixth precinct arrested his father.

PROSECUTION UNDER NEW TRAFFIC CODE SHARPLY ATTACKED

Members of House District Sub-Committee Assail Procedure at Hearing.

WITNESS SAYS DRUNKEN DRIVING CASES PILING UP

Assistant District Attorney Criticizes Complaints to Congress by Sergt. Smith.

Prosecution of cases coming under the District's new traffic act, as passed by the last Congress, was sharply attacked by members of the House District subcommittee at a hearing last night in the House office building.

Driving while drunk cases are coming into the District courts with such monotonous regularity that the police court judges are thinking seriously of raising the amount of bail required for release in such cases from $500 to $1,000, according to testimony of Frank C. Sebring, clerk of the police court.

Albert E. Stern, assistant United States District attorney, declared that the charges recently made before the subcommittee of lack of cooperation between the District attorney's office and police were unfounded, adding that the methods employed by Sergt. Milton D. Smith, of the traffic bureau, in "running up to Congress and telling its members of each little wrong" was setting a bad example for the police force, and creating ill-feeling in the minds of some in the District attorney's office.

Representative Ralph Gilbert, of Kentucky, following a critical examination of Thomas A. Jones, colored assistant District attorney, declared that the use of colored prosecutors against white women, was just another "innovation of the Coolidge administration."

Prosecutor Criticized.

Much of the testimony last night revolved around the District attorney's alleged lack of diligence in prosecuting Ben Chesvoir, who recently had his automobile operating permit revoked. Testimony showed that Chesvoir, who is recovering at Casualty hospital from serious injuries received in Maryland recently when his machine crashed into a telegraph pole during a chase by prohibition men, was driving a machine in the District under a Virginia permit.

Assistant District Attorney Stern was sharply criticized by representative Gilbert for not having Chesvoir haled into court for failure to abide by the commissioner's act of refusing him a license to drive a car in the District. But Stern declared that the District was compelled to respect the sovereignty of the State of Virginia, which had allowed Chesvoir an operating permit.

John A. Savage, a former inmate of St. Elizabeth's hospital for the insane, testified that it was impossible for counsel of alleged insane patients to see the men at the hospital, even before they are taken into court for rehearings before the lunacy commission.

The District traffic laws will come in for further consideration by the committee at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

Policeman Assaulted While Making Arrests

Policeman Frank E. Stroman, of the Seventh precinct, was cut and bruised on the face last night when he was attacked by two colored men whom he had placed under arrest at the patrol box at Twenty-seventh and P streets northwest. Stroman released his hold on one of the men and struck the other prisoner, who said the name, William Proctor, 46 years old, of Fairmont Heights, Md., on the head with his baton.

Stroman and Proctor were treated at Georgetown hospital. Police are searching for the unidentified prisoner who escaped. He drew a knife, Stroman reported. Proctor was charged with intoxication, disorderly conduct and assaulting a policeman.

WHISKY AND STILLS SEIZED BY DRY SQUAD

Raid Conducted on Eighth Street House; Man Said to Have Escaped.

Capt. Guy Burlingame and his "flying squadron" yesterday afternoon raided the premises at 1224 Eighth street northwest, capturing 2 large still, 100 gallons of alleged corn whisky and 1,800 gallons of mash. A man is said to have fled through the rear of the house as police entered.

The largest of the stills, having a capacity of 300 gallons, police say, was found in operation. The other had a capacity of 100 gallons. Thirty 60-gallon barrels of mash were also confiscated and copper coils, cooling plants and bottling apparatus were seized.

According to police, the place had been watched for several days, following complaints that liquor was being made in the neighborhood. Police expect to arrest the owner of the stills this morning.

Representative Is Asked To Find Pastor's Nightie

Recovery of a lost nightshirt is the latest service asked of a member of Congress by his constituent.

Representative W. T. Fitzgerald, of Ohio, last Friday took a Baptist minister, attending the Baptist convention here, to the White House to meet the President. So impressed was the visitor at meeting the chief executive that he forgot to pack his nightie in his bag when checking out of his hotel.

Mr. Fitzgerald yesterday received a telegram from the pastor requesting that he find the nightgown and return it to him.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED FOR LAUREL SPEEDWAY

Action Taken in Baltimore Court on Complaint of Prince Construction Co.

SUM INVOLVED $28,250

Receivers were appointed in the Baltimore circuit court yesterday for the Baltimore-Washington Speedway, Inc., at Laurel, Md., on complaint of the Prince Construction Co., according to an Associated Press dispatch from Baltimore.

The company, which built the speedway, claims a balance of $28,250 due it on a contract price of $70,000, and other claims lodged against the property total $170,000.

Receivership action had been threatened some time ago, Clarence F. Sowers, secretary of the corporation, explained last night, although the news that the action had been taken was a surprise to him.

The corporation, Mr. Sowers stated, will oppose the effort at receivership and will carry forward its plans for motor racing this summer. The court action, he said, will not interfere with the three races of 25, 50 and 100 miles to be held in the speedway bowl June 19.

All pressing debts would have been paid off last October had it not been for the postponement because of rain of the 250-mile automobile races scheduled for a Saturday. The race was held on the following Monday and was poorly attended and was not the financial success it was hoped for. Mr. Sowers said.

It was this race, incidentally, which brought about a break between the corporation and the A. A. racing committee.

The speedway property has a value of approximately $600,000. The bowl was completed last July, the finishing touches being put on it just before the beginning of the first of the two 250-mile races run last summer.

COMMERCE CHAMBER PLANS ANNUAL OUTING

To Be Held at Congressional Club by September 15, Directors Decide.

The annual outing of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Congressional Country club not later than September 15, the board of directors decided at a meeting in the Homer building last night.

William Q. Tufts, chairman of the schools and colleges committee, reported that 74 replies had been received to the questionnaires sent out to 239 educational institutions in the District asking for information which is to be compiled in a booklet this autumn and distributed by the chamber.

The directors voted to continue publication of "Greater Washington" throughout the summer. This booklet is the official organ of the chamber. It was also voted to hold another industrial exposition next year with free admission to the public.

SENATORS DEFEAT DISTRICT MOTHERS' PENSION METHOD

Vote Is 37 to 36; Blease to Ask Reconsideration of Matter Tomorrow.

CAPPER HOLDS CAPITAL HAS RIGHT OF CHOICE

Wadsworth and Willis Uphold the New York Plan of Administration.

An amendment to the mothers' aid bill, offered by Senator Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, by which he sought to strike from the bill the New York plan for a separate mothers' aid board, was defeated in the Senate yesterday by a vote of 37 to 36.

Senator Blease, of South Carolina, then served notice that he would move to reconsider the vote by which the District plan was defeated. A unanimous consent agreement was then entered into whereby the Senate will consider the question of a vote on the Blease motion and also on the final passage of the bill tomorrow.

The vote on the Capper amendment came after half an hour of wrangling between advocates of the New York plan of having a separate mothers' aid board, as advocated by Senator Wadsworth, of New York, and those favoring the District plan of placing the administration of aid for dependent children under the newly-created board of public welfare.

Senator Bruce, of Maryland, declared that "this is nothing but a contest between New York interests and local interests," adding that a commission appointed by District authorities had made a thorough survey of all phases of welfare work in Washington and decided the consolidation of all welfare activities in one bureau would be the best way of administering charities.

"The time has come," Senator Bruce declared, "to cease making the District of Columbia an experimental station in the matter of legislation."

Senator Willis, of Ohio, who argued against the Capper amendment, declared that 40 States have adopted mothers' aid legislation and that a great majority of these States administer its activities under a separate welfare board.

Senator Capper, in answer to Senator Willis, declared that it was his duty to see that the people of the District did not have something thrust upon them that other States have refused to accept and that they did not want.

Takoma Citizens To Plan Program

Plans for the coming year will be formulated by the Citizens association of Takoma at the next meeting at 8 o'clock Monday night in Takoma library.

Among things to be considered will be improvement of streets and school problems. A report of the present status of the bill for the abolition of the Chestnut street crossing will be made, and the action of the association with regard to the future of this problem will be determined.

MRS. CATT BLAMED FOR ALLIANCE VOTE BY MRS. BELMONT

Influence of Absent Leader Caused Exclusion of Party, She Says.

"CAN'T ADMIRE HER METHODS OR ADVICE"

Defeated American Group Will Not Set Up Rival Suffrage Congress.

Paris, June 1 (By A. P.).—Blame for the action of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance congress in refusing to admit to membership the National Women's Party was laid at the door of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, honorary president of the National League of Women Voters, by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, president of the National Women's Party, upon her arrival in Paris today. With Doris Stevens, vice president of the party, nodding assent, she said:

"I see nothing but Mrs. Catt's influence in the action of the alliance. Personally, I do not regret the refusal to admit the National Women's Party, but I had hoped for solidarity of the women of the world."

Mrs. Catt is absent.

Mrs. Catt, who is the founder of the alliance and was international president for nineteen years, was prevented by illness from attending the congress. Despite her absence, her opposition is given as one reason for the board of the alliance recommending that the National Women's Party should not be admitted over the protest of the League of Women Voters, a member of the organization.

Mrs. Belmont said: "I do not admire the methods, advice or influence of Mrs. Catt. I regret that the action of the alliance gives sympathetic women a handle against the cause."

Mrs. Belmont went on to assert that Mrs. Catt was the main support of the alliance through contributions from the Leslie millions, of which she was the sole dispenser.

"Mrs. Catt," she said, "contributed 50,000 francs toward the expenses of the congress, with the understanding that the French raise an equal amount. I told Mrs. Malaterra-Sellier that I would give the amount. But since the National Woman's Party is not wanted—Mrs. Belmont left the sentence unfinished.

No Rival Congress.

Rumors that the National Woman's Party contemplates holding an opposition congress or the establishment of a competitive international organization were laid at rest by Mrs. Belmont when she said: "I believe it much better to have only one organization. This will settle down, as the alliance has many big women. They are hampered by many women who are not quite up to date, but I think they will adjust with time."

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the League of Women Voters, could not be reached today for a statement, but she had previously refused to say anything regarding the relationship of Mrs. Catt to the finances of the alliance, except: "It is well known that Mrs. Catt has made frequent contributions to the alliance."

The congress today endorsed the "family endowment" program.

SHRINERS' CEREMONIAL PAGEANT IS IMPRESSIVE

Resplendent Hosts Appear in Philadelphia Stadium; Stunt Riding Seen.

1,000-PIECE BAND PLAYS

Philadelphia, June 1 (By A. P.).—Hosts of Shriners, resplendent in rainbow-hued, bejeweled costumes presented an impressive ceremonial pageant in the municipal stadium today. A massed band, composed of 1,000 selected musicians, combined with choruses, and chanters in equal number filled the air with patriotic and convention songs. Mounted drill teams performed difficult cavalry drills and over all came the steady drone of airplanes from one of which Chief Petty Officer Alvan Starr, champion parachute jumper of the United States navy, entertained the crowd with a jump.

Chief among the organizations in the massed band were Lu Lu Temple band, Philadelphia; "Crash Temple, Miami; Tripoli temple, Milwaukee; and Abu Bekr band, Sioux City, Iowa.

Slowly, in the manner of knights of old, preparing for a tournament, the riders passed in review. Then the stunt riding and difficult maneuvering began.

Because of intermittent showers the mammoth pageant, scheduled for tonight, was postponed.

Durkin Sits Smiling At Trial for Murder

Chicago, June 1 (By A. P.).—Martin J. Durkin, recently the most hunted fugitive in America, today was arraigned in the Cook county criminal court on a charge of murdering Federal Agent Edwin C. Shanahan. When the charge against him was read he answered "not guilty" and smiled.

He wore a smile most of the time and was apparently hopeful. His mother and sister, who sat near him, reflected that attitude.

LISTING RESERVES WITH ARMAMENTS IS FAVORED BY U. S.

Italy, France and the Other Conscription Countries Oppose Suggestion.

VOTE EXPECTED TODAY IN GENEVA COMMITTEE

Gen. Nolan Also Would Include Material and Installation Actually in Being.

Geneva, June 1 (By A. P.).—The disarmament discussions got into fresh difficulties today when the military subcommittee separated without reaching an agreement on what constitutes peace-time armaments. The rock on which the nations split was whether trained reserves should be included.

The countries where conscription prevails said "No." The others said "Yes." France and Italy led in the fight to exclude the reserves.

The French argument was put forward thus: "Peace-time armaments are those which are available without measures of mobilization," thus eliminating trained reserves and reserves of material.

Preparedness Considered.

The German spokesman contended that peace-time armaments consisted in all means existing and all measures taken in peace-time in preparation for war.

After a fruitless effort to reach an accord the question went over until tomorrow, when a vote will be taken, especially on whether the definition shall include reserves.

Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, U. S. A., declared that the confusion was due largely to the fact that armaments were being discussed without being previously defined as a whole.

He submitted the following as the American definition: "Armaments are the organized army, naval and air forces of a country, including training reserves, with material and installation actually in being."

Oppose Italy and France.

This placed the Americans in opposition to France, Italy and other conscription countries.

Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, United States navy, recalled that the Washington conference established the principle that ship tonnage is the basis of strength of navies, and declared that consideration of methods of the recruiting and training organization does not properly enter the discussion for the limitation of naval peace strength.

Gibson to Remain on Scene.

(By the Associated Press.) Because of the "political application of practically every question" under discussion by the committees of the preliminary conference on arms limitation, at Geneva, Minister Hugh S. Gibson, head of the American delegation, plans to remain there as long as the committee continues to work.

In a message to the State Department yesterday, Mr. Gibson said he had purposely refrained from sitting on any subcommittee of the subcommittee assigned to deal with military, naval and air questions. It has a membership of about sixty. Nonmilitary questions were referred to a subcommittee composed of twenty members with Allen W. Dulles as American representative, "subject to change if the work assumes a technical, economic or financial character."

Orchardist, Ill., Kills Self.

Special to The Washington Post. Lynchburg, Va., June 1.—Joseph W. Perkins, 66, Nelson county fruit grower, killed himself at his home near Woodson by firing a charge from a shotgun into his mouth. Illness is said to have been the cause. His wife survives.

PANKRIN—On Monday, May 31, 1926, at his residence, 1724 Seventh street northwest, a beloved husband of Mrs. H. H. Davenport. LOUISVILLE WOMEN LOSE FIGHT AGAINST RULE BY MAJORITY

Federation of Clubs Refuses to Rescind Its Policy; "Rebels" to Fight.

MESSAGE BY COOLIDGE IS READ AT GATHERING

Resolution for Legislative Bureau Here Adopted by Convention.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 1 (By A. P.).—The eighteenth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs today defeated the resolution of the Louisville delegation for "minority voice" and refused to rescind the policy of binding majority rule.

Only two of the five delegates of the Louisville Women's club succeeded in addressing the convention, the others being shut out with cries of "question, question."

Opening the argument, Mrs. George Madden Martin, Louisville leader, who followed Mrs. Shackelford Miller's presentation of the motion for rescinding, declared that "for 35 years the federation guarded the right of individual clubs to expression, a right which this policy destroys."

Mrs. Allie Dixon, Kentucky State president, obtained the floor at the point to say with some emotion: "The State of Kentucky, with the exception of this one part of one club, is absolutely and loyally behind the federation and behind our president, Mrs. Sherman."

Will Keep On Opposing.

"We, as the Women's club of Louisville, shall continue to oppose any measure passed by the federation with which we are not in agreement," Mrs. Martin continued. "And we will not withdraw from the federation."

Following the debate and voting, a demonstration of loyalty to Mrs. John D. Sherman, president, was so prolonged that in rapping for order she broke her eazel.

Bone dry, the convention declared itself, adopting the resolution "reaffirming the general federation's unequivocal support, for loyal and uncompromising support of the federation amendment and the 'Volstead act.' This includes opposition to modification."

Another resolution, it was decided to establish in Washington a permanent legislative bureau under the federation auspices, to relieve the president of the general federation of irksome duties. It was submitted that indorsement of Federal legislative questions is annually becoming a more intensive proposal, calling for the presence of the federation president at congressional hearings. It was held necessary that the general federation in the future should guard its indorsement of proposed laws more strictly, adopting the trial policy for one year at least, of indorsing the principle of new measures rather than the bills in the entirety.

The nominating committee submitted the names of Mrs. John D. Sherman, of Estes Park, Colo., for re-election as president; of Mrs. Edward Franklin White, of Indianapolis and Mrs. Florence Dibert, of Johnston, Pa., for second terms, respectively; of Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, of Paducah, Ky., for treasurer, and Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Rockford, Mass., for recording secretary. Voting takes place tomorrow.

Coolidge Praises Home.

President Coolidge, in a message tonight read before the federation, urged on the women the importance of their deliberations on the American home. The message follows: "It is with satisfaction I have learned the 'American home' is to be the keynote of the program at the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs."

Charlotte, N. C., June 1 (By A. P.).—Dr. W. L. Lingle, of Richmond, Va., was today re-elected president of the board of trustees of Davidson college.

Whatever may be done to broaden and to enrich our home life is a vital contribution to the welfare of the country. It will be felt not alone in our private and social relations but in our public service and our national institutions as well.

PRESIDENT QUILTS

Former Premier, However, Still Has Chance to Win Rank and File of Party.

MEMBERS ARE SUMMONED

London, June 1 (By A. P.).—The Earl of Oxford and Asquith, with a majority of his colleagues, including Lord Grey, pass what is considered a sentence of excommunication against David Lloyd George from the liberal party in a letter to Sir Godfrey Collins, chief liberal whip, made public tonight. The breach is now complete so far as the leaders of the party are concerned.

The correspondence will mean the expulsion of Mr. Lloyd George from the chairmanship of the parliamentary liberal party unless he can obtain sufficient votes against the leaders of the party who have adopted the Oxford side of the controversy.

The breach is due to Lloyd George's attitude in the general strike.

In his letter to Sir Godfrey Collins, Lord Oxford recalls that Lloyd George declined to attend a meeting of the "shadow cabinet" during the strike on the ground that messages sent by Oxford and Viscount Grey to the British Gazette were "declarations of policy made in the government press, from which he disented."

Lord Oxford proceeds: "The shadow cabinet is a substitute, when the leaders of the party are in opposition, for the actual cabinet when they are in office, and it has always been understood that membership in this involves similar obligations. I have sat in many cabinets under various prime ministers and I have not known one of them who would not have treated such a communication sent at such a time as equivalent to resignation."

Lord Oxford's letter leaves the position of extraordinary complexity, which apparently can be settled only by the rank and file of the party, and it is not easy to predict the outcome, for Mr. Lloyd George commands the support of many party funds and also has a powerful following among the rank and file of the party.

Late tonight at the request of his supporters, Mr. Lloyd George summoned a meeting of the parliamentary liberal party for Thursday at the house of commons. He declined to discuss Lord Oxford's letter.

Mussolini Impresses Edsel Ford by Power

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—Edsel Ford, executive head of the automobile organization founded by his father, Henry Ford, returned on the Majestic today with Mrs. Ford after a five-week vacation in England, France and Italy.

He was impressed with the influence exerted on Italy by Mussolini. He declared the duke was winning friends among the tourists.

Executive Dry Order To Have Court Test

San Francisco, June 1 (By A. P.). To obtain a court decision on the legality of the government's plan of deputizing local peace officers as Federal prohibition agents, Col. Ned M. Green, district administrator, said today he planned bringing about a test suit.

He said he would appoint a county officer as a "dollar a year" agent and permit opponents of the plan to take the matter into court.

BORAH NOW PLAYING POLITICS, DECLARES SENATOR EDWARDS

Jersey Man Sees Speech Against Referendum as Bait for Presidency.

IDAHOAN SAYS HE STANDS FREE OF ORGANIZATIONS

Announces Plan to Express Views Further on Various Public Questions.

Senator Borah's speech before the Presbyterian general assembly at Baltimore Sunday, in which he attacked State referendum on prohibition, is construed here by many as the beginning of a campaign whereby the Idaho senator hopes to assume the role of the outstanding bonafide leader in the Republican ranks with a view to eventualities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

At the same time, it is now expected that Senator Borah will inject himself into the New York senatorial campaign to the extent of throwing his influence against Senator Wadsworth, who openly supports the New York referendum. Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, declared yesterday that Mr. Borah was angling for the support of the drys, and made his Baltimore speech with his eyes on the White House.

"Mr. Borah is playing politics," said Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, "and the cry has gone all over the country that prohibition should be taken out of politics."

Prohibition Called Bait. "But the lure of the White House is so great, and the open season for presidential candidates is clouded with so many aspiring faces in search of the Coolidge mantle that prohibition must, perforce, be used as enticing bait to catch the unwary."

Meanwhile, Senator Edge issued a statement defending the New York referendum, and adding that there would be no return of the saloon to matter how the vote went.

"A realization of that fact," said Senator Edge, "would compel hundreds of thousands of voters to again support the eighteenth amendment as a protest against the return of the saloon. A revised eighteenth amendment prohibiting legalized saloons, as every school of thought desires, would result in a much fairer expression from the people."

"If the so-called wets and drys unite on such a resubmission at least we would have provided some opportunity for a possible solution."

Borah Silent on Boom. Senator Borah, who yesterday had received hundreds of telegrams from drys all over the country supporting his stand as expressed at Baltimore, would not discuss the presidential boom being proposed for him by the Antisaloons league. In the following brief statement, Mr. Borah indicated that he did not wish to be regarded as linked with the Antisaloons league of any other organization.

"I have received no invitation from the Antisaloons league to speak in New York or elsewhere," said Senator Borah. "I can not deal with invitations until they come."

have my own views about this matter, and my own opinion on it, and on my own responsibility I shall from now on as occasions present themselves, present those views. "After Congress adjourns there are several questions which will bear discussion before the people, and I doubt very much if any organization will want to become responsible for my views on the different questions."

119,568 Americans Serving in War Died

A total of 119,568 persons, including 276 army nurses, lost their lives while serving in the United States army during the world war, according to statistics recently compiled by the War Department. Secretary of War Davis told the House military affairs committee in a letter yesterday.

The figures represented deaths occurring between the dates April 8, 1917, to July 2, 1921. Of the total number 4,697 were officers, the number killed in action was given as 26,815, and those who died of wounds, 13,536. The remainder, 68,941, died of other causes.

Communist Denied Deportation Review

(By Associated Press.) Milos Vojnovic, a Croatian, recently a butcher at St. Louis and now being detained by the immigration authorities at New York, will be deported as a communist advocating overthrow of the government by force.

The Supreme court yesterday refused to review court decisions in St. Louis and New York city, which sustained the immigration officials in ordering his deportation.

Infantry Coordination Planned.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Allen, chief of infantry, has left Washington on a tour of inspection of infantry posts with a view to coordinating infantry training, the complex nature of modern infantry with its many different weapons making this important. He will go as far west as Washington State.

Representatives Brand and Edwards (Democrats), of Georgia, introduced farm relief bills providing loan funds for farmers amounting to $200,000,000 and $300,000,000, respectively.

Judiciary subcommittee reported favorably full committee a bill legalizing boxing in the Territories.

the desire of senators from agricultural States to prevent further time-wasting in order to give farm relief legislation increased chance of enactment. When the Senate met yesterday, the closure petition had been duly signed and a vote was scheduled for 1 o'clock. First reports were that there was an overwhelming majority for closure.

But Senator Reed, of Missouri, avowed enemy of closure, was back from St. Paul, and Senator Dill made a short but vigorous attack on the closure proceedings, pointing out that less than nine hours' discussion had been accorded the bill. Prior to the vote, Senator Heflin made an attempt to avert the closure vote by suggesting a unanimous consent agreement to vote today. This and a similar effort by Senator Curtis, the majority leader, failed of fruition.

Closure Is Defeated. The vote on closure showed a number of Southern senators now ready to depart from their previous attitude in favor of closure, which they manifested during the world court debate. The roll call on the closure motion was as follows:

For closure: Republicans—Bingham, Butler, Capper, Couzens, Curtis, Deneen, Edge, Ernst, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Gooding, Hale, Jones of Washington, Keyes, McLean, McMaster, McNary, Means, Metcalf, Norbeck, Norris, Oddie, Pepper, Phipps, Pine, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Shortridge, Stanfield, Warren, Wadsworth, Willis—36.

Democrats—Ashurst, Bruce, Foris, Harris, Kendrick, Pittman, Stein, Tyson, Underwood, Walsh—10.

Total—46. Against closure: Republicans—Borah, Cameron, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, La Follette, Wadsworth, Williams, Democrats—Bicace, Bratton, Broussard, Cawaway, Copeland, Dill, Edwards, George, Glas, Harrison, Heflin, King, Mayfield, Neely, Overman, Randall, Reed of Missouri, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard,

Simmons, Stephens, Swanson, Trammell, Wheeler—24. Farm Labor—Shipstead—1. Total—33.

Shortly after the vote, Senator Norbeck moved to send the bill back to the calendar and Senator McNary moved to take up the farm relief bill. Senator Trammell at once sought to press his resolution calling for an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission of the alleged price fixing by oil companies, which he contends is keeping the price of gasoline up. An effort last Tuesday to get this resolution before the Senate was defeated.

Senator McNary promised to give Senator Trammell an opportunity later to try for a vote on his resolution.

FRENCH DEBT PLAN IS FOUGHT IN HOUSE; VOTE SOUGHT TODAY

Collier and Rainey Declare Pact Not Drawn on Ability to Pay.

GREEN AND BURTON DEFEND SETTLEMENT

Mills Asserts Spiritual Values Should Be Weighed by Opponents.

(By the Associated Press.) The House engaged yesterday in heated debate on the French debt settlement which was taken up after its opponents had won an initial skirmish by blocking an attempt to force a final vote on ratification before night adjournment.

Representative Tilson, the Republican leader, however, served notice he would press for action today, explaining he was anxious to speedily as possible to the Senate where stiff opposition is expected.

The settlement, negotiated by the American debt commission, proposes funding the debt of $8,847,674,000 in principal and interest, over a 42-year period. Initial payments begin with $30,000,000 annually for the first two years, gradually increasing thereafter.

Rainey Sees Haste. Representatives Collier of Mississippi and Rainey of Illinois, both Democrats, led the attack against the settlement on the ground that it was not based on France's capacity to pay. Rainey contending that the ways and means committee in recommending acceptance of the agreement had only a statement from Secretary Mellon, head of the debt commission, to substantiate its action.

Mr. Rainey said the agreement was approved at a committee meeting of 2 hours and 15 minutes duration, while other House committees pondered for months to obtain information on small claims against the government.

Proponents of the settlement, including Chairman Green, of the ways and means committee; Representative Burton (Republican), Ohio, a member of the debt commission; and Representative Mills (Republican), New York, rose vigorously to its defense.

Reviewing the economic condition of France, Mr. Green contended the limit and that the terms of settlement were as favorable from the American standpoint as could be obtained at this time.

Upholds Moroccan Policy. Mr. Burton said the terms would have been more favorable to the United States if there were assurances that Germany would meet all reparations payments.

He defended the French Moroccan policy, contending expenditures in that direction could not be curtailed, as France was defending its flag as America would under similar circumstances.

Mr. Mills told the House, that the American people would ratify it "not simply because it is just to us, but because in their hearts and conscience they believe it to be fair to France."

Describing its terms as "moderate," he said that while he believed the agreement could be justified on a "strictly commercial basis," that if it could not, those who doubted its commercial soundness should "throw in the scale those spiritual values which are as essential to the life of a nation as they are to that of an individual."

REFUSAL OF ALCOHOL APPLICATION UPHELD

Supreme Court Rules Dry Laws Must Be Construed Liberally.

(By Associated Press.) Declaring that the dominant purpose of the Federal prohibition enforcement act was to prevent the use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage, the Supreme court held yesterday that all the provisions of the law are to be liberally construed to that end.

The decision, read by Justice Sanford, came in an appeal by the Ma-King Products Co. of western Pennsylvania, which insisted that the law compelled the commissioner of internal revenue to issue it a permit to handle denatured alcohol. The commissioner refused to issue the permit and the company appealed to the courts.

Asserting that Congress, in carrying out the purpose of the enforcement act, had not intended that the commissioner should perform the merely perfunctory duty of granting a permit, to any and every applicant, without reference to his qualification and fitness, Justice Sanford said the commissioner had the right to determine whether the applicant was a fit person to be intrusted with such a privilege.

Simmons, Stephens, Swanson, Trammell, Wheeler—24. Farm Labor—Shipstead—1. Total—33.

Shortly after the vote, Senator Norbeck moved to send the bill back to the calendar and Senator McNary moved to take up the farm relief bill. Senator Trammell at once sought to press his resolution calling for an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission of the alleged price fixing by oil companies, which he contends is keeping the price of gasoline up. An effort last Tuesday to get this resolution before the Senate was defeated.

Senator McNary promised to give Senator Trammell an opportunity later to try for a vote on his resolution.

Representatives Brand and Edwards (Democrats), of Georgia, introduced farm relief bills providing loan funds for farmers amounting to $200,000,000 and $300,000,000, respectively.

Judiciary subcommittee reported favorably full committee a bill legalizing boxing in the Territories.

the desire of senators from agricultural States to prevent further time-wasting in order to give farm relief legislation increased chance of enactment. When the Senate met yesterday, the closure petition had been duly signed and a vote was scheduled for 1 o'clock. First reports were that there was an overwhelming majority for closure.

But Senator Reed, of Missouri, avowed enemy of closure, was back from St. Paul, and Senator Dill made a short but vigorous attack on the closure proceedings, pointing out that less than nine hours' discussion had been accorded the bill. Prior to the vote, Senator Heflin made an attempt to avert the closure vote by suggesting a unanimous consent agreement to vote today. This and a similar effort by Senator Curtis, the majority leader, failed of fruition.

Closure Is Defeated. The vote on closure showed a number of Southern senators now ready to depart from their previous attitude in favor of closure, which they manifested during the world court debate. The roll call on the closure motion was as follows:

For closure: Republicans—Bingham, Butler, Capper, Couzens, Curtis, Deneen, Edge, Ernst, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Gooding, Hale, Jones of Washington, Keyes, McLean, McMaster, McNary, Means, Metcalf, Norbeck, Norris, Oddie, Pepper, Phipps, Pine, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Shortridge, Stanfield, Warren, Wadsworth, Willis—36.

Democrats—Ashurst, Bruce, Foris, Harris, Kendrick, Pittman, Stein, Tyson, Underwood, Walsh—10.

Total—46. Against closure: Republicans—Borah, Cameron, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, La Follette, Wadsworth, Williams, Democrats—Bicace, Bratton, Broussard, Cawaway, Copeland, Dill, Edwards, George, Glas, Harrison, Heflin, King, Mayfield, Neely, Overman, Randall, Reed of Missouri, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard,

Simmons, Stephens, Swanson, Trammell, Wheeler—24. Farm Labor—Shipstead—1. Total—33.

CUMMINS GAINING, BROOKHART LOSING IN SOUTHEAST IOWA

Sentiment Against Unseated Senator Is Growing In Own District.

TWO PRINCIPALS NOW REAL FIGURES IN RACE

Old Allison Men Working For Cummins; Labor Abandons Opponent.

Special to The Washington Post. Burlington, Iowa, June 1.—In southeast Iowa, Senator A. B. Cummins is gaining, and former Senator Smith W. Brookhart is slipping among the home folks in his own congressional district, the First.

Curiously enough, the loudest anti-Brookhart sentiment in the State seems to come from the former senator's own neighbors, so to speak, and it has been growing in volume for some time. In the primaries two years ago, Burton E. Sweet, who was comparatively unknown in this corner of Iowa, beat Brookhart in the First district. In the 1924 election, Dan Steek, now Democratic senator, defeated Brookhart in each of the seven counties in the district. Brookhart lost his home county and his home town of Burlington to Steek. Since then the former senator appears to have lost some of his old support, particularly among the labor vote, and Cummins is expected to carry the district by 3,000 and upward, depending on how the electorate turns out.

At present the voters seem apathetic enough and the campaign does not appear to be rousing any wild interest even in the cities, but the Cummins camp is doing much organizing. Women are being perfected an organization to work for good roads are using the same machinery for Cummins. To indicate how close they run to detail, they say every woman in Jefferson county will be called on the telephone on election morning, and the same will be done in Des Moines county.

Working for Cummins. The "anti" motif is a pronounced phase of the campaign. This is old standpat territory that used to be anti-Cummins in the days of the ancient fights. Now the anti-Brookhart movement overshadows all else. The old Allison men are working for Cummins. Howard Clark, of Des Moines, leading rival of Cummins and Brookhart, seems to have faded. A few weeks ago it was figured he would be the beneficiary of Brookhart's anti-Cummins antagonisms. But it seems now to be generally accepted that the real fight is between Cummins and Brookhart and some who lined up with Clark a few weeks ago are now swinging to Cummins to beat Brookhart.

The labor vote in Burlington has abandoned Brookhart. There are some 1,400 railway shopmen here, but it is by no means a Brookhart vote. They figure if Brookhart did to the railroads what he has talked of doing, the pay envelope would be flattened. Six years ago in 1920, Burlington had a union labor city administration. A few years ago, the politicians used to figure that labor could swing 2,200 votes. Now it is split at least 50-50.

Out among the farmers, likewise, the defection from Brookhart has been growing. On items that are widely discussed in the campaign is that after Brookhart's speech some two years ago in which he said Iowa was busted, the big insurance companies began to talk of cutting down loan valuations of loans from $100 an acre to $75 which would have meant a reduction of one-fourth when loans came up for renewal, and would have shoved the State over the cliff.

Claims State Sound. This was staved off by the organized newspapers of Iowa who went East with proof of the despite any calamity howling, Iowa is sound as a nut, although agriculture is in need of relief.

In this region, cattle and hog raising has placed the farmer, generally speaking, on a good business. With hogs at $14, the best price in years. The raisers are having a good season. Factories here are running at about full speed, the streets are clean, good business, while as to the banks, there has not been a failure in Des Moines county since 1874, and they still boast that when banks all over the country went to closing their doors in 1906, the banks here all paid cash.

By way of contrast, they are now pointing to the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Washington, Iowa, of which J. L. Brookhart, widely known as "Brother Jim" was a director. It closed two years ago.

Reed Objects to Use Of His Frank in Iowa

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, rising to a question of personal privilege yesterday, informed the Senate that he had been advised that Brookhart's campaign managers were making unauthorized use of his franking privileges. It appears, according to Senator Reed, that the Brookhart people have been sending broadcast in the State of Iowa envelopes bearing Senator Reed's frank and containing a speech which Reed made on the floor of the Senate during the Steek-Brookhart contest. Inclosed with the speech was campaign literature entitled "Brookhart's voice is the voice of Iowa."

Mr. Reed said that about a month ago Senator La Follette came to him and asked permission to send out copies of the Reed speech, which permission was granted, and

Ponzi Forfeits Bail; May Fight Extradition

Boston, June 1 (By A. P.).—Charles Ponzi, rich-quick financier, under sentence of seven to nine years in Massachusetts as a "common and notorious thief," failed to appear in superior criminal court today for resentencing after loss of his appeal. Ponzi has been at liberty in $10,000 surety and Judge Fosdick ordered him defaulted.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 1 (By A. P.).—Charles Ponzi is in Jacksonville, his attorney, Frank E. Brennan, said today. Ponzi has not decided whether he will go back to Boston voluntarily or resist extradition.

LIFE TERM IS GIVEN FOR MAILING BOMB THAT COST 3 LIVES

Judge Deplores His Inability Under the Law to Order Death Penalty.

SECRET HEARING IS HELD IN FEAR OF MOB ACTION

Michigan Constable Bows Politely When Sentenced: Started to Prison.

Muskegon, Mich., June 1 (By A. P.).—Circuit Judge John Vanderwerp today sentenced Asa K. Bartlett, Blue Lake Township constable, to life imprisonment for the murder of August Krubach, his daughter Janet and her fiancé, William Franke, killed by a bomb Thursday.

Judge Vanderwerp expressed regret that the State law does not provide for capital punishment.

"You should be sentenced to death," Judge Vanderwerp said, but it is useless for me to talk to you. Maybe in later years you will realize something of the dastardly crime you have committed. The sentence is that you be confined in the State house of correction at Marquette for the rest of your life."

Bartlett was secretly arraigned shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and then was taken into circuit court. The prisoner wore his old army uniform, being a world war veteran. Judge Vanderwerp talked with him in private a few minutes and then imposed sentence.

He Bows Politely. Bartlett, who admitted mailing the bomb because of political enmity toward Krubach, who was township supervisor, showed no emotion and bowed politely to the judge as sentence was pronounced. He was immediately started on his trip to Marquette.

The arraignment and sentence came so early that the crowds that it had been feared might make trouble, because of the strong feeling against Bartlett, had hardly begun to form.

Bartlett, 28 years old, started two years ago to construct the bomb which he sent through the mails. This was revealed when Bartlett's confession was made public today.

"I thought that maybe that I would want to use it," Bartlett explained.

It was two years ago that township politics involved Krubach and Bartlett in bitter opposition to each other.

Bartlett in his confession expressed regret that the bomb killed Janet and Franke. "It was for Krubach alone," he said.

"I conceived the idea only last Wednesday of sending the bomb through the mails. I went to Montague and purchased the wrapper stickers and then brought the package directly to the Muskegon postoffice and mailed it," the confession continued. "I did not know the bomb had killed Krubach and the other two until I was informed by the officers early Friday morning."

Refusing again the services of an attorney, engaged by his father, Bartlett told officers he wanted to be on his way to prison as soon as possible. "I hate to leave the folks they need me, but as far as my own life is concerned it makes no difference. I am content," he said.

Bartlett will be arraigned today. He is expected to waive examination and be immediately taken into circuit court.

Used Shotgun Trigger.

Describing the construction of the bomb Bartlett said he made the explosive part of it last Wednesday. "To set it off," he said, "I used the mechanism of an old shotgun. The bomb was in a binged box. When the box was opened it pulled a wire attached to a home-made trigger. This exploded a rifle cartridge. In this cartridge was a percussion cap."

The instrument Bartlett said was charged with five sticks of pyrotol. He said he bought the explosive at a village store several miles from his home in Blue Lake township.

TWO MISSING AS BOAT SINKS IN SIGHT OF PIER

ters, men in the engine room and all other members of the crew remained at their posts until within a few feet of pier 9 at Jersey City. Here the boat settled and improvised gangplanks permitted the passengers to walk ashore.

Panic Soon Ended.

The excursion steamer's band performed an important part in preventing panic among the more anxious passengers. Immediately the danger was realized, the band struck up jazz tunes which did much to reassure hysterical persons.

Officers and crew of the Washington Irving upheld the traditions of the sea and did not leave the ship until all passengers were safely ashore. There were complaints, however, that some male passengers forgot the code, "Women and children first" and had to be restrained by ship's officers.

The Washington Irving is a steel "side-wheeler" of 4,000 tons, launched in 1913, and based on present costs, valued by the company at $1,000,000. She had a passenger capacity of 600, and 6,000 horsepower engines.

The steamship company is confident the vessel will not be a total loss. An attempt to raise her from her resting place over the Holland tunnel was started within a few hours.

Thomas E. Moran, head of the towing company operating the tug, blamed the fog for the accident. He said Capt. Andrew Borck, who had charge of the tug, is thoroughly competent. The barge which sank the excursion steamer was itself damaged to the extent of about $5,000, it was said by the owners.

Woman Describes Crash.

Owing to the fact that some of the passengers of the Washington Irving were transferred to the tugboat Albany, while others left for their destinations on trains, considerable confusion resulted, in which families were separated and friends lost contact with each other.

Mrs. Addie Sargent, of Garland, Utah, one of the passengers, gave a graphic description of the accident. She said that as the Washington Irving left its pier and nosed upstream toward Albany there was a collision which ripped a large hole beneath the water line, causing much consternation among the passengers. There was a rush for life preservers and many passengers were prevented from leaping overboard by the coolness of the captain, she said.

The skipper immediately organized his crew into rescue squads, detailing some to obtain life preservers for the passengers, others to quiet those who were panicked.

The captain then directed that the Washington Irving's lifeboats be swung out, and many passengers were transferred to tugs.

Liner Pricella Docks.

New London, Conn., June 1 (By A. P.).—With a heavy list to starboard, considerable water in her hold and her paddle wheel smashed, the Fall River liner Pricella, which, with 350 passengers aboard, was grounded on Great Gull island, Long Island sound, in a fog last night, arrived here this morning in tow of a tug.

The passengers, who spent a sleepless night after being violently awakened when the craft struck the beach, boarded special trains that awaited them here and were taken to Newport and Fall River. The Pricella was en route from New York to Fall River when she grounded.

Wilbur Favors Plan For Honoring Byrd

Secretary Wilbur has advised Congress of his approval of the proposal to confer congressional medals of honor on Lieut. Comdr. Richard E. Byrd and Floyd E. Bennett for their airplane flight to the north pole. Byrd also would be advanced to the rank of commander on the retired list.

Bennett would be advanced in rank to warrant officer of machinists' grade, bringing a pay increase of about $50 a month while on shore duty and $90 for sea duty.

GOV. BYRD ASKS INQUIRY OF "GAS" PRICE INCREASE

Letter to Coolidge Links Rise With Recent Oil Company Mergers.

URGES COMMISSION ACT

Richmond, Va., June 1 (By A. P.).—A "fearless and nonpolitical" investigation of the gasoline, oil and kerosene industries by the Federal Trade Commission was asked by Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia in a letter to the President of the United States, made public here tonight. Gov. Byrd urged the immediate start of the investigation by the fact-finding body, rather than by Congress, "where political considerations may enter."

Declaring that the people of the United States had been forced to stand, within four months, advances in the prices of gasoline, crude oil, kerosene, by-products which aggregated approximately $50,000,000 annually, Gov. Byrd's letter to the President said that the additional burden on gasoline alone was $300,000,000 annually.

He pointed out the simultaneous price advances as almost certain evidence of prearranged price fixing, and urged also investigation of the recent mergers in the industry. Since February 12, Gov. Byrd's letter said, the price of gasoline had risen 4 cents in Virginia, entailing an added burden to the people of this State of $6,000,000 annually. His request for an investigation asserted that the people were entitled to know why an increase of 33 per cent in four months was justified.

JUNE PRIMARIES.

The month of June holds much of interest to politicians. Primary elections are to be held in seven States. Candidates for the United States Senate are to be chosen in four of them, and in three others nominees for members of Congress are to be selected. In two of the States the contests for the senatorial nomination will be of national interest. These are Iowa, where the veteran Albert B. Cummins, who has been a member of the Senate since 1905, is opposed by Smith W. Brookhart, who was ousted from the Senate in a contest with Dan F. Steck, Democrat. The other is in North Dakota, where Gerald P. Nye, serving in the Senate by virtue of an appointment from the governor to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Ladd, is seeking to succeed himself. No other senatorial primaries of importance will be held until August, when nine are scheduled, and in September eleven will take place.

The Iowa primary next Monday has much significance, for it will determine the relative strength of the regular Republican organization and the insurgent element of the party. There are other candidates besides Brookhart and Cummins, but the contest is admitted to be between these two. A few weeks ago the chances appeared to favor Brookhart, but Senator Cummins is said to be gaining rapidly and political sharps are predicting his nomination. Should Brookhart defeat the veteran, however, the regular Republicans threaten to bolt the ticket and vote for the Democratic nominee, who will probably be J. C. Murtagh. The latter is making his campaign on an anti-Volstead law platform.

In North Dakota, Senator Nye, who was given his seat only after a prolonged investigation, is opposed by former Gov. L. B. Hanna, candidate of the "regulars," whereas Nye is the candidate of the Nonpartisan league. This primary on Wednesday, June 30, will be another test of the strength of the regular Republican organization.

In this respect, therefore, the primaries this month will be of peculiar significance to the Republicans of the country.

Prosperous times are those in which it seems all right to call a pasture suburban lots.

THE WESTERN CARRIERS.

The application of the Western railroads for an increase of 5 per cent in freight rates is still occupying the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The final disposition of the matter appears to rest upon two questions: What have been the average net earnings of the Western carriers and how can a "fair return" be made possible with the depression in agriculture as the leading factor in the problem?

It is asserted that in 1925 the net earnings of the Western railroads were 4.12 per cent on the capital invested; and this was the best year of the last five years. On the other hand it is argued that an increase in freight rates is not possible until Congress releases the commission from consideration of the "existing depression in agriculture."

The essential points appear to be the proper level of rates consistent with the maintenance of an adequate transportation system, and how far the agricultural situation might be relieved by lower rates without injuring the efficiency of the railroads.

A MILLION YEARS OF EVOLUTION, AND NOT OVER A DOZEN PAYMENTS WHO CAN FIELD BUNTS FAULTLESSLY.

SKILL AND COURAGE WIN.

"The coolness of the captain prevented a number of passengers from jumping overboard." That paragraph tells why the Hudson river steamer Washington Irving was piloted to the shore and every one of her 350 passengers landed without loss of a single life or serious injury to any one.

The terrific disaster through which 1,021 lives were lost when the excursion steamer General Slocum caught fire passing through Hell Gate 22 years ago this month caused a shudder of horror throughout the world, and that horror was intensified when the details of the cowardly conduct of some of the officers and members of the crew were made public.

On the other hand the officers and crew of the Washington Irving again brought credit upon the American merchant marine through their coolness and courage when that great excursion boat was rammed by a tanker, which escaped before its identity could be ascertained. According to the testimony of passengers "members of the crew formed a human chain over which to lower women and children to life boats." Even the musicians of the band arose to the occasion, and instead of grabbing the life belts they grabbed their instruments and kept up the music until the frightened passengers were quieted.

The vessel sank. The owners think the hull may be recovered and part of the potential loss of a million dollars salvaged. But the loss of the property is nothing compared with the satisfaction which those owners must feel over the knowledge that 300 passengers, mostly women and children, and 150 members of the crew were saved from a watery grave through the skill and courage of the officers and men of the Washington Irving.

The funny part is that the energy required to get a Federal job would get a better one in civil life.

WATER-BORNE TRADE.

Water-borne foreign commerce of the United States during 1925 amounted to $2,803,107 tons, a decline of 360,000 tons from the preceding year. This decline was entirely in export cargoes, import cargoes having increased 2,236,000 tons.

American vessels employed in the ocean-borne dry cargo trade handled about 29 per cent in 1925 as against 32 per cent in 1924. Including the Great Lakes and tanker cargoes, American vessels carried 40 per cent in 1925 and 44 per cent in 1924.

Grains stand at the head of the list in increase of commodity exports, while cotton, machinery and food products followed in order. Imports of silk, wool, rubber and fertilizers increased.

During the first nine months of the fiscal year 1926 American vessels carried exports valued at $1,071,000,000, and carried imports valued at $988,765,000. American vessels carried 34.6 per cent of our exports and 29.3 per cent of our imports.

The use of good English would have drawbacks. There is enough failure to understand another now.

ALIEN VETERANS.

Secretary of Labor Davis has issued a public statement expressing his appreciation of the action of Congress in passing the bill permitting the admission to the United States of alien veterans of the American forces in the war, who are now exiled overseas because of the restrictions of the immigration laws. President Coolidge recently signed the bill.

The situation prompting the passage of the act grew out of the fact that following the war many aliens who served in the American forces visited their families abroad and were caught by the original and subsequent quota acts before they were able to make arrangements either to bring over their immediate families or to leave their relatives in suitable circumstances, and were then prevented from returning to the country which they considered their permanent home and for which they had so gallantly fought.

The act permits the alien soldiers to bring in their immediate families, and also permits the assumption of citizenship by these alien veterans upon their personally filing a petition in a court of the United States and taking the oath of allegiance.

How times change! Once American savages took scalps instead of pay rolls.

TWO TROUBLE-MAKING RULES.

Democrats of two States—California and Iowa—have gone on record in favor of the abrogation of the two-thirds rule in national conventions, and those of Ohio are about to follow suit. It is reported. With the followers of the two leading candidates for the presidential nomination in 1924—Gov. Al Smith and William G. McAdoo—announcing their support of the movement that has been launched to abolish the two-thirds rule, it begins to look as if this antiquated convention law, which has wrecked the party on at least two occasions, may be abandoned in the next national gathering of the Democrats.

The Democratic national committee has no fixed date for a meeting. The members of the committee will gather upon call of the chairman, and so far Chairman Shaver has given no intimation that he has any idea of calling a meeting. It will not be necessary, however, for the national committee to consider the question of abrogating the rule, although undoubtedly a recommendation by the committee would give impetus to the movement. The convention itself determines the rules under which its sessions are held. In the Madison Square Garden convention the rules committee reported in favor of the two-thirds rule and the convention adopted the report. Had any candidate in that convention received a majority vote, his supporters could not have succeeded in amending the rules to provide for a majority nominating vote, because it would have taken a two-thirds vote to amend the rule, and this, obviously, would have been impossible.

Should the two-thirds rule be abolished, undoubtedly the convention would also abandon the unit rule, under which the delegates representing a State that has adopted the unit rule in State convention must vote as a unit. The unit rule has been almost as much of a trouble-maker as the two-thirds rule, because it prevents any break in a State delegation which is bound by the rule.

Not since the two-thirds rule was adopted in the convention of 1840 has there been such widespread agitation for its abrogation, and it is to be hoped that the Democratic leaders who started the movement will not abandon their efforts. Along with the two-thirds rule the unit rule should be kicked out also, as doubtless it will be.

Causes are obscure, and the Missouri yearning to be shown may have made musical comedy what it is.

THE ENGLISH DERBY.

Perhaps no greater proof of the seriousness of the British coal strike could be found than that contained in the announcement that no special trains will be run to Epsom Downs for the derby today. The English derby is a national institution, to the annual recurrence and celebration of which every activity has hitherto had to yield. Up to a comparatively recent date, even the house of commons regularly adjourned over derby day. Coal must be scarce, indeed, when the railroad companies are obliged to forego the rich harvests which in other years they reaped by carrying scores of thousands of sightseers to be present at the great event.

But, though the railroads will not function as of yore, the crowds are bound to get to Epsom somehow. Vehicular traffic of all sorts on the highways will be unprecedented, and even the air will be pressed into service, for a number of planes will fly from the north of England and from the continent of Europe, so that enthusiastic raccoons may not be disappointed in their desires.

There is much curiosity to see if Lord Derby can in 1926 repeat the victory which he achieved in 1924 with Sansorino. Since war back in the eighteenth century no Lord Derby had previously succeeded in winning the race called after his ancestor. Lord Derby's horse, Colorado, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas at Newmarket, is favorite this year, but he will have stiff opposition from Lord Woolavington's Coronach, Sir Abe Bailey's Lex, Viscount Astor's Swift and Sure, and other competitors. It promises to be a battle of the giants.

After a while nothing will seem naughty enough to afford a thrill, and then everybody will of necessity feel virtuous.

COTTON MILLS.

Certain politicians who tell of alleged enormous and fabulous profits made by the cotton mills in New England and the textile industry in general, in order to prejudice the farmers against the tariff, fail to state the whole truth.

In the first place, the cotton mills of New England made their largest profit in the years 1918, 1919 and 1920, when the 1913 low tariff was in operation. The last two years have been rather bad and profits have been small, largely owing to high-priced cotton.

A recent survey of the market values of quoted American cotton mill shares indicated a loss in liquid capital value of something like $250,000,000 during the last five years. To 68 companies located in Fall River and New Bedford, Mass., is attributed two-fifths of this total; and this by no means tells the whole tale.

This disposes of the claim that the tariff is wholly for the benefit of New England manufacturers, and that the farmers are not benefited at all. Wages in the Eastern cotton goods mills are from three to five times the wages paid in Great Britain, France or Germany. These high wages enable cotton mill workers to pay the high prices which are demanded for farm products. The farmer is the direct beneficiary of the tariff which protects workers in the cotton mills.

Man is queer. He'll swat a little ball and cuss it heartlessly, and then get mad if it hides in the weeds.

THE NORGE.

Since the Italian-built, Scandinavian-owned dirigible airship Norge made its successful flight from Norway to Alaska directly across the north pole the proper pronunciation of the name of the first vessel of any kind to cross the top of the earth has been the subject of much discussion. But the name is by no means a new one in the nomenclature of ships. There were at least two others of the name, though both were steamers "plowing the briny deep" and not the atmosphere.

Both are now in the keeping of Dave Jones, who maintains a "locker" large enough to accommodate every ship that ever sailed or steamed the seven seas. The first of the name, of which a record has been retained, was wrecked on Rockall reef in the north Atlantic in June, 1894, with the loss of 600 lives. The other was wrecked off the Scottish coast just ten years later and 646 lives were lost. But the hoodoo on the name must have been destroyed, as the latest "Norge" not only crossed the pole in safety, but won the distinction of being the first vessel of any kind to make through connections which others had failed to accomplish after more than a century of effort.

Now that the jinx has departed we may expect numerous other vessels to assume the name of the champion liner.

The Japanese government proposes to subsidize the construction of three new ocean-going ships to the extent of about $1,300,000 annually. The new ships will be built by a Japanese company and will cost about $5,000,000 each. In the meantime the United States refuses to aid American ocean shipping by means of either a subsidy or a preferential tariff, and American ships are carrying a smaller proportion of American commerce than they did last year.

The metropolitan doesn't gossip as much as the villager. He doesn't know enough people well enough.

An American is a man who drops a "g" and then laughs at an Englishman for dropping an "h."

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Congressman Davey of Ohio. I was asked to prolong a Dinner given by Davey's company. They are at Kent, Ohio, but the Dinner was in Akron, because they haven't got that much food in Kent. This Davey's father started this tree surgery thing and the sons have kept it up. One of them is in Congress, but up to now has been unable to replace the bad spots in our national life with concrete. Well, they had about a thousand men there from all over the country. They all go to school and learn this stuff from Professors. It not only keeps you out in the air but up in the air most of the time. These Boys get so they are regular Cats in the trees. They have this get-together meeting every year. The head of it now, since the old Gentleman died, is this Congressman Davey. Seems funny to hear of a man building up and constructing in one of his businesses and tearing down in the other. But if they once get a smell of that Capitol Building in Washington you can't hardly blast them out of there. He was the Toastmaster and related the following anecdote.

A newly-rich oil millionaire's wife was showing some friends about their newly acquired Country Estate. They had a wonderful Poultry yard with all prize chickens. She was explaining how valuable they were.
"Do they lay every day?" inquired the visiting friend.
"Oh, they could of course, but in our position it is not necessary for them to do so."

PRESS COMMENT.

Comfort for Everybody.

New York Sun: The "wets" having cheered over Pennsylvania, the "drys" are privileged to exult over Oregon.

They Must Be Light Pink.

Indianapolis News: The most remarkable thing about the parade of German reds was that it was orderly.

They're Too Expensive.

Boston Globe: The next time Earl Carroll gives a party maybe he won't insist on having a room with a bath.

Easier to Save the Heathen.

Omaha Bee: Missionaries are sent to China, probably on the theory that it would be a waste of time to send them to Chicago.

Split Fifty-Fifty.

Buffalo Express: New York is first in the production of maple sirup. Florida and California will continue to vie for the applesauce crown.

Dempsey's Discovery.

Detroit News: One of the great steps forward in the field of preventive medicine was Mr. Dempsey's discovery that you don't get hurt if you don't fight.

Make Your Own Comment.

Boston Globe: Mr. Vane, the "wet" Republican candidate for senator from Pennsylvania, got his biggest vote in Philadelphia, where Gen. Smedley Butler was.

Why the Delay, Governor?

Cincinnati Enquirer: What is delaying Gifford Pinchot from announcing he will run for President on what he did not do in the Pennsylvania senatorial primary?

Will Get Money's Worth.

Houston Post-Dispatch: The Texas Republicans are going to start a newspaper. The exchange of money for experience is one of the common activities of life.

Some Good, Anyhow.

New York Telegraph: Pennsylvania farmers have set up radios in their fields to make the crops grow. They find that political speeches have a nourishing effect on the soil.

Spelling Reform.

Louisville Courier-Journal: A spelling reformer declares there are 600,000 ways of spelling "foolish." But these misguided philologists will never learn that spelling reform spells nothing.

Alfonso and Wales.

Louisville Courier Journal: King Alfonso is expected when he arrives in England to show the Prince of Wales how to ride a horse. He can demonstrate how to stick on a throne, too, if anybody asks him.

Something in That, Too.

Marion Star: We heard a lot during the British general strike about the "clenching" of the clenched fist. The leaders of German communism rode at the head of the procession beside delegates sent from Moscow. Cheers, translated as "Hail, Moscow!" and "Hail, German soviet republic!" were given in honor of the leaders.

Living Greece No More.

Brooklyn Eagle: Ward Lord Pangalos persuaded Miss Lytton Milbank, great-great-granddaughter of Lord Byron, to aid in the Mithos-longh celebration. That of Greece under a dictator a new Byron might write again in Greece but living Greece no more never entered the war lord's mind.

Democratic Rules.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The campaign in the Democratic party for the elimination of the two-thirds vote and the unit rule in national conventions has had more success than such campaigns have had in the past. It is getting considerable support in the South and in parts of the West. Most of the Eastern Democrats favor it for obvious reasons. The proposed changes will help the chances of Gov. Smith of New York, and Smith pressure is doubtless back of the move. The final action will depend not upon the present Democratic national committee but upon what happens in the next two years. The delegates have the last word on the matter, and for more than 80 years they have refused to permit any change when a show-down came.

Milton's Comus.

Philadelphia Inquirer: A first edition of Milton's "Comus" brought $21,500 at a recent auction in New York, while only $2,950 was paid for a first edition of "Paradise Lost." The ways of a collector are often hard to explain. The difference in the condition of the respective works may account to some extent for the inverse proportion between the prices and the literary importance of the two.

But perhaps there is a hint for lawmakers in the incident. After much of the legislation that the popular mind may have a fresh interest in the "Comus" theory that virtue is its own protection.

Washington-Philadelphia by Air.

Philadelphia Ledger: One of the most valuable by-products of the sesquicentennial is the establishment announced here by Secretary Hoover of an airplane between this city and Washington, with three powerful planes, each to carry a dozen passengers, and designed to make flight in an hour and a half. The government cooperates by granting the use of its flying fields at both termini. As the Secretary observes, this is an important experiment. It points the way to comprehensive plans now preparing under government auspices to connect the larger cities by airways. With the broad expanse of our mainland and the immediate prospect of linking Alaska thereto through the air, we have a greater need of such traffic routes than nations of western Europe now leading us in this particular.

Oh, What a Fall!

Baltimore Sun: Gen. Bolchut, commander of the French forces in Morocco, was guilty of extreme tactlessness last week. It now is known that he fell from his horse and had to recede Abdel-Krim's surrender by proxy because he himself was unable to be present at the ceremony. That was just the sort of thing to do. Abdel-Krim's surrender by proxy because he himself was unable to be present at the ceremony. That was just the sort of thing to do.

Slang and Jargon

By GLENN FRANK.

SLANG is by no means the cultural sin it is sometimes branded. Slang is language in the making.

Slang is the sign of life in a language. Slang is imagination at work in words.

Our mother tongue would become a septic and stagnant pool if slang did not pour fresh streams into it.

Much slang, of course, is only verbal freakishness produced by smart-aleckism, but many of the most expressive and exalted words in our language were slang in their origin.

Purists wage unceasing war on slang, but our language has less to fear from the slang of the low-brow than from the jargon of the high-brow.

By jargon, I mean muddled talk and writing.

By slang, I mean language of a highly colloquial sort that is considered below the level of standardized educated speech and consisting either of new words or of common words used in a new way.

Jargon is the fog of language.

Slang is the lightning of language.

Jargon obscures thought and dampens the gossamer wings of fancy. Slang at times destroys, but it also clears the air and illuminates the landscape.

Jargon is abstract.

Slang is concrete.

Jargon goes on the assumption that the longest way round is the shortest way home.

Slang cuts across lots.

Whether we want to write an effective business letter or address a board of directors or clinch a sale or write a best seller or capture the attention of a nation, it behooves us to beware of jargon.

It is better to be slangy than to be sloppy.

Jeremy Bentham's writings are the last word in jargon.

"His style is unpopular," says William Hazlitt, of Bentham, "not to say unintelligible. He writes a language of his own that darkens knowledge. His works have been translated into French—they ought to be translated into English. People wonder that Mr. Bentham has not been prosecuted for the boldness and severity of some of his invectives. He might wrap up high treason in one of his inextricable periods and it would never find its way into Westminster hall. He writes a cypher-hand which the vulgar have no key to. Mr. Bentham writes as if he were allowed but a single sentence to express his whole view of a subject in, and as if, should he omit a single circumstance or step of the argument, it would be lost to the world forever, like an estate by a flaw in the title deeds."

Henry S. Canby, in his little book on "Better Writing," says that "it is natural to write well, if you think well." It is also true that a man's style reacts on his mind.

Clear thinking makes for clear speaking; but clear speech also makes for clear thinking.

ceremony. That was just the sort of thing to do to Abd-el-Krim's natural depression of mind. Surrendering to a civil police and to a brave army is had enough, but to submit to a general who can not stick on a horse must have been a terrible experience for one who rides like an Arab.

An Altruist.

San Diego Union: An altruist is an American citizen who, after dodging bandits, murder motorists and poison liquor all day, still has time to worry about disorders in China.

DRY THOSE TEARS.

A right more sacred than the Constitution, more fundamental than the Scriptures and more ancient than the buried cities of the Chaldees has been rudely trampled under foot by the edict of a Chicago judge, says the Indianapolis Star. A woman has been forbidden to weep. Tears of sadness have brought solace to the wounded heart since the day when Eve left the garden; joy has found similar means of expression in the "good cry." Although the gentler sex all ways has exhibited a strength equal to any emergency, the teardrop has been so long a tabooed emotion that the Chicago judge has not attempted the hopeless task of upsetting a basic law of human nature, nor does he cry out against tears in general. Knowing only too well the persuasive influence of the drop that glistens on the maiden's cheek, he has decreed that tears must not be shed when a panel of male jurors is attempting to render strict and impartial justice in damage suits for heart pain. Sympathies wrung by feminine tears will have no place in evaluating such damages in his court. "Weeping verdicts" are not to his liking and the jury in a current case was ordered from the room until the fair plaintiff could be persuaded that a damage suit was no crying matter.

The justice probably knows from experience how potent is the effect of the tear upon the sympathetic and somewhat impressionable male heart. Perhaps he seconds Shakespeare's lines: Her tears will pierce into a marble heart.

The tiger will be mild while she doth mourn; And Nero will be tainted with remorse To hear and see her plaints, her brinish tears.

TO RICHARD EVELYN BYRD.

By Samuel Minton Peck.

O Richard Byrd, how brightly Fame Doth now your name enroll! And was it Fate that chose that name?

To fly across the Pole? Let old Virginia, too, again As oft of old her eye Lift up with pride and view again What's written in the sky.

Prelate, and Bard, President Have oft been hers, 'tis true, But now the Old Dominion's sent A hero through the blue; And glory's his that never dies, Nor Time can never dim.

The stars that gem the Arctic skies Have flashed a crown for him. Like demon danced the Northern light.

And mocked the homelife's glow; A spirit that no cold could blight Defied the death below.

On, onward, sped the fearless plane— But he heard not its roar Who boldly dared to die in vain,— Or live forevermore.

A thing of beauty is a joy For aye, so Keats once cried; Its loveliness can never cloy By future ages eyed.

All hail the thing in ours today, Though wrought in sea far aye, Byrd's gallantry will shine for aye, Beside the Northern Star.

A health to him, sinewed and slim; Let radios receive; But where's the painter that can limn— What poet's song can weave A Garland worthy of the cup?

For him whom Nature offered up For him whom Nature offered up The silence of the Pole.

Prepare for Guests! To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I learn that school teachers in a mid-West town have already arranged to visit Washington this summer, en route to the Philadelphia sesquicentennial.

If this is true of one town it is true of other towns, and thousands of school teachers from all over the West will be attracted to Washington, en route to Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

These people are worth catering to. A little organizing by the merchants and hotel men might be profitable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Help Urgently Needed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In my life here of over 30 years I have never inflicted a letter upon any newspaper.

The recent fire at the National Training School for Girls, of which owing to absence from the city I have just learned, is my reason, not my excuse, for this brief appeal.

Nannie Burroughs, the president, is my friend, and one of the best friends of her own race.

This disaster, at this time, is for her and her many friends, white and negro, a tragedy. The ruined building, containing dormitories, teachers' headquarters, music rooms, chapel, kitchen and dining room, must be rebuilt, and properly rebuilt, and at once.

I have approved the school, its teachers and its students, since its beginning, through visits and personal knowledge.

I hope our best negro citizens throughout the country will seize this opportunity to show their generosity and their loyalty with large and prompt gifts. I hope that all friends of the school, all who have deep in their hearts the problems of youth, will respond to this need.

The school is nonsectarian, but wholly Christian in atmosphere and principle and an asset of the District of Columbia.

Utterly unsolicited, I add mine to the call for help.

Contributions may be sent to the Washington Loan & Trust Co. for the building fund of the National Training School for Women and Girls, Inc., or to us.

More Than a Store—

If Lansburgh & Bro. merely sold merchandise—had for its sole aim the adding to its daily balance in the bank—satisfied with the humdrum routine of making money—no greater vision than selfish gain—its goal the dollar mark—if it were merely a store, it would be a very poor store, indeed, and unworthy of the friendship it has and holds.

Lansburgh & Bro. is more than a store. It is an institution of service, caring more about the satisfaction of its customers than anything else.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

THE President and Mrs. Coolidge have as their guests at the White House Col. and Mrs. George Harvey, who arrived in Washington Monday evening.

The Ambassador of Germany and Baroness Maltzan will pass the summer abroad and expect to depart for Germany the latter part of this month.

The Ambassador and Baroness Maltzan were the guests of honor of the German club, of Chicago, at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower. Among the guests were Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten. Last evening the Ambassador and Baroness Maltzan entertained the club with an informal reception at the embassy.

The Minister of Denmark, Mr. Constantin Brun, has issued invitations for a dinner tomorrow evening in the presidential suite of the Willard in honor of a Danish scientist, Dr. Schmidt, who will give a lecture on Friday at the Smithsonian institution.

Mrs. New, wife of the Postmaster General, departed yesterday by train for Detroit, where Mr. New met her. He had been attending the dedication of the Harding Memorial in Marion, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. New will go the rest of the way to Turtle Lake, in the Michigan woods, by motor.

The Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover, was the guest in whose honor Mr. Stuart W. Cramer, of Cramerton, N. C., entertained at luncheon yesterday in the presidential suite at the Willard hotel.

Tea Is Postponed.

Miss Edna Wilbur, daughter of the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Curtis J. Wilbur, who was to have been the guest in whose honor Mrs. Mabel Walker Wilebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, was to have entertained at tea this afternoon, is out of town and Mrs. Wilebrandt has postponed the tea until a later date. However, Mrs. Wilebrandt will be at home to her friends this afternoon from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock at her home, 2633 Fifteenth street.

The director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. L. S. Rowe, entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of the former minister of finance of Costa Rica, Mr. Rafael Huerta, who was also a delegate to the Pan-American congress of journalists.

Capt. E. Lombard, assistant military attaché of the French embassy, closed his apartment in the Wardman Park hotel yesterday and will sail today from New York on the Savois for France, where he will pass the summer visiting in Paris, Biarritz and the Pyrenees. He will return to Washington in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Legare will depart today for their summer home at Donnell Place, York Harbor, Maine. Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh Pulver, the latter formerly Miss Grace Waggoner, are occupying Mrs. Legare's home at 1618 Q street until the middle of June, when they will sail for Europe, to be gone for three months. On their return they will make their home in Washington.

Miss Katherine Judge will have as her guest at her apartment in Massachusetts avenue her daughter, Miss Betty Baldwin, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Theodore Baldwin, Jr., of Governors Island, N. Y. Miss Baldwin will be graduated this year from Miss Spence's school, and will arrive in Washington Saturday.

Return From Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Riggs will return to Washington tomorrow from Baltimore, N. C., where they have been the guests of the Hon. and Mrs. John Francis Amherst Cecil at Baltimore house.

Word has been received in Washington of the marriage yesterday in Peking of Miss Diana D'Hertefelle, daughter of the Belgian minister to Peking, M. Marie Dewarzee D'Hertefelle, to M. Jean Chauvel, secretary of the French legation. The ceremony was performed in the famous Peking cathedral, and the couple are passing their honeymoon in Korea.

Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten entertained informally at dinner last evening and took their guests later to the reception at the German embassy.

The marriage of Miss Lucy Porter, daughter of Representative Stephen G. Porter, to Ensign Richard S. Baron, son of Mrs. C. C. Baron, of Lowell, Mass., will take place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem chapel of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, the Rev. Dr. Phillips officiating. Miss Porter will have one attendant, Miss Lucille Bell, of Baltimore, who will be maid of honor. Lieut. Frank McCleary will be best man for the bridegroom and there will be six ushers, brother officers. The ceremony will be followed immediately by a small reception for members of the families only, at the home of the bride's father at 2219 California street.

Sanders at the Mayflower hotel will be the scene of a wedding Saturday afternoon of Miss Mary Goodwin to Mr. George Edgerton. Both Mr. Edgerton and Miss Goodwin are natives of Terra Haute, Ind., the home of the Secretary and Mrs. Sanders. Mr. Edgerton is studying law at George Washington university and is a page at the Capitol. The wedding will take place at 2:30 o'clock in the presence of a small company.

Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant sailed yesterday from New York for Europe, to pass the summer in England and France.

Sailing for Austria.

Prince and Princess Alfred Hohenlohe-Schillingburg are passing the week in New York at the Ritz-Carlton hotel. Prince and Princess Hohenlohe and their children will sail June 12 for their home in Austria.

The Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. W. Irving Glover, rejoined Mrs. Glover in their apartment in the Wardman Park hotel yesterday after a week's trip to Dallas, Tex., New Orleans, and Atlanta.

The former Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Josephus Daniels, arrived in Washington late yesterday and is staying at the Mayflower.

Representative and Mrs. Bolivar Edwards Kemp have as their guests at the Wardman Park hotel, Mrs. Walter Cline and Master Walter Cline, Jr., of Wichita Falls, Tex., and Miss Lulu Pikes, of Amite, La. They also will have as their guest over the week-end, Mrs. Harlan Flowers, of New York, who will arrive tomorrow.

Miss Mae Vance, of 3762 Northampton street, Chevy Chase, D. C., will sail today from New York on the President Harding for a tour of Europe. Miss Vance is the stepdaughter of former Senator E. T. Crawford, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Leighton-Allen Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Alice B. Allen, daughter of Mr. Ethan Allen, of New York, to Mr. John Langdon Leighton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bridge Leighton, of this city and Boston, took place yesterday afternoon at the chapel of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William P. Merrill and was followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen.

Miss Allen, who was given away by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Katherine Allen, and Miss Shena Campbell, of London. Mr. George E. Leighton was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. E. Livingston Burrill, Jr.; Mr. James R. Macon, Jr.; Mr. Horace R. B. Allen, brother of the bride; Mr. Henry K. Leighton, brother of the bridegroom; Mr.

Henry Munroe and Mr. Lilloyd K. Garrison, all of New York; Mr. David K. Este Bruce, of Baltimore, whose marriage with Miss Ailsa Meion took place in this city on Saturday, and Mr. William Van V. Warren, of Boston.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., of New York, is at the Mayflower.

Dr. Louise Stanley will be hostess at tea this afternoon in compliment to Miss Mullin, of Redlands, Calif., from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock at her home at 2633 Fifteenth street.

Mr. Robert Ash will depart today for San Antonio and Wichita Falls, Tex. He will rejoin his mother, Mrs. John Robert Ash, at the Wardman Park hotel the latter part of June and will sail July 17 on the Laconia for Europe, where Mrs. Ash and her sister, Miss Kingston, will meet him in August.

Rear Admiral W. H. G. Bullard arrived from San Francisco yesterday and is at the Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Oliphant will depart today by motor for their home in Indiana and later will continue by motor to the Pacific coast.

Mr. Joseph Mullaroy, of Augusta, Ga., will be the guest in whose honor Mr. Georgiana will entertain at dinner this evening at the

General Assembly Drops Complaints Against New York Synod.

Acted Within Its Power in Ordination, Judicial Commission Holds.

Baltimore, Md., June 1 (By A. P.).—The New York presbytery was found not guilty of insubordination by the Presbyterian general assembly, sitting as a judicial court, late today.

Three complaints against the presbytery, growing out of its failure to license preachers in the past year after being reprimanded last year, were dismissed after it was found that the presbytery assured the assembly it is trying to carry out the order given it last year.

Another complaint against the synod of New York growing out of the same case also was dismissed. The charges against the presbytery and synod resulted from the licensing two years ago of the Rev. Albert D. Gantz to preach after he had denied belief in the virgin birth.

The presbytery last year was rebuked for this act and instructed to take proper action, although the nature of such action was not determined by the assembly.

The presbytery thereupon appointed a committee of eleven to determine upon the best course of action, including an inquiry into other causes of unrest.

A minority of the New York presbytery, headed by the Rev. Walter Duncan Buchanan, complained to the assembly that the presbytery, through its committee of eleven, was endeavoring to delay action. The assembly found that "the method adopted is in harmony with the desire faithfully to carry out the mandate."

Seeking Best Method. "It is largely an interpretation of motives and good faith," the decision continued, "and the presbytery maintains it is earnestly seeking the best method."

The case, which had become celebrated as a battle between fundamentalists and modernists, ended without either side being directly involved. The ruling, finding that the New York presbytery was acting in good faith, also tacitly bound the presbytery to continue to act under the assembly.

The Rev. Henry Sloan Coffin, of New York, a liberal leader, professed to find victory in the New York presbytery in the ruling. "The attitude of the New York presbytery is fully sustained," he said. "We are fully satisfied. Our victory could not have been more thorough. This ends the complaint."

The judicial commission also rendered four other decisions. A complaint that the union of the First and South churches of Morristown, N. J., was an "unconstitutional merger" was dismissed, the union having been found to be in accordance with the rules of the presbytery.

The appeal of Harry O. Fee from a decision of the Salt Lake presbytery, which erased his name from the rolls because he had "renounced the jurisdiction of Morristown church by becoming an independent" was dismissed. His failure to appeal the case to the synod amounted to "lack of prosecution," the assembly held.

The original verdict of the synod of New Jersey, which found the Rev. Henry Mellon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, guilty of "dominating the activities of the church" in a manner not conducive to harmony in the congregation, was affirmed.

WED 50 YEARS, TWO HANG IN ONE NOOSE

Couple Had Been Told Wife Must Go to Hospital. Husband Dies.

Philadelphia, June 1.—Death together, rather than a threatened separation after a married life of 42 years, was sought today by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dagele.

They were found hanging side by side in the clothes closet of their home by their daughter, Mr. Dagele, but a few moments before an ambulance was to take Mrs. Dagele who is 72, from her husband, 73, to a hospital.

The aged man was dead, but the wife still breathed faintly. Only slight hope is held for her recovery at Northwestern hospital. Recently the wife became ill. The couple wept when told it would be necessary for Mrs. Dagele to be taken to a hospital today. Shortly before noon the daughter heard a groan from their room. The door was broken in. They were hanging together in a crudely fashioned double noose.

Dr. Butler Presents Degree to Gov. Smith

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, received the honorary degree of doctor of laws tonight at Columbia university from President Nicholas Murray Butler, who has been frequently mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for governor in opposition to Gov. Smith's expected candidacy.

Dr. Butler paid tribute to the governor as "alert, effective, public-spirited and courageous, constantly speaking the true voice of the people."

Barbed-Wire Fence Ends 1,500-Foot Fall

Latrobe, Pa., June 1 (By A. P.).—Joseph Crane, of Detroit, a stunt man, will probably live to tell the tale of his 1,500-foot fall from an airplane at Longview field, Greensburg, last night.

Within sight of hundreds of spectators Crane dropped from a plane at an altitude of some 1,500 feet. His parachute failed to open and he came down with terrific speed. Crane, about 100 feet from the ground, succeeded in releasing one end of the parachute. This slackened his speed slightly, but he struck with great force on a barbed-wire fence.

Doctors said today that his ankles were broken but that barring complications he would survive.

CHILE ASKED U. S. AID IN ARICA, ENVOY SAYS

Collier Criticizes Adverse Judgments Now Voiced at Santiago.

ALESSANDRI APPROVED

Santiago, Chile, June 1 (By A. P.).—In a long statement to the press today the American Ambassador, William M. Collier, declares that the offer of the United States of its good offices to settle the Tacna-Arica dispute was first suggested by Chile.

There has been considerable criticism of the American offer here, chiefly by former President Alessandri, who is now in the United States.

Mr. Collier says a telegram outlining the idea of an offer of the United States' good offices was sent by himself to Washington last October at the request of Jorge Matte Gormaz, then Chilean foreign minister.

At the same time Senor Matte Gormaz instructed Agustin Edwards, chief Chilean delegate to Arica, to carry on direct negotiations for a diplomatic settlement simultaneously with the plebiscite proceedings.

In calling attention to what he terms "erroneous conceptions" formed regarding the offer of good offices and to "the unjust judgments against it," the Ambassador refers to a conversation with former President Alessandri prior to the latter's recent departure for the United States.

Senor Alessandri, he says, expressed regret that, owing to his previous ignorance of diplomatic conversations, he had criticized the motives of the United States' offer. He realized that, in extending its good offices in response to suggestions from Chile, the United States had manifested the same friendliness which it had always exhibited toward Chile.

SOCIETY

Walker-Howell Nuptials.

The marriage of Miss Mary Lou Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Howell, of Okolona, Miss., to Mr. William Worth Walker, of Washington, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. As the bride's parents were not able to make the journey East to be present at the wedding, the ceremony took place at the home of Mr. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Walker, at 2519 North Capitol street, with an informal reception afterward. The Rev. Henry E. Brundage, pastor of the Eckington Presbyterian church, officiated.

Miss Howell had Miss Frances E. Elliott as her maid of honor and Mr. Walker's brother, Mr. Bernard Lomax Walker, as best man. Little Miss Jean Corning, cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

The bride's gown was of white georgette, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilacs of the valley. The maid of honor wore a pink georgette frock, and carried pink roses. The house was decorated with white roses and peonies. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of white georgette embroidered in beads. His aunt, Mrs. E. B. Lomax, of Houston, Tex., was among the out-of-town guests at the wedding.

Mr. Walker was born in Houston, Tex., but has lived in Washington most of his life, and is a graduate of McKinley high school. He is chief clerk of the Fruit Growers Express Co.

The couple will live at Phillips Terrace apartments, 1401 Argonne place, where they will be at home after June 15.

Mrs. A. H. Kirchhoff and Mrs. R. C. Clapper will be joint hostesses at a bridge-luncheon today at the Grace Dodge hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cannon, of Concord, N. C., and their four children are passing the week at the Wardman Park hotel. Mr. Cannon is the brother of Mrs. David H. Blair, wife of the commissioner of internal revenue. They will return to their home in Concord the latter part of the week.

The ladies' board of Georgetown University hospital has issued invitations to the dedication of a ward and unveiling of a bronze tablet in the hospital in memory of Sister Mary Pauline, its foundress. The exercises will take place at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Furman, of Baltimore, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ida Furman, to Mr. Albert E. Luber, of this city.

APPEAL OF SCOPE'S GIVEN TO STATE'S HIGHEST TRIBUNAL

Darrow Makes Plea, Urging Intellectual Freedom of Human Mind.

Commonwealth Counsel at Nashville Upholds Right to Regulate Schools.

Nashville, Tenn., June 1 (By A. P.).—The question of whether Tennessee's famous law against teaching the theory of evolution in State-supported schools is constitutional was formally placed before its supreme court today for decision. An opinion is not expected before the fall term.

The case brought to the State's highest court on appeal from the conviction last year of John T. Scopes, a Dayton schoolteacher, who was prosecuted by William Jennings Bryan, as one of the great Commoner's last acts, was argued today and yesterday before five justices.

The courtroom could not hold the thousands who clustered around the open-air hearings at Dayton last summer, but the room today was packed as tightly as humanity could crowd itself in, and often the court officers had to use force to keep spectators to make less noise.

Women Are Rebuked.

Women were much in evidence, and once they were admonished specifically to cease talking. It appears to be the natural noise of a crowd rather than deliberate attempts to disturb the court, for the spectators hung upon the arguments.

Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, who opposed Bryan during the trial at Dayton last summer, concluded the argument for Scopes today with a plea for the "intellectual freedom of man." He was one of six attorneys who appeared for Scopes against two for the State.

K. T. McConico, of Nashville, speaking for the State, asked the court to resist the "minister and angelic" efforts which he said were being made to teach the theory of evolution in the schools and termed the theory "this animal dogma." The other argument of today was by Thomas H. Malone, of Nashville, who appeared as a "friend of the court" in behalf of Scopes, and attacked the law as ambiguous and uncertain in its language.

Personalities Barred.

The court admonished counsel to refrain from personalities and confine their remarks to the case itself, although Darrow, when the question of personal remarks came up, advised the court and the attorneys that he would waive objection to anything said about him, his remarks or books he has written.

Mr. McConico's remark in the course of a vigorous attack on the American Civil Liberties Union, which had come to Scopes' defense, that John T. Neal, senior counsel for Scopes, "knew where to get comfort," was one of the remarks that caused an admonishment against "personal attacks."

When McConico started to read an opinion in the Lloyd case of Illinois, Justice Green suggested that the time was expiring and that he confine himself to the case before the court.

McConico asserted that Darrow, who was a counsel in the Illinois case, pleaded for unabridged freedom of speech.

He said Mr. Darrow had frequently said he was "for" any religion which gave man comfort, but that at Dayton he had referred contemptuously to Bryan's religion.

Denies Religious Aspect. Talking of the Bible, McConico said it had 60 books, but quickly corrected himself, saying 66 just as Darrow also said 66.

McConico claimed that the case ends with the right of the legislature to say what shall be taught in the public schools and that there is no religion in it.

Practically every court that has had the privilege to act has held the Christian religion as a part of the Constitution, the Tennessee supreme court three times, McConico declared.

"We are grounded on the Christian religion with religious liberty to all," he stated.

"Nobody on this side of the case pretends that evolution is a religion," Darrow in his argument said. "It is a science as accepted by every man of attainment in the field."

"We have been told it leads to anarchy or most anything that happens to strike the fancy of man," he said.

Holds Statute Vague. The courts must give meaning to every word in determining the constitutionality of a statute, Darrow said, referring to the "surgery" work of State counsel on what the legislature meant.

"What is unlawful in it?" First, it is a new statute, he said, which should be clear.

"Until the legislature of Tennessee with the aid of Mr. Bryan, of Florida, passed this law," Darrow said, "there never was anything like it."

Johns Hopkins Gives Degrees to Eight Here

Eight local persons are numbered in the class of 280 students of Johns Hopkins university who will receive degrees this month. Thirty-two States and more than a dozen foreign nations are represented in the class.

The Washingtonians in the class are Herbert Barton Porter, Alfred W. Dearing, Alice Eunice Drew, Francis Emil Gossner, William S. Holt, Arthur E. Thieson, W. Nelson Young and Margaret Swigart. Porter will receive a degree of doctor of philosophy. Dearing will receive a doctor's degree in chemistry. Holt will get a "Ph. D." in history. Miss Drew will be a bachelor of science in hygiene, while Gossner will be awarded the degree of doctor of public health. Young and Thieson will be allowed to place "A. B." after their names, while Miss Swigart will receive an "M. D."

JAIL FOR 5 NEWSPAPER MEN IN CONTEMPT CASE

Baltimore Judge Also Fines One $5,000; All Will Make an Appeal.

TOOK PICTURES IN COURT

Baltimore, Md., June 1 (By A. P.).—Labeled as the products of a journalistic system, which conceives its "duty to its employer and its reading public as above the law," five newspaper men were sentenced to a day in jail by Criminal Court Judge Eugene O'Dunne today.

Harold Ellison, managing editor of the Baltimore News, in addition to the jail sentence, was fined $5,000. All were cited for contempt of court in the publication of courtroom photographs of the Richard Reese Whittemore murder trial on May 19.

Besides Ellison, those involved were Harry Clark, city editor of the News; Earl C. Deland, managing editor of the Baltimore American, and William Klemm and William Sturm, photographers employed by the News and American.

Judge O'Dunne, although stating that in his opinion his judgment was not appealable, granted permission for an appeal to the Maryland appellate court to determine the point, and released the defendants on their own recognizance. The case probably will not be argued before fall.

"The theory of my sentence is about this," Judge O'Dunne said. "That all of these defendants are but the products of a journalistic system which looks upon its conception of duty to its employer and its reading public as above the law."

"The person highest in authority in this jurisdiction, in whom the trial of personal responsibility leads, as far as disclosed by the record in this case, is Mr. Harold Ellison, managing editor of the Baltimore News, one of the Hearst newspapers in this community."

"As the dignified affairs of the legal forum were shifted to the commerce of the street for the Hearst International Reel Corporation, with its world-wide distribution, it may not be too much to expect that the system and the syndicate of which he is but a local operator, will pay the fine, and in that way commercialism will be robbed of its chief incentive to make profit out of the administration of justice in defiance of the orders of the court."

Boy Bitten by Dog.

William Johnson, 5 years old, of 625 Franklin street northwest, was bitten on the left hand by a stray dog while playing on the front porch of his home yesterday morning. He was taken to the Stanton Park hospital for treatment.

Right to Build Bridge Granted.

Application by the State road commission of Maryland for a bridge across Marley creek, south of Glenburne, under authority of State law, has been favorably acted on by Secretary of War Davis.

R. S. COOMAN, JR., WEDS ELINOR M. PATTERSON

Chicago Society Girl, Now on Stage, Became a Bride on May 25.

SHE IS GOING TO EUROPE

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—The marriage of Miss Elinor M. Patterson, of Chicago, who left social activities for the stage, to Russell S. Cooman, Jr., of Boston, on May 25, was announced tonight by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Medill Patterson, of Chicago.

The marriage took place at Putnam, Conn., but the announcement, made through the New York Daily News, of which Mr. Patterson is part owner, gave no further details.

Mr. Cooman, whose father is a financier, is a graduate of Harvard university of the class of 1919. Mrs. Cooman made her stage debut as the nun in the Chicago presentation of "The Miracle," alternating the role with Lady Diana Manners and the Princess Maria Carmi Matchabelli.

For almost a year Mr. Cooman has urged Miss Patterson to abandon her stage career and to cancel her contract with Morris Gest, Mrs. Cooman, Jr., explained last night how the compromised agreement was reached. She said that perhaps her husband was right and that a domestic career came before a theatrical one.

"Of course my new contract with Mr. Gest is very much in the air. Mother and I are sailing on June 12, and we are going to pass August with Max Reinhardt at Salzburg," she said. Mr. Reinhardt is a German theatrical producer. Mr. Cooman will not accompany his wife abroad.

RED CROSS VISITORS HAVE ALL-DAY OUTING

Delegates to Pan-American Conference Are Entertained in Warrenton, Va.

Delegates to the second annual Pan-American Red Cross conference were entertained yesterday with a provincial Southern hospitality during an all-day holiday in Warrenton, Va., boyhood home of John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross and president of the conference. Guests were conveyed to Warrenton in motor buses and were given a luncheon by the Fauquier county chapter.

American Red Cross, of which Mrs. K. F. Bowman is chairman, at the estate of Oscar T. Crosby, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Cables of appreciation were received yesterday by Mr. Payne from President Chiari of Panama, President J. Maria Orellana of Guatemala, President Calles of Mexico, President Augusto B. Leguia of Peru and President Pedro New Ospino of Colombia.

The five presidents were elected honorary presidents of the Red Cross conference last week. The cables expressed their thanks for the honor, and expressed their desire to cooperate with the work of the conference.

Secretary of Labor Addresses Civitans

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, was the principal speaker at the Civitan club luncheon yesterday at the Lafayette hotel. He spoke on prosperity in the United States.

W. Parry Ellis, of Wales, a guest of the club, spoke in favor of wages based on production. Dr. J. H. Morris-Jones, also from Wales and a guest spoke briefly. Thomas M. Stearns, president, presided.

SWEDISH PRINCE GIVEN DEGREE BY PRINCETON

Heir to Throne Is First of Royal Family Honored by U. S. University.

HIBBEN LAUDS NATION

Princeton, N. J., June 1 (By A. P.).—Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus, heir apparent to the Swedish throne, was made an honorary doctor of law by Princeton university today.

In the presence of the faculty and the entire student body, President John Greer Hibben conferred the degree and read the citation after the crown prince had been presented by Dean W. F. Magie.

In accepting the degree, the crown prince said: "It is with feelings of mingled gratitude and humility that I accept this high distinction that you have seen fit to bestow upon me."

"This is the first time," he said, "that a member of the royal house of Sweden has received a degree from an American university. It is with deep satisfaction that I now lay claim to fraternity with the scholars of the United States."

President Hibben, declaring the visit of the crown prince at this time would serve to deepen the mutual respect of Sweden and America, said:

"Feeling that the community of scholarship is the truest democracy, we welcome you and the crown prince. As a nation we are indebted to Sweden because in the darkest moment of the civil war her son Ericsson came to our aid with his inventive genius. In time of peace, Sweden sent us her sons and daughters to help us in the difficult task of developing our pioneer settlement."

The Crown Princess Louise, who stood by her prince's side during the ceremonies, was presented with a bouquet of blue delphinium and yellow asters forming the colors of Sweden and was given an ovation that caused her to respond to the students' cheers with smiles and nods.

After the ceremonies, the crown prince and his party left for Philadelphia by motor.

Man Injured by Auto.

George Dennison, 62 years old, of 1500 Vermont avenue northwest, was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by Carlton M. Beall, of 816 Spring road northwest, yesterday morning in front of 1812 E street northwest. Dennison was taken to Emergency hospital and treated for a fracture of the right arm.

Injured in Fall From Wagon.

Joseph Abel, secretary of the Washington Hebrew congregation, at 816 Eighth street northwest, yesterday reported to police that the temple office had been entered early yesterday morning and the cash drawer robbed of $50. Entrance was gained through a coal hole in the rear of the building.

Temple Office Robbed.

Lewis Rose, 40 years old, 3240 Grant road northwest, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he jumped from the wagon he was driving as it was about to turn over in front of 2800 Broad Branch road northwest. Rose received a compound fracture of the right leg and possible internal injuries. He was taken to Emergency hospital.

DEFEAT OF J. M. LYNCH BY HOWARD SEEMS SURE

Practically Complete Vote of Typographical Union
Locals Tabulated.

WILL FIGHT FOR POLICIES

Indianapolis, June 1 (By A. P.). Charles P. Howard, of Chicago, heading the progressive party of the International Typographical union, apparently has been elected president of the organization on the face of practically complete returns, received by mail from last Wednesday's election.

James M. Lynch, for more than a quarter of a century a prominent labor leader and for many years president of the Typographical union, went down to defeat as head of the administration party.

Dissatisfaction over the administration's advancing the age of eligibility for the union's old age pension from 60 years to 65 years and requiring all members should pay a minimum pension and mortality fund assessment of $1.50 monthly caused opponents of Lynch to center their attack on him, it was said by administration leaders today. J. W. Hays, of Minneapolis, secretary-treasurer, and Seth R. Brown, first vice president, of Los Angeles, both administration party candidates were reelected.

"I do not regret our action in safeguarding the pension fund," said Mr. Lynch. "The welfare of the International Typographical union was placed above personal interest by the present executive council. There has been a difference of opinion among our members as to the proper way to administer this fund. I will continue to do everything in my power to prevent any unwise tampering with the pension institution."

Others apparently elected were: George F. Nichols, Baltimore; Frank H. Cook, Colorado Springs; Walter E. Ames, Milwaukee, trustees of the Union Printers' Home; Joe M. Johnson, Washington, D. C., agent of the Union Printers' Home; George W. Howard, Winnipeg, delegate to the Trades and Labor Congress, Canada; Charles E. Mayers, Cincinnati, board of auditors; Max S. Hayes, John C. Harding, Frank Morrison, Chicago; William R. Trotter, Vancouver, and William J. Robinson, New York, delegates to the American Federation of Labor.

The outcome of the contest for second vice president between Austin Hewson, New York, "administration," and George Bentley, New York, "progressive," is still in doubt.

Prospective Archives Location Is Reported

The latest reported prospective site for the Archives building, first of the new structures under the government building program for the Capital, is on the square between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets and B and C streets, across from the Postoffice Department building, although nothing has been released officially regarding sites from the public buildings commission since its meeting last Friday. This plan would mean the closing of Ohio avenue in this section.

Although the commission plans to hold frequent meetings to hasten the building program, the illness of Senator Smoot, its chairman, has prevented this for the present.

Durkee's Resignation Deplored at Howard

Regrets over the resignation of Dr. J. Stanley Durkee as president of Howard university were embodied in a resolution adopted by the senior class meeting yesterday.

asked to identify him. He pointed to Mr. Hogan, declaring: "There he is; there he is."

Another hearing is to be held this afternoon.

Two members of Congress appeared against Commissioner Fenning at the day hearing while his fellow commissioners came to his defense.

The testimony of Representative Green, of Florida, concerning his efforts to have one of Mr. Fenning's wards transferred to a hospital at Augusta, Ga., nearer his parents, precipitated another scene.

Mr. Green testified, that regardless of the correspondence in connection with this ward, Fred C. Hall, the fact remained that no action was taken until after he had "denounced Mr. Fenning on the floor as a human vulture." Mr. Hogan was on his feet instantly, declaring the statement was "contemptible" and that he would not "stand for it."

Correspondence Is Read.

Representative Blanton, of Texas, called upon Representative Dyer, of Missouri, to bring Mr. Hogan to order. Mr. Green stood smiling.

Hall was transferred about two weeks ago after some two years of effort to have him transferred. His father died in the meantime. The correspondence between Mr. Fenning and Mr. Green and Mr. Fenning and the veterans' bureau disclosed Mr. Fenning at various stages as "interposing" no objections provided this and that were the case and finally as unconditionally not "interposing" any objections.

But in none of the correspondence was there any evidence of the commissioner having set out to assist the parents in having the boy transferred.

Mr. Green declared that his lies had been spoken and some of the important letters in the correspondence had disappeared. Mr. Hogan assured him that the correspondence which was read was all that he had with Mr. Fenning.

Headley Demotion Discussed.

Both Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph and J. Franklin Bell insisted upon taking their full one-third portion of responsibility for the demotion one year ago of Capt. Albert J. Headley. Col. Bell, in fact, said that he had discussed the matter with Traffic Director Eldridge and upon Mr. Eldridge's complaints had come to the conclusion that if he ever "asked for another assistant," he, Col. Bell, would approve the request.

Thus, although the demotion order when raised at the board meeting caused some discussion, he was prepared fully to act on it.

Mr. Rudolph, denying the suggestion that he and Col. Bell voted for the demotion under the system of courtesy whereby the recommendations of a commissioner relating to his department are approved as a matter of course by the other commissioners, said he voted for the demotion order only after Mr. Fenning had made a "voluminous" statement and convinced him that it was the proper course.

Raynor Quotes Rudolph.

He said he did not recall having told W. Pierce Raynor, of the board of trade, at a conference a few days later that the demotion should never have been made.

Mr. Raynor was called and said Mr. Rudolph told him:

"It should have never been done, and if the President of the United States asked me the same thing I would still say it should have never been done."

It developed that the much-discussed Treasury Department regulation, No. 59, under which Mr. Fenning justified his becoming guardian for so many wards in 1919 and 1920 had been misconstrued.

White Again Testifies.

Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths hospital, testified that when the order was first promulgated it was taken to mean that mental patients could not get their compensation without having a guardian. It was subsequently determined, however, Dr. White said, that the regulation applied only to mental patients committed to other than government institutions.

When it was learned that the order had been misinterpreted, Dr. White said, his practice has been to discourage guardianships. It was not developed by whom the regulation was misinterpreted. This matter was not pressed by the committee.

Dr. White cited another reason for the guardianship peak in 1919 and 1920. It looked as though the veteran's insurance was going to be allowed to lapse, he said, and it was necessary for him to be legally declared insane, and a guardian appointed in order that the insurance could be kept up.

In this connection Dr. White submitted statistics that in 1919 Mr. Fenning served as attorney or guardian for 119 St. Elizabeths patients, in 56 instances of which Dr. White was the petitioner.

Declares Bureau Acted First.

Of these 56 cases, Dr. White testified and submitted records in support, 30 were filed "as a result of letters from the bureau of war risk insurance requesting Mr. Fenning to take steps for appointment of a guardian." In another case, he testified, the bureau asked that the hospital have a guardian appointed.

In 1920 Mr. Fenning acted for 40 of the hospital's patients, in 20 of which cases Dr. White was the petitioner. At least "seven of these petitions were filed as a result of initiative taken by the bureau of war risk insurance as shown by letters to the hospital," Dr. White testified.

It was the superintendent's purpose to show that no "conspiracy" existed between him and Mr. Fenning, as has been charged. After the two peak years the guardianships dwindled, insofar as new cases were concerned. The figures submitted by Dr. White showed that he was the petitioner in only seven of Mr. Fenning's cases from 1921 to the present.

Against the conspiracy charge, Dr. White also submitted figures to show that of the hospital's present population of 4,399 patients, only 562 have guardians and there are 403 guardians. Mr. Fenning, according to the figures, has 93 wards.

There are 943 world war veterans in the hospital at present, the figures showed, of whom but 473 have guardians, and Mr. Fenning is guardian for 57. The hospital handles the funds of 243 world war veterans.

Former Official Objected.

Dr. Henry Ladd Stickney, formerly control officer of the veterans' bureau and now stationed in Boston, identified a report which he made to the bureau in 1924 saying that Mr. Fenning frequently opposed the "transfer of wards" and apparently had a working arrangement with the hospital. He doubted, in his report, the wisdom of one guardian serving for so many wards.

Aside from the criticisms he pointed out, he said, there was no other criticism to offer against Mr. Fenning's practice.

Lucas P. Loving, local attorney, testified in connection with the Mary Ellen Sauter will case in which Mr. Fenning participated.

It was developed that this woman had been living with her son and daughter, Frederick V. Sauter and Emily Sauter. She had drawn a will making them her sole, or at least principal, heirs.

Will Case Recited.

A son-in-law, James A. Goddard, an employee of St. Elizabeths, and his wife, filed lunacy proceedings against the woman, saying under oath that she was suffering from senile dementia and wholly incompetent to execute a valid deed or contract of any kind. Mr. Fenning had not yet entered the case.

Two weeks after this petition was prepared Mr. and Mrs. Goddard contracted with Mr. Fenning, whereupon a will was prepared for the woman whom they had just previously declared to be wholly incompetent. This will split the estate equally among all the children. Mr. Fenning was appointed

Wilbur, who was to have been the guest in whose honor Mrs. Mabel Walker Wilebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, was to have entertained at tea this afternoon, is out of town and Mrs. Wilebrandt has postponed the tea until a later date. However, Mrs. Wilebrandt will be at home to her friends this afternoon from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock at her home, 2633 Fifteenth street.

The director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. L. S. Rowe, entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of the former minister of finance of Costa Rica, Mr. Rafael Huete, who was also a delegate to the Pan-American congress of journalists.

Capt. E. Lombard, assistant military attache of the French embassy, closed his apartment in the Wardman Park hotel yesterday and will sail today from New York on the Savoie for France, where he will pass the summer visiting in Paris, Biarritz and the Pyrenees. He will return to Washington in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Legare will depart today for their summer home at Donnell Place, York Harbor, Maine. Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh Pulver, the latter formerly Miss Grace Waggaman, are occupying Mrs. Legare's home at 1618 Q street until the middle of June, when they will sail for Europe, to be gone for three months. On their return they will make their home in Washington.

Miss Katherine Judge will have as her guest at her apartment in Massachusetts avenue her niece, Miss Betty Baldwin, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Theodore Baldwin, Jr., of Governors Island, N. Y. Miss Baldwin will be graduated this year from Miss Spence's school, and will arrive in Washington Saturday.

Return From Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Riggs will return to Washington tomorrow from Baltimore, N. C., where they have been the guests of the Hon. and Mrs. John Francis Amherst Cecil at Biltmore house.

Word has been received in Washington of the marriage yesterday in Peking of Miss Diana D'Hermalle, daughter of the Belgian minister to Peking, M. Marie Dewarzee D'Hermalle, to M. Jean Chauvel, secretary of the French legation. The ceremony was performed in the famous Peking cathedral, and the couple are passing their honeymoon in Korea.

Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten entertained informally at dinner last evening and took their guests later to the reception at the German embassy.

The marriage of Miss Lucy Porter, daughter of Representative Stephen G. Porter, to Ensign Richard S. Baron, son of Mrs. C. C. Baron, of Lowell, Mass., will take place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem chapel of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, the Rev. Dr. Phillips officiating. Miss Porter will have one attendant, Miss Lucille Bell, of Baltimore, who will be maid of honor. Lieut. Frank McCleary will be best man for the bridegroom and there will be six ushers, brother officers. The ceremony will be followed immediately by a small reception for members of the families only, at the home of the bride's father at 2219 California street.

General Assembly Drops Complaints Against New York Synod.

Abetted Within Its Power in Ordination, Judicial Commission Holds.

Baltimore, Md., June 1 (By A. P.).—The New York presbytery was found not guilty of insubordination by the presbytery general assembly, sitting as a judicial court, today.

Three complaints against the presbytery, growing out of its failure to license preachers in the past year after being reprimanded last year, were dismissed after it was found that the "presbytery assures the assembly it is trying to carry out" the orders given it last year.

Another complaint against the synod of New York growing out of the same case also was dismissed. The charges against the presbytery and synod resulted from the licensing two years ago of the Rev. Albert D. Gault to preach after he had been denied belief in the virgin birth.

The presbytery last year was rebuked for this act and instructed to take proper action, although the nature of such action was not determined by the assembly.

The presbytery thereupon appointed a committee of eleven to determine upon the best course of action, including an inquiry into other causes of unrest. A minority of the New York presbytery, headed by the Rev. Walter Duncan Buchanan, complained to the assembly that the presbytery, through its committee of eleven, was delaying action. The assembly found that "the method adopted is in harmony with the desire faithfully to carry out the mandate."

Seeking Best Method. "It is largely an interpretation of motives and good faith," the decision continued, "and the presbytery maintains it is earnestly seeking the best method."

The case, which has become celebrated as a battle between fundamentalists and modernists, ended without either side being directly involved. The ruling, finding that the New York presbytery was acting in good faith, also tacitly bound the presbytery to continue to act under the assembly.

The Rev. Henry Sloan Coffin, of New York, a liberal leader, professed to find a victory for the New York presbytery in the ruling. "The attitude of the New York presbytery is fully sustained," he said. "We are fully satisfied. Our victory could not have been more thorough. This ends the complaint."

The judicial commission also rendered four other decisions. A complaint that the union of the First and South churches of Warrenton, N. J., was an "unconstitutional merger" was dismissed, the union having been found to be in accordance with the rules of the presbytery.

The appeal of Harry O. Fee from a decision of the Salt Lake presbytery, which erased his name from the rolls because he had "renounced the jurisdiction of the church by becoming an independent" was dismissed. His failure to appeal the case to the synod amounted to "lack of prosecution," the assembly found.

The original verdict of the synod of New Jersey, which found the Rev. Henry Mellon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, guilty of "dominating the activities of the church" in a manner "not conducive to harmony" in the congregation, was affirmed.

WED 50 YEARS, TWO HANG IN ONE NOOSE

Couple Had Been Told Wife Must Go to Hospital. Husband Dies.

Philadelphia, June 1.—Death together, rather than a threatened separation after a married life of 50 years, was sought today by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Daegel. They were found hanging side by side in the clothes closet of their home by their daughter, Mr. Esther Develin, but a few moments before an ambulance was called to take them to a hospital.

The aged man was dead, but the wife still breathed faintly. Only slight hope is held for her recovery at Northwestern hospital. Recently the wife became ill. The couple wept when told it would be necessary for Mrs. Daegel to be taken to a hospital today. Shortly before noon the daughter heard a groan from her room. The door was broken in. They were hanging together in a crudely fashioned double noose.

Dr. Butler Presents Degree to Gov. Smith

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, received the honorary degree of doctor of laws tonight at Columbia university from President Nicholas Murray Butler, who has been frequently mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for governor in opposition to Gov. Smith's expected candidacy.

Dr. Butler paid tribute to the governor as "alert, effective, public-spirited and courageous, constantly speaking the true voice of the people."

Gov. Smith received the degree on the one hundredth anniversary of the conferring of the doctor of laws degree upon De Witt Clinton, then governor.

Barbed-Wire Fence Ends 1,500-Foot Fall

Latrebe, Pa., June 1 (By A. P.).—Joseph Crane, of Detroit, a stunt airman, will probably live to tell the tale of his 1,500-foot fall from an airplane at Longview field, Greensburg, last night.

Within sight of hundreds of spectators Crane dropped from a plane at an altitude of some 1,500 feet. His parachute failed to open and he came down with terrific speed. Crane, about 100 feet from the ground, succeeded in releasing one end of the parachute. This slackened his speed slightly, but he struck with great force on a barbed-wire fence.

Doctors said today that his ankles were broken but that barring complications he would survive.

CHILE ASKED U. S. AID IN AFRICA, ENVOY SAYS

Collier Criticizes Adverse Judgments Now Voiced at Santiago.

ALESSANDRI APPROVED

Santiago, Chile, June 1 (By A. P.).—In a long statement to the press today the American Ambassador, William M. Collier, declares that the offer of the United States of good offices to settle the Chilean dispute was first suggested by Chile.

There has been considerable criticism of the American offer here, chiefly by former President Alessandri, who is now in the United States.

Mr. Collier says a telegram outlining the idea of an offer of the United States' good offices was sent by himself to Washington last October at the request of Jorge Matta Gormaz, then Chilean foreign minister.

At the same time Senor Matta Gormaz instructed Agustin Edwards, chief Chilean delegate at Africa, to carry on direct negotiations for a diplomatic settlement simultaneously with the plebiscite proceedings.

In calling attention to what he terms the erroneous conception formed regarding the offer of good offices and to "the unjust judgments against it," the Ambassador refers to a conversation with former President Alessandri prior to the latter's recent departure for the United States.

Senor Alessandri, he says, expressed regret that, owing to his previous ignorance of diplomatic conversations, he had criticized the motives of the United States. But now he realized that, in extending its good offices in response to suggestions from Chile, the United States had manifested the same friendliness which it had always exhibited toward Chile.

White Peacock. Senator and Mrs. Walter George will sponsor the dinner.

Walker—Howell Nuptials.

The marriage of Miss Mary Lou Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Howell, of Okolona, Miss., to Mr. William Worth Walker, of Washington, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. As the bride's parents were not able to make the journey East to be present at the wedding, the ceremony took place at the home of Mr. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Walker, at 2518 North Capitol street, with an informal reception afterward. The Rev. Henry E. Brundage, pastor of the Eckington Presbyterian church, officiated.

Miss Howell had Miss Frances E. Elliott as her maid of honor and Mr. Walker's brother, Mr. Bernard Lomax Walker, as best man. Little Miss Jean Corning, cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. The bride's gown was of white georgette, and she carried a showery bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a pink georgette frock, and carried pink roses. The house was decorated with white roses and peonies. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of white georgette embroidered in beads. His aunt, Mrs. E. B. Lomax, of Houston, Tex., was among the out-of-town guests at the wedding.

Mr. Walker was born in Houston, Tex., but has lived in Washington most of his life, and is a graduate of McKinley high school. He is chief clerk of the Fruit Growers Express Co.

The couple will live at Phillips Terrace apartments, 1601 Argonne place, where they will be at home after June 15.

Mrs. A. H. Kirchoffer and Mrs. R. C. Clapper will be joint hostesses at a bridge-luncheon today at the Grace Dodge hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cannon, of Concord, N. C., and their four children are passing the week at the Wardman Park hotel. Mr. Cannon is the brother of Mrs. David H. Blair, wife of the commissioner of internal revenue. They will return to their home in Concord the latter part of the week.

The ladies' board of Georgetown University hospital has issued invitations to the dedication of a ward and unveiling of a bronze tablet in the hospital in memory of Sister May Pauline, its founder. The exercises will take place at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Furman, of Baltimore, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ida Furman, to Mr. Albert E. Lubov, of this city.

Miss Louise C. Wilson and Mrs. Leonard E. Baras, of 3714 Thirteenth street, departed yesterday for Ocean Grove, N. J., where they will pass the summer.

Darrow Makes Plea, Urging Intellectual Freedom of Human Mind.

Commonwealth Counsel at Nashville Upholds Right to Regulate Schools.

Nashville, Tenn., June 1 (By A. P.).—The question of whether Tennessee's famous law against teaching the theory of evolution in State-supported schools is constitutional was formally placed before its supreme court today for decision. An opinion is not expected before the fall term.

The case brought to the State's highest court on appeal from the conviction last year of John T. Scopes, a Dayton schoolteacher, who was prosecuted by William Jennings Bryan, as one of the great Commonwealth's last acts, was argued today and yesterday before five justices.

The courtroom could not hold the thousands who clustered around the open-air hearings at Dayton last summer, but the room today was packed as tightly as humanity could crowd itself in, and often the court had to call for quiet and urge spectators to make less noise.

Women Are Rebuked.

Women were much in evidence, and once they were admonished specifically to cease talking. It appears to be the natural noise of a crowd rather than deliberate attempts to disturb the court, for the spectators hung upon the arguments.

Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, who opposed Bryan during the trial at Dayton last summer, concluded the argument for Scopes today with a plea for the "intellectual freedom of man." He was one of six attorneys who appeared for Scopes against two for the State.

K. T. McConico, of Nashville, speaking for the State, asked the court to reject the "sinister and unclear" efforts which he said were being made to teach the theory of evolution in the schools and termed the theory "this animal dogma." The other argument of today was by Thomas H. Malone, of Nashville, who appeared as a "friend of the court," in extending its good offices in response to suggestions from Chile, the United States had manifested the same friendliness which it had always exhibited toward Chile.

Personalities Barred.

The court admonished counsel to refrain from personalities and confine their remarks to the case itself, although Darrow, when the question of personal remarks came up, advised the court and the attorneys that he would waive objection to anything said about him, his remarks or books he has written.

Mr. McConico's remark in the course of a vigorous attack on the American Civil Liberties Union, which had come to Scopes' defense, that John T. Neal, senior counsel for Scopes, "knew where to get comfort," was one of the remarks that caused an admonishment against "personal attacks."

When McConico started to read an opinion in the Lloyd case of Illinois, Justice Green suggested that the time was expiring and that he confine himself to the case before the court.

McConico asserted that Darrow, who was a counsel in the Illinois case, pleaded for unabridged freedom of speech.

He said Mr. Darrow had frequently said he was "for" any religion which gave man comfort, but that at Dayton he had referred contemptuously to Bryan's religion.

Denies Religious Aspect.

Talking of the Bible, McConico said it had 60 books, but quickly corrected himself, saying 66 just as Darrow also said 66.

McConico claimed that the case ends with the right of the legislature to say what shall be taught in the public schools and that there is no religion in it.

Practically every court that has had the privilege to act as a part of the Constitution, the Tennessee supreme court three times, McConico declared.

"We are grounded on the Christian religion with religious liberty to all," he stated.

"Nobody on this side of the case pretends that evolution is a religion," Darrow in his argument said. "It is a science as accepted by every man of attainment in the field."

"We have been told it leads to anarchy or most anything that happens to strike the fancy of man," he said.

Holds Statute Vague.

The courts must give meaning to every word in determining the constitutionality of a statute, Darrow said, referring to the "surgery" work of State counsel on what the legislature meant.

"What is unlawful in it?" First, it is a new statute, he said, which should be clear.

"Until the legislature of Tennessee with the aid of Mr. Bryan, of Florida, passed this law," Darrow said, "there never was anything like it."

"What is it that they can not teach?"

He held a teacher must know all the Bible before he could violate the law.

Johns Hopkins Gives Degrees to Eight Here

Eight local persons are numbered in the class of 280 students of Johns Hopkins university who will receive degrees this month. Thirty-two States and more than a dozen foreign nations are represented in the class.

The Washingtonians in the class are Herbert Barton Porter, Alfred W. Dearing, Alice Eunice Drew, Francis Emil Gossner, William S. Holt, Arthur E. Tholson, W. Nelson Young and Margaret Swigart. Porter will receive a degree of doctor of philosophy. Dearing will receive a doctor's degree in chemistry. Holt will get a "Ph. D. in history. Alice Drew will be a bachelor of science in hygiene, while Gossner will be awarded the degree of doctor of public health. Young and Tholson will be allowed to place "A. B." after their names, while Miss Swigart will receive an "M. D."

JAIL FOR 5 NEWSPAPER MEN IN CONTEMPT CASE

Baltimore Judge Also Fines One $5,000; All Will Make an Appeal.

TOOK PICTURES IN COURT

Baltimore, Md., June 1 (By A. P.).—Labeled as the products of a "journalistic system," which conceives its "duty to its employer and its reading public as above the law," five newspaper men were sentenced to a day in jail by Criminal Court Judge Eugene O'Dunne today.

Harold Elliston, managing editor of the Baltimore News, in addition to the jail sentence, was fined $5,000. All were cited for contempt of court in the publication of courtroom photographs of the Richard Reese Whittemore murder trial on May 19.

Besides Elliston, those involved were Harry Clark, city editor of the News; Earl C. Deland, managing editor of the Baltimore American, and William Klemm and William Sturm, photographers employed by the News and American.

Judge O'Dunne, although stating that in his opinion his judgment was not appealable, granted permission for an appeal to the Maryland appellate court to determine the point, and released the defendants on their own recognizance. The case probably will not be argued before fall.

"The theory of my sentence is about this," Judge O'Dunne said. "That all of these defendants are but the products of a journalistic system which looks upon its conception of duty to its employer and its reading public as above the law."

"The person highest in authority in this jurisdiction to whom the responsibility rests for the publication of the photographs of the trial, as far as disclosed by the record in this case, is Mr. Harold Elliston, managing editor of the Baltimore News, one of the Hearst newspapers in this community."

"As the dignified affairs of the legal forum were shifted to the commerce of the street for the Hearst International Reel Corporation, with its world-wide distribution, it may not be too much to advise the court and the attorneys that he would waive objection to anything said about him, his remarks or books he has written."

Boy Bitten by Dog.

William Johnson, 5 years old, of 625 Franklin street northwest, was bitten on the left hand by a stray dog while playing on the front porch of his home yesterday morning. He was taken to the Stanton Park hospital for treatment.

Right to Build Bridge Granted.

Application by the State road commission of Maryland for a bridge across Marley creek, south of the city, spoke in favor of wages paid on production. Dr. J. H. Glenburne, under authority of State law, has been formerly acted on by Secretary of War Davis.

R. S. CODMAN, JR., WEDS ELINOR M. PATTERSON

Chicago Society Girl, Now on Stage, Became a Bride on May 25.

SHE IS GOING TO EUROPE

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—The marriage of Miss Elinor M. Patterson, of Chicago, who left social activities for the stage, to Russell S. Codman, Jr., of Boston, on May 25, was announced tonight by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Medill Patterson, of Chicago.

The marriage took place at Putnam, Conn., but the announcement, made through the New York Daily News, of which Mr. Patterson is part owner, gave no further details.

Mr. Codman, whose father is a financier, is a graduate of Harvard university of the class of 1919. Mrs. Codman made her stage debut as the nun in the Chicago presentation of "The Miracle," alternating the role with Lady Diana Manners and the Princess Maria Carmi Matchabelli.

For almost a year Mr. Codman has urged Miss Patterson to abandon her stage career and to cancel her contract with Morris Gest. Mrs. Codman, Jr., explained last night how the compromised agreement was reached. She said that perhaps her husband was right and that a domestic career came before a theatrical one.

"Of course my new contract with Mr. Gest is very much in the air. Mother and I are sailing on June 12, and we are going to pass August with Max Reinhardt at Salzburg," she said. Mr. Reinhardt is a German theatrical producer. Mr. Codman will not accompany his wife abroad.

RED CROSS VISITORS HAVE ALL-DAY OUTING

Delegates to Pan-American Conference Are Entertained in Warrenton, Va.

Delegates to the second annual Pan-American Red Cross conference were entertained yesterday with a provincial Southern hospitality during an all-day holiday in Warrenton, Va., boyhood home of John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross and president of the conference. Guests were conveyed to Warrenton in motor buses and were given a luncheon by the Warrenton county chapter, American Red Cross, of which Mrs. K. F. Bowman is chairman, at the estate of Oscar T. Crosby, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Cables of appreciation were received yesterday by Mr. Payne from President Chief of Panama, President J. Maria Orellana of Guatemala, President Calles of Mexico, President Augusto B. Leguia of Peru and President Pedro New Ospino of Colombia.

The five presidents were elected honorary presidents of the Red Cross conference last week. The cables expressed their thanks for the honor, and expressed their desire to cooperate with the work of the conference.

Secretary of Labor Addresses Civitans

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, was the principal speaker at the Civitan club luncheon yesterday at the Lafayette hotel. He spoke on prosperity in the United States.

W. Parry Ellis, of Wales, a guest of the club, spoke in favor of wages paid on production. Dr. J. H. Glenburne, also from Wales and a guest speaker, briefly, Thomas M. Stearns, president presided.

SWEDISH PRINCE GIVEN DEGREE BY PRINCETON

Heir to Throne Is First of Royal Family Honored by U. S. University.

HIBBEN LAUDS NATION

Princeton, N. J., June 1 (By A. P.).—Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus, heir apparent to the Swedish throne, was made an honorary doctor of law by Princeton university today.

In the presence of the faculty and the entire student body, President John Greer Hibben conferred the degree and read the citation after the crown prince had been presented by Dean W. F. Magie.

In accepting the degree, the crown prince said:

"It is with feelings of mingled gratitude and humility that I accept this high distinction that you have seen fit to bestow upon me."

"This is the first time," he said, "that a member of the royal house of Sweden has received a degree from an American university. It is with deep satisfaction that I now lay claim to fraternity with the scholars of the United States."

President Hibben, declaring the visit of the crown prince at this time would serve to deepen the mutual respect of Sweden and America, said:

"Feeling that the community of scholarship is the truest democracy, we welcome you and the crown prince. As a nation we are indebted to Sweden because in the darkest moment of the civil war her son Ericson came to our aid with his inventive genius. In time of peace, Sweden sent us her sons and daughters to help us in the difficult task of developing our pioneer settlement."

The Crown Princess Louise, who stood by her prince's side during the ceremonies, was presented with a bouquet of blue delphinium and yellow asters forming the colors of Sweden, and was given an ovation that caused her to respond to the students' cheers with smiles and nods.

After the ceremonies, the crown prince and his party left for Philadelphia by motor.

DEFEAT OF J. M. LYNCH BY HOWARD SEEMS SURE

Practically Complete Vote of Typographical Union
Locals Tabulated.

WILL FIGHT FOR POLICIES

Indianapolis, June 1 (By A. P.). Charles P. Howard, of Chicago, heading the progressive party of the International Typographical union, apparently has been elected president of the organization on the face of practically complete returns, received by mail from last Wednesday's election.

James M. Lynch, for more than a quarter of a century a prominent labor leader and for many years president of the Typographical union, went down to defeat as head of the administration party.

Dissatisfaction over the administration's advancing the age of eligibility for the union's old age pension from 60 years to 65 years, and requiring members to pay a minimum pension and mortuary fund assessment of $1.50 monthly caused opponents of Lynch to center their attack on him.

It was said by administration leaders today, J. W. Hays, of Minneapolis, secretary-treasurer, and Seth R. Brown, first vice president, of Los Angeles, both administration party candidates were selected.

"I do not regret our action in safeguarding the pension fund," said Mr. Lynch. "The welfare of the International Typographical union was placed above personal interest by the present executive council. There has been a difference of opinion among our members as to the proper way to administer this fund. I will continue to do everything in my power to prevent any unwise tampering with the pension institution."

Others apparently elected were: George F. Nichols, Baltimore; Frank H. Cook, Colorado Springs; Walter E. Ames, Milwaukee; and J. M. Johnson, Washington, D. C., agent of the Union Printers' Home; George W. Howard, Winnipeg; delegates to the Trades and Labor Congress, Canada; Charles E. Mayers, Cincinnati; board of auditors; Max S. Hayes, John C. Harding, Frank Morrison, Chicago; William F. Trotter, Vancouver; and William J. Robinson, New York, delegates to the American Federation of Labor.

The outcome of the contest for second vice president between Austin Hewson, New York, "administration," and George Bentley, New York, "progressive," is still in doubt.

Prospective Archives Location Is Reported

The latest reported prospective site for the Archives building, first of the new structures under the government building program for the Capital, is on the square between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets and B and C streets, across from the Postoffice Department building, although nothing has been released officially regarding sites from the public buildings commission since its meeting last Friday.

This plan would mean the closing of Ohio avenue in this section. Although the commission plans to hold frequent meetings to hasten the building program, the illness of Senator Smoot, its chairman, has prevented this for the present.

Durkee's Resignation Deplored at Howard

Regrets over the resignation of Dr. J. Stanley Durkee as president of Howard university were embodied in a resolution adopted by the senior class meeting yesterday.

(CONTINUED FROM FIRST PAGE.) asked to identify him. He pointed to Mr. Hogan, declaring: "There he is; there he is."

Another hearing is to be held this afternoon.

Two members of Congress appeared against Commissioner Fenning at the day hearing while his fellow commissioners came to his defense.

The testimony of Representative Green, of Florida, concerning his efforts to have one of Mr. Fenning's wards transferred to a hospital at Augusta, Ga., near his parents, precipitated another scene.

Mr. Green testified, that regardless of the correspondence in connection with this ward, Fred C. Hall, the fact remained that no action was taken until after he had "denounced Mr. Fenning on the floor as a human scoundrel." Mr. Hogan was on his feet instantly, declaring the statement was "contemptible" and that he would not "stand for it."

Correspondence Is Read. Representative Blanton, of Texas, called upon Representative Dyer, of Missouri, to bring Mr. Hogan to order. Mr. Green stood smiling.

Hall was transferred about two weeks ago after some two years of effort to have him transferred. His father died in the meantime. The correspondence between Mr. Fenning and Mr. Green and Mr. Fenning and the veterans' bureau disclosed Mr. Fenning at various stages as "interposing" no objection provided this and that were the case and finally as unconditionally not "interposing" any objection.

But in none of the correspondence was there any evidence of the commissioner having set out to assist persons in having the boy transferred.

Mr. Green declared that his files had been broken and some of the important letters in the correspondence had disappeared.

Mr. Hogan assured him that the correspondence which was read was all that he had with Mr. Fenning.

Headley Demotion Discussed. Both Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph and J. Franklin Bell insisted upon taking their full one-third portion of responsibility for the demotion one year ago of Capt. Albert J. Headley, Col. Bell, in fact said that he had discussed the matter with Traffic Director Eldridge and upon Mr. Eldridge's complaints had come to the conclusion that it be ever asked for another assistant, he, Col. Bell, would approve the request.

Thus, although the demotion order when raised at the board meeting caused some discussion, he was prepared fully to act on it.

Mr. Rudolph, denying the suggestion that he and Col. Bell voted for the demotion under the system of courtesy whereby the recommendations of a commissioner are approved as a matter of course by the board, said he voted for the demotion order only after Mr. Fenning had made a "voluntary" statement and convinced him that it was the proper course.

Raynor Quotes Rudolph

He said he did not recall having told W. Pierce Raynor, of the board of trade, at a conference a few days later that the demotion should never have been made.

THE WASHINGTON POST'S DAILY LEGAL RECORD

TUESDAY, JUNE 1, 1926.
SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Headley Demotion Discussed. Both Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph and J. Franklin Bell insisted upon taking their full one-third portion of responsibility for the demotion one year ago of Capt. Albert J. Headley, Col. Bell, in fact said that he had discussed the matter with Traffic Director Eldridge and upon Mr. Eldridge's complaints had come to the conclusion that it be ever asked for another assistant, he, Col. Bell, would approve the request.

Thus, although the demotion order when raised at the board meeting caused some discussion, he was prepared fully to act on it.

Mr. Rudolph, denying the suggestion that he and Col. Bell voted for the demotion under the system of courtesy whereby the recommendations of a commissioner are approved as a matter of course by the board, said he voted for the demotion order only after Mr. Fenning had made a "voluntary" statement and convinced him that it was the proper course.

Raynor Quotes Rudolph. He said he did not recall having told W. Pierce Raynor, of the board of trade, at a conference a few days later that the demotion should never have been made.

Mr. Rudolph told him: "It should have never been done, and if the President of the United States asked me the same thing I would still say it should have never been done."

He also stated that the much-discussed Treasury Department regulation, No. 59, under which Mr. Fenning justified his becoming guardian for so many wards in 1919 and 1920 had been misconstrued.

White Again Testifies. Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths hospital, testified that when the order was first promulgated it was taken to mean that mental patients could not get their compensation without having a guardian. It was subsequently determined, however, Dr. White said, that the regulation applied only to mental patients committed to other than government institutions.

When it was learned that the order had been misinterpreted, Dr. White said, his practice has been to discourage guardianship. He testified that the regulation which the regulation was misinterpreted as being was not pressed by the committee.

Dr. White cited another reason for the guardianship peak in 1919 and 1920. It looked as though the cases were increasing and it was allowed to lapse, he said, and it was necessary for him to be legally declared insane, and a guardian appointed in order that the insurance could be kept up, which Dr. White was the petitioner.

In this connection Dr. White submitted statistics that in 1919 Mr. Fenning served as attorney or guardian for 119 St. Elizabeths patients, in 1920 for 126 instances, and in 1921 for 127 instances.

Declares Bureau Acted First. Of these 56 cases, Dr. White testified and submitted records in support, 50 were filed "as a result of letters from the bureau of war risk insurance requesting Mr. Fenning to take steps for appointment of a guardian." In another case, he testified, the bureau asked that the hospital have a guardian appointed.

In 1920 Mr. Fenning acted for 40 of the hospital's patients, in 20 of which cases Dr. White was the petitioner. At least seven of these petitions were filed as a result of initiative taken by the bureau of war risk insurance as shown by letters to the hospital," Dr. White testified.

It was the superintendent's purpose to show that no "conspiracy" existed between him and Mr. Fenning, as has been charged. After the two peak years the guardianships dwindled, insofar as new cases were concerned. The figures submitted by Dr. White showed that he was the petitioner in only seven of Mr. Fenning's cases from 1921 to the present.

Against the conspiracy charge, Dr. White also submitted figures to show that of the hospital's present population of 4,393 patients, only 562 have guardians and there are 403 guardians. Mr. Fenning, according to the figures, has 93 wards.

There are 248 world war veterans in the hospital at present, the figures showed, of whom but 473 have guardians, and Mr. Fenning is guardian for 57. The hospital handles the funds of 243 world war veterans.

Former Official Objected. Dr. Henry Ladd Stickney, formerly control officer of the veterans' bureau and now stationed in Boston, identified a report which he made to the bureau in 1924 saying that Mr. Fenning frequently opposed the "transfer of wards" and apparently had a working arrangement with the hospital. He doubted, in his report, the wisdom of one guardian serving for so many wards.

Aside from the criticisms he pointed out, he said, there was no other criticism to offer against Mr. Fenning's practice.

Lucius E. Loving, local attorney, testified in connection with the Mary Ellen Sauter will case in which Mr. Fenning participated.

It was developed that this woman had been living with her son and daughter, Frederick V. Sauter and Emily Sauter. She had drawn a will making them her sole, or at least principal, heirs.

Will Case Rejected. A son-in-law, James A. Goddard, an employee of St. Elizabeths, testified in connection with the Sauter case that she was suffering from senile dementia and wholly incompetent to execute a valid deed or contract of any kind. Mr. Fenning had not yet entered the case.

Two weeks after this petition was prepared Mr. and Mrs. Goddard contracted with Mr. Fenning, whereupon a will was prepared for the woman whom they had just previously declared to be wholly incompetent. This will split the estate equally among all the children. Mr. Fenning was appointed all.

When it was learned that the order had been misinterpreted, Dr. White said, his practice has been to discourage guardianship. He testified that the regulation which the regulation was misinterpreted as being was not pressed by the committee.

Dr. White cited another reason for the guardianship peak in 1919 and 1920. It looked as though the cases were increasing and it was allowed to lapse, he said, and it was necessary for him to be legally declared insane, and a guardian appointed in order that the insurance could be kept up, which Dr. White was the petitioner.

In this connection Dr. White submitted statistics that in 1919 Mr. Fenning served as attorney or guardian for 119 St. Elizabeths patients, in 1920 for 126 instances, and in 1921 for 127 instances.

Declares Bureau Acted First. Of these 56 cases, Dr. White testified and submitted records in support, 50 were filed "as a result of letters from the bureau of war risk insurance requesting Mr. Fenning to take steps for appointment of a guardian." In another case, he testified, the bureau asked that the hospital have a guardian appointed.

In 1920 Mr. Fenning acted for 40 of the hospital's patients, in 20 of which cases Dr. White was the petitioner. At least seven of these petitions were filed as a result of initiative taken by the bureau of war risk insurance as shown by letters to the hospital," Dr. White testified.

It was the superintendent's purpose to show that no "conspiracy" existed between him and Mr. Fenning, as has been charged. After the two peak years the guardianships dwindled, insofar as new cases were concerned. The figures submitted by Dr. White showed that he was the petitioner in only seven of Mr. Fenning's cases from 1921 to the present.

Against the conspiracy charge, Dr. White also submitted figures to show that of the hospital's present population of 4,393 patients, only 562 have guardians and there are 403 guardians. Mr. Fenning, according to the figures, has 93 wards.

There are 248 world war veterans in the hospital at present, the figures showed, of whom but 473 have guardians, and Mr. Fenning is guardian for 57. The hospital handles the funds of 243 world war veterans.

Former Official Objected. Dr. Henry Ladd Stickney, formerly control officer of the veterans' bureau and now stationed in Boston, identified a report which he made to the bureau in 1924 saying that Mr. Fenning frequently opposed the "transfer of wards" and apparently had a working arrangement with the hospital. He doubted, in his report, the wisdom of one guardian serving for so many wards.

Aside from the criticisms he pointed out, he said, there was no other criticism to offer against Mr. Fenning's practice.

Lucius E. Loving, local attorney, testified in connection with the Mary Ellen Sauter will case in which Mr. Fenning participated.

It was developed that this woman had been living with her son and daughter, Frederick V. Sauter and Emily Sauter. She had drawn a will making them her sole, or at least principal, heirs.

Will Case Rejected. A son-in-law, James A. Goddard, an employee of St. Elizabeths, testified in connection with the Sauter case that she was suffering from senile dementia and wholly incompetent to execute a valid deed or contract of any kind. Mr. Fenning had not yet entered the case.

Two weeks after this petition was prepared Mr. and Mrs. Goddard contracted with Mr. Fenning, whereupon a will was prepared for the woman whom they had just previously declared to be wholly incompetent. This will split the estate equally among all the children. Mr. Fenning was appointed all.

Headley Demotion Discussed. Both Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph and J. Franklin Bell insisted upon taking their full one-third portion of responsibility for the demotion one year ago of Capt. Albert J. Headley, Col. Bell, in fact said that he had discussed the matter with Traffic Director Eldridge and upon Mr. Eldridge's complaints had come to the conclusion that it be ever asked for another assistant, he, Col. Bell, would approve the request.

Thus, although the demotion order when raised at the board meeting caused some discussion, he was prepared fully to act on it.

Mr. Rudolph, denying the suggestion that he and Col. Bell voted for the demotion under the system of courtesy whereby the recommendations of a commissioner are approved as a matter of course by the board, said he voted for the demotion order only after Mr. Fenning had made a "voluntary" statement and convinced him that it was the proper course.

Raynor Quotes Rudolph. He said he did not recall having told W. Pierce Raynor, of the board of trade, at a conference a few days later that the demotion should never have been made.

Mr. Rudolph told him: "It should have never been done, and if the President of the United States asked me the same thing I would still say it should have never been done."

He also stated that the much-discussed Treasury Department regulation, No. 59, under which Mr. Fenning justified his becoming guardian for so many wards in 1919 and 1920 had been misconstrued.

White Again Testifies. Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths hospital, testified that when the order was first promulgated it was taken to mean that mental patients could not get their compensation without having a guardian. It was subsequently determined, however, Dr. White said, that the regulation applied only to mental patients committed to other than government institutions.

naturally beautiful complexion will come as your reward

By NORMA TALMADGE

This is the simple rule beauty experts urge

GAINING a clear and charming complexion today no longer involves long and costly beauty treatments. Modern skin care strives for natural loveliness, effected in a simple way—a way any woman can follow without expense or bother.

The simple rule below has brought the reward of a naturally clear skin to more women than any other method known.

Try it, if only for one week. Note the improvement that comes. The world's accepted beauty method today is simply the balmy olive and palm lather of Palmolive Soap used in this way:

THE RULE MAKE IT YOURS STARTING TODAY

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave your skin over night. They close their pores and clog them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Follow these rules day in and day out. Your skin will be soft and lovely—naturally colorful and clear.

Do not use any cosmetic in the morning, or at night, or at all.

any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use soap on your face." Some thought that was too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond doubt.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

It costs but 10¢ the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what it does for your skin. Write to Palmolive Soap Co. (Inc.), Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Miss McDonald—I am a constant reader of your articles and I surely think the world of your wonderful advice. I have just read the little repetition of the story with four children, three of them her hubby's. She says she loves her own best. Well, naturally yes, but she soon will love the others too. Who could help loving those dear little ones left without their dear mother? Love them and God bless them.

And now as to her doing children's dressmaking. Miss McDonald, that was surely good advice you gave her, and I'd like to give her a little more if it is all right for you. I married twelve years ago, and there were three lovely children, two girls and a boy and I married. I never could not sew a stitch nor even know how to run a machine, so like this little mother when I went shopping the prices staggered me especially when you have to watch every cent. So I started right in and bought a machine on the installment plan, and then my goods and a pattern such as a baby dress and a boy and a girl's dress to start with. Of course they were not as good but they were wearable

This is the way she does it. Tuesday through Friday—she takes nothing at all but milk. Four glasses a day. The first glass appears at 10:30 and is consumed slowly. The second

Maybe Mitzi Inherited Her Extravagance Along With Her Cleverness

By Jay V. Jay

Dad is giving Mital one of his famous economy lectures. No matter how many he gives her he will always have one left. Mital is out to convince him that the seat with the fitted yoke is not expensive considering the workmanship and Dad must see for himself how smart it is.

It was really very incongruous for this package to arrive, not to say embarrassing. Dad has lost his voice and his words. He only has looks left—some very mean ones. They do not seem to be softened by the attractive black crepe gown with the laces and glove effect so finely placed.

"But I must show you, Dad," says Mital, taking the bull by the horns, as it were. "I must show how really practical I am. This coat was so reasonable." Dad doesn't look as if he could be reasoned with. The coat is taffeta, straight in line and with a stand-up collar. It's becoming to Mital, of course.

"Not only was it reasonable," continues Mitai, "but it is reversible," demonstrates the seedling child. It is lined with a Scotch plaid wooden lining, and can be worn taffeta or plaid side out. Well, of course, Mitai is extravagant, but she's clever, too. And after all—well, thinks Dad, she does take after her father! And so it ended suitably.

extravagance is economy when she cleverly displays her usual (and, of course, to be relied upon) good taste in choosing two coats in one—such as these reversible coats—that you will find here—

BANK CLEARINGS HERE SHOW LARGE INCREASE

Gain for May Over April Nearly $3,000,000; More Than Treble in 11 Years.

LOCAL STOCKS STRONG

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Since bank clearings have come to be generally regarded as the barometer of a city's prosperity, it must be accepted that business in the District continues to hold up well, as evidenced by the healthy gain in the totals of checks passing through the Washington Clearing House association during May, which amounted to the substantial sum of $115,988,968.24.

A comparison with the clearings in April brings out that the total for the month just ended is a gain of $3,000,267.61, comparing the encouraging total for May with the total of $112,988,698.63 for the corresponding month last year, developing an increase of $3,000,267.61, and compared with May, 1916, when clearings totaled $35,774,842, a gain of $83,193,824.24, is shown for May of the present year.

Washington bank clearings for the five months past have ascended to a total of $567,325,377.92, and are $26,163,795.92 ahead of the corresponding months last year, disclosing that with a continued normal increase during the remaining months of the year, the all-time record of $1,353,278,092, established at the close of 1925, will be very substantially improved upon.

Totals of local monthly clearings to date, with comparative figures for the corresponding months of 1925 follow:

	1924	1925
January	$112,933,440.90	$109,562,616
February	$9,026,073.02	$8,021,370
March	$20,466,787.03	$19,920,979
April	$115,978,408.73	$112,988,698.63
May	$115,988,968.24	$112,988,698.63

Local Trading Moderate.

Normal conditions prevailed in the financial district yesterday when business was resumed after a triple holiday, which started after the close of business Friday. While banks were open Saturday little business was done.

The week on the Washington Stock Exchange began with only a moderate volume of trading yesterday, but quotations were strong. Merchants Transfer & Storage common began the day 1/2 point up with 30 shares changing hands at 115, but a full point was parted with on the next side of 14 shares which moved at 114, when offerings ceased. Lanston Monotype was unchanged at $6, as was Capital Traction at 103. Potomac Electric Power preferred at 107, and Washington Railway & Electric preferred at 88 3/4.

District National Bank climbed 9 points to 225 on a 10-share lot turnover, and Second National Bank, marked up 1 1/2 per cent extra dividend, was strong, selling at 260 1/2 for a 10-share lot and at 260 1/4 for a 5-share lot. Capital Traction 5s sold at 100 1/4, and Washington Gas Light 6s in the smaller denomination at 102 1/4, and in the larger at 104.

Brokers Make Bond Offering.

Harris, Forbes & Co., and Redmond & Co., are offering today a new issue of $3,000,000 Stettin Public Utilities Co. first closed mortgage sinking fund 7 per cent gold bonds, due April 1, 1946. The bonds are priced at 94 1/2, and interest, to yield about 7.55 per cent.

Stettin Public Utilities Co., all of whose shares are owned by the City of Stettin, Germany, controls the utility companies supplying that city with electric light and power, gas, tramway and water service. Stettin is the most important German port on the Baltic and German third-railway station.

Bank, and that depositors, friends and officers and directors of the institution were not ungrateful of this fact was apparent yesterday afternoon, when huge baskets of flowers began to arrive.

The branch is under direction of Wallace McK. Stowell, a vice president, who has been with the institution since its establishment in 1890. Mr. Stowell has been most active in banking circles and is widely known throughout the city. He is a past president of the Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, and is still actively interested in its important work.

When the branch at Seventeenth and H streets northwest opened deposits totaled $42,000. Today the deposits approximate $750,000, and officers and directors will receive congratulations and congratulations upon their foresight in the selection of the strategic location the uptown office occupies.

Officers of the bank are: Floyd E. Davis, president; Albert S. Gately, executive vice president; John W. Brawner, Wallace McK. Stowell and H. F. Osterlender, vice presidents; James A. Super, cashier; J. E. Wilson, J. Everett Bairo and J. Frank Rice, assistant cashiers. Directors, other than the senior officers are: Stephen M. Chase, Robert A. Dore, W. W. Griffin, Melvin C. Hazen, Leroy W. Herron, Peter Lattner, Andrew G. Lofner, Howard R. Norton, George C. Humphrey, Samuel C. Redman and William D. Sullivan.

Haynes Returns to City.

Harry V. Haynes, president of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank and chairman of the Washington Clearing House association, was back at his desk yesterday after an absence in New York, where he attended the meeting of the National Credit Men's association, followed by a week-end at Atlantic City.

Stellwagen Entertains Bankers.

Edward J. Stellwagen, president of the Union Trust Co., entertained a party of bankers, business and professional men over the holidays at his country estate on West river, Md. Those from Washington who were his guests were Y. E. Booker, George E. Hamilton, W. J. Flather, John J. Hamilton, William L. Miller, Louis E. Jeffries, George T. Dunlop and Frank C. Henry.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

Oil City, Pa., June 1 (By A. P.).—Credit balances $5.58; runs 153,375; average runs 48,312; shipments 158,710; average shipments 55,331.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—A moderate early advance on low private condition figures and steady Liverpool cables was followed by reactions in the cotton market today owing to a more favorable view of the weather outlook. After selling up to 17 1/2, October reacted to 17 1/2 and closed at that figure, the general market closing quiet, net unchanged to 4 points lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points. Active months showed net advances of 7 to 10 points during the forenoon. There probably was some buying on another of the private end-May crop reports, placing the condition at only 65.9 and the decrease in acreage at 2.3 per cent. This decrease was interpreted by the report as pointing to an area under cultivation of about 45,376,000 acres and the crop indication contingent upon the character of the weather, &c., was figured at only 12,279,000 bales.

Considerably below the condition reports of last week, the figures led to covering, and there also may have been a little buying early on reports of rains in the Southwest which recently complained of too much moisture. A feeling prevailed in some quarters, however, that these rains would be more beneficial than otherwise in parts of Texas and Oklahoma, and that they might work eastward into sections which have been complaining of droughty conditions. The outlook was for clearing weather following rains in the Southwest, and on the whole, a more optimistic view of the weather news and outlook seemed to prevail in later trading. July sold off from 18 1/2 to 18 3/8; December, from 17 1/2 to 17 1/4, the market closing at the lowest.

Seven private end-May crop reports have now made their appearance, condition figures ranging from 65.9 up to 72 and averaging 69.1. The average of acreage figures published by four authorities is 47,263,000. A report made at a recent cotton conference was that the cotton crop in the United States is estimated at 12,279,000 bales.

Authorities on Business See No Depression Ahead

By H. S. FONTAINE.

New York, June 1.—Authorities on business conditions, such, for instance, as the Alexander Hamilton Institute, can find nothing to indicate a depression which the professional pessimists have been suggesting, though they find that the country is approaching a period when a seasonal curtailment of production is natural. It is not illogical to expect that the curtailment may possibly be somewhat more pronounced than in 1925. Trade reactions normally follow years of heavy production and substantial increases in retail sales. The important question, however, is whether the decrease in production and that in sales will only be moderate or whether a period of actual depression and deflation is at hand. On this question the authority referred to says:

"At the moment there are no signs of serious depression. The discount rate on prime commercial paper is the same as a year ago; the reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve Bank is 75.4 per cent, as compared with 77.0 per cent a year ago. "These figures indicate that money market conditions have not seriously tightened during the last twelve months. The figures, however, show that loans on the New York Stock Exchange command a slightly higher interest rate than a year ago, and that the ratio of loans to deposits of the New York banks is now 107.57 per cent, as compared with 103.79 per cent in May, 1925. This does reflect a slight distension of stock exchange credit, as compared with a year ago. "The money market, however, continues very favorable to the sale of real estate mortgages and corporation bonds. During the first four months of 1926 the issues of new capital securities totaled $2,315,000,000 as compared with $2,132,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 8.6 per cent. In the face of these large offerings of securities the bond market has not only held firm but has advanced, and is now at the highest level since the war. This means a great deal in a country which proceeds with the development of natural resources and the requirements of an increasing population whenever the money market is favorable. "The favorable bond market does not mean that building contracts and automobile production during the last half of 1926 can not fall below 1925. It does mean, however, that the money market will not interfere seriously with the business affairs of 177,000,000 people in the United States."

January	705,000,000	694,000,000
February	694,000,000	771,000,000
March	694,000,000	915,000,000
Total	2,093,000,000	2,380,000,000

These figures suggest the real reason why the industry as a whole added relatively less to its storage supply in these winter months than has been the custom in recent years. The following table shows the estimated demand to the end of the year and the prospective drain upon storage supplies, assuming current supply for the period to be at the rate shown by latest government figures:

April	10,000,000	10,000,000
May	10,000,000	10,000,000
June	10,000,000	10,000,000
July	10,000,000	10,000,000
August	10,000,000	10,000,000
September	10,000,000	10,000,000
October	10,000,000	10,000,000
November	10,000,000	10,000,000
December	10,000,000	10,000,000
Total	110,000,000	110,000,000

The refineries of the country are rated with a capacity very much greater than their actual capacity, because the total figures include many obsolete plants and many others which can only be operated under the most favorable conditions. Practically all refineries that can yield a profit at present level of prices are now operating at capacity. A few are being operated in anticipation of price advances. This means that if the production is to be materially increased, the increase must come from the less efficient units in the industry.

These units have an average recovery of about 23 per cent of gasoline from the barrel of crude as compared with 50 per cent to 60 per cent by some of the leading companies. It is obvious that a 25 per cent plant must obtain much higher prices in order to yield a profit than a 60 per cent plant, and very few of these 25 per cent plants will operate unless gasoline prices move sharply up.

A comparison of the percentage increases in gross and net income over 1924 figures earned by the five leading Southern carriers and

two other roads which serve parts of the South with the percentage increases earned by all United States railroads, furnished an interesting barometer of growth and business activity in the South, according to a survey made in the June issue of the Investment Review, just published by the Trust Company of Florida at Miami.

The percentages of increase in earnings are:

	Pct.
Gain for Southern railroads (gross)	7.0
Gain for U. S. railroads (gross)	3.0
Gain for Southern railroads (net)	17.0
Gain for U. S. railroads (net)	13.0

Financial authorities state that expansion in railroad traffic in the South means increased outlay in additional facilities this year. This is borne out by the expansion programs of the Southern roads for 1926, already well under way. A recent financial report stated:

"While several of the roads are reticent about their capital budgets, it may be estimated that the seven major railroads operating in the South of participating in the Florida business, will spend between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 on expansion of their properties this year. Such expenditures will exceed those of 1925 by $25,000,000 to $75,000,000. Ample financial basis for this expansion is provided by gross and net earnings. In gross and net earnings Southern roads were well ahead of the railroads as a whole, and in net gains were exceeded only by the New England roads and those of the Potomac district, itself a part of the Southern region in the wider sense."

BANK CLEARINGS HERE SHOW LARGE INCREASE

Gain for May Over April Nearly $3,000,000; More Than Treble in 11 Years.

LOCAL STOCKS STRONG

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Since bank clearings have come to be generally regarded as the barometer of a city's prosperity, it must be accepted that business in the District continues to hold up well, as evidenced by the healthy gain in the totals of checks passing through the Washington Clearing House association during May, which amounted to the substantial sum of $118,968,666.24.

A comparison with the clearings to April brings out that the total for the month just ended is a gain of $2,990,257.51. Comparing the encouraging total for May with the total of $115,295,665 for the corresponding month last year, depicts an increase of $3,673,001.24, and compared with May, 1915, when clearings totaled $35,771,842, a gain of $83,193,824.24, is shown for May of the present year.

Washington bank clearings for the five months past have ascended to a total of $567,325,377.92, and are $26,163,795.92 ahead of the corresponding months last year, disclosing that with a continued normal increase during the remaining months of the year, the all-time record of $1,353,278,092, established at the close of 1925, will be very substantially improved upon.

Totals of local monthly clearings to date, with comparative figures for the corresponding months of 1925 follow:

	1926	1925
January	$112,553,140.90	$109,362,416.00
February	106,823,052.00	104,823,052.00
March	120,485,287.00	110,829,929.00
April	115,095,408.75	115,295,665.00
May	118,968,666.24	115,295,665.00
Total	$567,325,377.92	$541,161,082.00

Second National Bank, marked up 1 1/2 per cent extra dividend, was strong selling at 260 1/2 for a 10-share lot and at 260 1/4 for a 5-share lot. Capital Traction 5s sold at 109 1/2, and Washington Gas Light 6s in the smaller denomination at 102 1/4, and in the larger at 104.

Brokers Make Bond Offering. Harris, Forbes & Co., and Redmond & Co., are offering today a new issue of $3,000,000 Stettin Public Utilities Co. first closed mortgage sinking fund 7 per cent gold bonds, due April 1, 1946. The bonds are priced at 94 1/2 and interest, to yield about 7.55 per cent. Stettin Public Utilities Co., all of whose shares are owned by the City of Stettin, Germany, controls the utility companies supplying that city with electric light and power, gas, tramway and water services. Stettin is the most important German port on the Baltic sea and ranks third in importance of all German seaports. It is located about 75 miles north of Berlin, has a population of more than 258,000 and is the capital and largest city of the province of Pomerania. Net earnings of the company are said to be more than 7.8 times annual bond interest.

Bankers' Luncheon Today. The weekly forum luncheon of the District Bankers' association will be held today at the City Club at 12:45 p. m. While there are many matters now being considered by various committees of the association, it is expected that any discussions arising today will pertain solely to plans for the annual convention to be held at Hot Springs, Va., June 17 to 20. It is understood that an informal report will be forthcoming from the chairman of the sports committee, and it is expected that an interesting announcement will be made by E. J. McQuade, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Authorities on Business See No Depression Ahead

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, June 1. Authorities on business conditions, such, for instance, as the Alexander Hamilton Institute, can find nothing to indicate a depression which the professional pessimists have been suggesting, though they find that the country is approaching a period when a seasonal curtailment of production is natural. It is not illogical to expect that the curtailment may possibly be somewhat more pronounced than in 1925. Trade recovery is normally followed years of heavy production and substantial increases in retail sales. The important question, however, is whether the decrease in production and that in sales will only be moderate or whether a period of actual depression and deflation is at hand. On this question the authority referred to says:

"At the moment there are no signs of serious depression. The discount rate on prime commercial paper is the same as a year ago, the reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve Bank is 75.4 per cent, as compared with 77.9 per cent a year ago.

"These figures indicate that money market conditions have not seriously tightened during the last twelve months. The figures, however, show that loans on the New York Stock Exchange command a slightly higher interest rate than a year ago, and that the ratio of loans to deposits of the New York banks is now 107.57 per cent, as compared with 103.79 per cent in May, 1925. This does reflect a slight distension of stock exchange credit, as compared with a year ago.

"The money market, however, continues very favorable to the sale of real estate mortgages and corporation bonds. During the first four months of 1926 the issue of new capital securities totaled $2,315,000,000 as compared with $2,132,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 8.6 per cent. In the face of these large offerings of securities the bond market has not only held firm but has advanced, and is now at the highest level since the war. This means a great deal in a country which proceeds with the development of natural resources and the requirements of an increasing population whenever the money market is favorable.

"The favorable bond market does not mean that building contracts and automobile production during the last half of 1926 can not fall below 1925. It does mean, however, that the money market will not interfere seriously with the business affairs of 177,000,000 people in the United States."

Gasoline consumption so far this year has greatly exceeded the industry's expectations. Early in the year one of the most prominent experts in this line estimated that the total gasoline demand in 1926 would be approximately 15 per cent greater than the total demand in 1925. The actual demand in the first three months of the year showed an increase of 22 per cent. The estimate for the first three months compared with the actual demand in these three months is shown below.

Month	Estimated demand (gals.)	Actual demand (gals.)
January	798,007,000	864,387,000
February	808,307,000	864,387,000
March	835,962,000	864,387,000
Total	2,442,276,000	2,593,161,000

These figures suggest the real reason why the industry as a whole added relatively less to its storage supply in these winter months than has been the custom in recent years.

The following table shows the estimated demand to the end of the year and the prospective drain upon storage supplies, assuming current supply for the period to be at the rate shown by latest government figures.

Month	Estimated demand (gals.)	Prospective supply (gals.)
April	883,025,000	1,022,041,000
May	1,062,800,000	1,839,017,000
June	1,141,115,000	1,844,284,000
July	1,220,000,000	1,400,822,000
August	1,214,038,000	1,196,370,000
September	1,141,115,000	914,356,000
October	1,141,115,000	750,330,000
November	1,000,720,000	650,385,000
December	977,552,000	681,936,000

These units have an average recovery of about 23 per cent of gasoline from the barrel of crude as compared with 50 per cent to 60 per cent by some of the leading companies. It is obvious that a 25 per cent plant must obtain much higher prices in order to yield a profit than a 60 per cent plant, and very few of these 25 per cent plants will operate unless gasoline prices move sharply up.

A comparison of the percentage increases in gross and net income over 1924 figures earned by the five leading Southern carriers and

two other roads which serve parts of the South with the percentage increases earned by all United States railroads, furnishes an interesting barometer of growth and business activity in the South, according to a survey made in the June issue of the Investment Review, just published by the Trust Company of Florida at Miami.

The percentage of increase in earnings are:

	Per cent
Gain for Southern railroads (gross)	7.6
Gain for U. S. railroads (gross)	2.0
Gain for Southern railroads (net)	17.0
Gain for U. S. railroads (net)	15.0

Financial authorities state that expansion in railroad traffic in the South means increased outlay in additional facilities this year. This is borne out by the expansion programs of the Southern roads for 1926, already well under way. A recent financial report stated:

"While several of the roads are reticent about their capital budgets, it may be estimated that the seven major railroads operating in the South or participating in the Florida business, will spend between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 on expansion of their properties this year. Such expenditures will exceed those of 1925 by $25,000,000 to $75,000,000. Ample financial basis for this expansion is provided by gross and net earnings. In gross and net earnings Southern roads were well ahead of the railroads as a whole, and in net gains were exceeded only by the Santa Fe and Great Northern and those of the Pocahontas district, itself a part of the Southern region in the wider sense."

The net operation income and the 1925 percentages of increase over

Stettin Public Utilities Company

(Öffentliche Werkbetriebe der Stadt Stettin, G.m.b.H.)

First (closed) Mortgage Sinking Fund 7% Gold Bonds

Dated April 1, 1926

Interest payable April 1 and October 1. Principal and interest payable at Harris, Forbes & Company, New York City, or Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, in United States Gold Coin. Bonds may be redeemed through operation of the sinking fund at 100 and interest, and will be callable as a whole or in part, and including April 1, 1931 at 102 1/2 and interest, and thereafter at 100 and interest. Coupon Bonds in denomination of $1,000, registrable as to principal only. Deutsche Treuhänder-Gesellschaft, Berlin, Trustee. Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Co-Trustee.

Annual sinking fund payments commencing January 15, 1927, calculated to be sufficient to retire a minimum of 50% of this issue by maturity.

Information in regard to the Company, these Bonds and the security therefor is given in a letter, dated May 27, 1926, signed by Messrs. Mayer and Dubner, Managing Directors, copies of which will be furnished on request, which is summarized in part as follows:

Company: Stettin Public Utilities Company, all of whose shares are owned by the City of Stettin, Germany, controls the utility companies supplying that City with electric light and power, gas, tramway and water services. One of these utility companies also supplies, indirectly, electrical energy in several adjacent counties. Stettin is the most important German port on the Baltic Sea and ranks third in importance of all German seaports. It is located about seventy-five miles north of Berlin, has a population of over 258,000 and is the capital and largest City of the Province of Pomerania.

Security: These $3,000,000 of Bonds will be the direct obligations of Stettin Public Utilities Company, and will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first (closed) mortgage or deed of trust on substantially all the fixed properties of the operating subsidiaries of the Company, subject with respect to one of the subsidiary properties to prior charges under the Dawes Plan estimated as not exceeding $250,000 principal amount. The aggregate maximum annual charges under the Dawes Plan and the German Laws enacted to carry the Dawes Plan into effect, for all the operating subsidiaries are estimated as not exceeding $54,100.

Valuation: The present reproduction value of the properties which will secure these Bonds, based on the estimates of an independent American engineer, amounts after liberal depreciation to over 4 1/2 times this issue of $3,000,000 Bonds. This value would be considerably higher on the basis of costs in the United States, and will be increased by the application of part of the proceeds of this issue of Bonds.

Earnings: Based on an examination by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, the consolidated earnings of the subsidiary operating companies were as follows. Since substantially all the fixed properties of these subsidiaries are to be subject to the lien of the mortgage or deed of trust securing these Bonds, no deduction has been made for minority stock interests.

Twelve months ended December 31, 1925

Gross Earnings, including non-operating income $4,258,370

Operating Expenses, Maintenance, Taxes, etc., chargeable to operation (including estimated maximum charges under Dawes Plan) 2,605,940

Net Earnings $1,652,430

Annual Interest on $3,000,000 Bonds (this issue) 210,000

Balance, before Depreciation, etc. $1,442,430

Net Earnings as Above Over 7.8 Times Annual Bond Interest

Over 88% of the above net earnings were derived from the electric light and power, gas and water properties. Furthermore, the above earnings do not reflect any benefits either from the new gas generating plant nor from the additional electric generating facilities now being installed.

All conversions from German to United States currency have been made at 4.20 Gold Marks to the Dollar. The information contained herein having in large part been transmitted by cable, the contents of this advertisement are subject to cable errors.

We Recommend These Bonds for Investment

Price 94 1/2 and Interest, to Yield About 7.55%

Bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of our counsel. It is expected that interim receipts of Harris Trust and Savings Bank will be deliverable on or about June 28, 1926.

STIFFENING CALL FUNDS HALT STOCKS' ADVANCE

Demand for Some Issues Continues Good; Van Sweringen Rails Bought.

SOME STEELS HOLD UP

Special to The Washington Post.
New York, June 1.—Call money
In diminishing supply as a result of banks' June 1 requirements and the rising of the rate from a renewal figure of 4 per cent to 5 per cent at which the market closed.
checked rising prices on the stock market today and induced considerable profit-taking, which made for a generally heavy general list and a contraction of dealings, the turnover falling well below 300,000 shares.

The stock loan rate, the highest since April 13, when renewals were made at that figure, chilled speculative enthusiasm in the share market and the trading pace slackened. The market, which had been once set in motion more than a week ago suffered the first real setback it has experienced. Continuing absence from Wall street of the money left town for the Memorial day holidays, and the fact that had something to do with the marked slowing down of activity. It probably was true, too, that the stock market had been pointed to the fact that it was sort of speculative way station, and, having arrived there, was resting.

Demand for certain stocks, however, continued very good in the face of the plainly evident lack of concerted buying and the shading of values in many directions, led by Chesapeake & Ohio, which sold at one time $1\frac{1}{2}$ net higher, although it subsequently reacted, to close net unchanged. The Van Sweringen raffs were well bought in response to reports that a new Nickel Plate plan would be announced soon. Per Marquette (after following C. & O. in reactions) closed $3\frac{1}{2}$ net higher.

There was a rising tendency and a deal of trading activity in a number of other rails, although most of them lost the greater part, if not all of their gains in late profit taking. Southern Railway, New Haven, Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville & Nashville were among these—the latter pair holding a point of their advances, however. On the other hand, Atchafalpa lost 2½, on the day, and New York Central 1½, and a few more of the carrier shares were Among the firmest spot in the industrial division was the steel group. United States Steel common sold ex-dividend $1.75 at a price which, at one stage, counting the dividend, was equivalent to 126, the highest quoted for it in about a month. Bethlehem, Gulf States and most of the other independent ones were sympathetically strong, but sold off with the group leader in the late session. Atlantic Refining closed 3 1/2 off.

Oils were irregular, but demand for Lago was good and Standard of California and Marland were strong most of the day. The irregularities which characterized the other groups also applied to the motors among which General Motors, although holding but half of its independent advance, closed $\frac{1}{8}$ net higher. Dodge preferred and Packard showed fractional gains, but Mack Trucks yielded $2\frac{1}{2}$ and most of the rest of the group closed moderate recessions. Baldwin Locomotive, International Combinations and one or two other specialties showed individual strength. Booth Fisheries common and first preferred advanced sharply.

Recessions of 1 to 3 points were the rule among the rubbers, sugars and such specialties as General Electric, American Ice, Woolworth, United Drug, Postum Cereal, California Packing, Foundation Co., and most of the local tractions.

The foreign exchange market was irregular. Sterling was slightly lower, but French and Belgian francs moved higher, for gains of 6 and 7 points respectively; lire gained 4½, and Norwegian and Danish kroner 12 and 6 points respectively. Pesetas lost 8 points on a small turnover.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, June 1 (By the Associated Press).—Trading in today's curb market was rather listless, with the price of the Treasury bonds Stiffer call money rates, the absence of several large money orders and the apparent difficulty of pool operators in tracing a public following were heard as contributory causes to the selling movement.

Oils were again active but private reports of another increase in crude oil output from the Persian Gulf had a tendency to restrain bullish operations. Most of the active issues showed only narrow fractional changes on the day. Standard Oil of New York "when in quest" stock touched a new high

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).
The Atkinson, Wanderer, & Santa Fe

Mr. Atkinson, Copeland & Salomon, New York City, said: "The road has received $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 a year for additions and betterments to handle the increase in the road's business. W. B. Storey, president, said today: "As far as we can see now we shall need all our surplus after dividends for some years to come. There are still some uncertainties in our position, although they are going to be settled down. In the near year we settled with the government for the guaranty period. We just received notice that we owe $1,400,000 back taxes for 1919 & 1920, but this is taken care of by reserves."

Mr. Storey said the principal uncertainty was the question of valuation, the decision on which would affect the amount of recapture earnings that might have to go to the government. Briefs have been filed and a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission has been set for this month. "A 7 per cent stock is a good stock," he added, "and by putting surplus earnings into the property we are more nearly making the 7 per cent dividend a permanency."

Baldwin Locomotive Works has an order involving about $2,000,000 from the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe for ten Mikado and fifteen Santa Fe locomotives, also eight locomotives from the Louisville & Nashville. The company's unfilled orders are the largest since 1923. The Louisville & Nashville has bought fifteen combination mail and passenger cars from American Car & Foundry and ten baggage cars from Pressed Steel Car Co.

May sales of Sears Roebuck Co. increased to $19,339,227 from $17,468,982 in May last year, total of $108,348,928 for the 6 months of 1926, against $102,143,358 a year ago.

Commercial failures in the United States in May are compiled at 1.7 by R. G. Dun & Co., with indebtedness of $33,543,318 against 1.9 defaults in April and liabilities $28,487,321. Failures in May last year were 1.767 with liabilities $37,026,552.

Two contracts involving $3,500,000 have been awarded to the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation. One is for 33 patrol boats for the United States coast guard, and the other for six Diesel electric ferries to be operated between New York and New Jersey terminals of the Erie railroad. The company has inaugurated a system of standardized ship building at its Camden plant.

Heavier freight traffic on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul reported for the first 28 days of May, compared with the same period last year, 159,667 carsload against 146,928.

New tin mills of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., in the Chicago district, are nearing completion and will be in operation in a few weeks. The company's earnings for the first half of 1926 are estimated at $6.75 to $7.00 a share. The annual dividend rate is $4.00.

Pig iron sales in the New York market last week increased about 3,000 tons over the week before. Pending inquiry for about 10,000 tons of which more than half is for various plants of General Electric Co. Prices are unchanged at the base of $20 a ton, Buffalo, and $21.50 to $22 Eastern Pennsylvania for No. 2 foundry grade.

Enlargement of the capital structure of the Prudence Co., Inc., real estate mortgage and bond house, involving the sale of $1,500,000 bond issue was announced today by William M. Grove, president. The bonds which are collateralized by trust 5 1/4 per cent securities, have been sold to a banking group headed by Halsey Stuart Co., who will make a public offering shortly.

The capital of the Prudence Co. has been increased from $2,500,000 to $10,000,000 through the issuance of $5,000,000 new preferred stock carrying voting privileges and an additional $2,500,000 of common shares. The guarantee fund based on Prudence bonds and certificates has been increased from $1,500,000 to $12,500,000.

Deep Thought Is Aurora Special

Malapert Nominated to Beat Norseland and Warman.

Major Seth Is Backed to Run Ahead at Fairmount.

By BERT E. COLLIER.

MONEY getting. With the Churchills Downs meeting at an end and Loma not scheduled to open until Thursday, horse players will have to shoot at Belmont park, Thoroughbred park, Fairmount and Aurora. Though good things appear in the various races at these tracks to indicate a fair return on a small investment.

From Canada, the clockers seek GOLDEN BILLOWS as the most likely winner of the afternoon. This race is in superb condition at the present time and seems entitled to the call over the lightly weighted MALAPERT and the consistent WARMAN.

Another probable winner at this track is NORSLEND, which goes in the fifth sprint. "Heimey" Neytler has his agents riding and that's good enough for me.

Out at Aurora DEEP THOUGHT is to be dragged out of the old pickle vat in the fifth heat. This one will be forced to beat FAENZA.

Nine are entered and it does not appear as though the polecat bird will be working sufficiently to have the race called off.

DESPAIR, which is carded to go after the money in the second race at Exposition park seems much the best of those engaged and with a good break and racing luck will get home in front.

U. S. GOLFERS DEFEND CUP TODAY

Roland Mackenzie Is Paired With Gardner in Foursome.

The struggle will bring together two seasoned stars and two brilliant young players.

There was much speculation on the outcome of the match in which Outset and Wethered, old rivals in international play, once more were brought together, while Sweetser was sure to draw a generous portion of the gallery by reason of his superb play in the championship.

Sweetser and Von Elm were considered by critics here as almost certain victors, on the basis of the sound golf they have been playing. There was a possibility, however, that the St. Andrews Greens might give the Americans some trouble. They appeared to be more unsteady with their putters today than at Muirfield.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed today until the afternoon, when a strong southwest wind developed, increasing toward evening almost to a gale. There was prospect of favorable weather tomorrow, but the Americans seemed highly confident of retaining the coveted trophy donated by a former president of the United States Golf association, George H. Walker, of St. Louis.

Fred Loomis Is Back With Mount Rainiers

Fred Loomis, one of the most consistent catchers hereabouts, has returned to his old club, the Mount Rainier team, which will hold a practice session tomorrow at 5 o'clock on the home field.

Mt. Rainier Meets Mohawks on Sunday

The Mount Rainier nine will oppose the fast-stepping Mohawk team Sunday on the former's diamond at 3 o'clock.

The Hawks have been going at a fast clip so far this season, winning five of six starts. Manager Holter will have "Dick" Hughes on the mound for his Mount Rainiers.

Typo-Fashion Shop Game Is Rained Out

The Fashion Shop nine no doubt was sorely disappointed yesterday at the heavy downpour of rain which prevented them from tackling the Union Printers on the diamond. The Printers are slated on top of the Commercial league at present, and a win for the Fashion team would put them on even terms. A great battle is looked for when these teams clash.

Herndon Enters Loop And Cancels Games

The Herndon baseball club has entered the Loudoun County baseball league, composed of teams from Loudoun, Fairfax and Aquia. All league games are played on Saturdays and it is necessary for Herndon to cancel all Saturday games previously booked.

Herndon has won eight games in as many starts this season. Over the week-end it defeated the Lafayette A. C. 19 to 7, and took both games of a double-header from Cherrylade by scores of 15-7 and 14-6.

Ontarios Win, 10 to 3, Over Cleveland Jrs.

The Ontario team the measure of the Cleveland Park Juniors yesterday, 10 to 3.

Schneider, Western High pitcher, hurled for the Cleveland Park Juniors, but the seniors in the seventh, but not until the Ontario had gathered runs in bunches in the sixth and seventh innings.

The twirling of Earl Knapp and the fielding and hitting of Jones Schneider, for Cleveland Park, changed, of the losers, hit a three bagger.

Bouts at Kenilworth Tonight; Hector-Bashara in Feature

POSTPONED AFTER RAIN

WASHINGTON, fight fans will get their second taste of outdoor boxing of the season tonight when Heine Miller, matchmaker for the Kenilworth club, will present the card which he had planned giving last night, and postponed because the arena was in such condition that it was impossible to put on the card, despite the fact that it stopped raining early in the evening.

In the feature bout of the evening Joe Bashara, the popular Norfolk middleweight, is scheduled to meet Mike Hector, late of the Pacific coast, who is well-known to local fight fans, while Hector made his first appearance in the East a week ago at Madison Square Garden, where he decisively beat Paul Weiss, the German middleweight champ.

Out on the coast Hector defeated leading middleweights pitted against him and has come this way looking bigger and better things. Charley Cook, of New York, who is one of the leading managers of the glove game, holds Hector's reins.

In Hector's corner tonight Eddie Huffman, who recently fought a ten-round draw with Georges Carpentier, will assist the coast boxer between rounds. Jerry McCarthy also will act as second to Hector.

Ferneough Shines As Aztecs Win, 15-8

Byrd Ferneough pulled a "Merry Hell" with the Aztec Midgets yesterday in their 15-8 victory over the Cobra nine. Two brilliant catches by Byrd with the bases loaded in the ninth saved the lead which he had helped establish in the eighth.

For games with the Aztecs call West 1234.

INSPECTION OF MIND FOOD IS ADVOCATED BY BISHOP HAMILTON

Churchman Speaks at Laying of Brattle Memorial Library Corner Stone.

CALLS UNGUARDED BOOKS
DANGER TO COMMUNITY

Services Held in Connection With American University
Commencement Exercises.

Inspection of food for the mind as well as food for the body was advocated by Bishop John W. Hamilton, chancellor emeritus, in an address yesterday at the laying of the corner stone of the new Brattle Memorial Library building at the American university, Nebraska and Massachusetts avenues northwest.

"There is no greater danger to the family or the community than the unguarded library," the bishop said. "If it is a crime to put poison in books, it is more a crime to put books where persons, more particularly the adolescent, will be poisoned by them. The State should appoint, assuredly, inspectors for the food of the body, but as certainly inspectors of the food for the mind. The governors of this library shall do so."

The corner stone laying was held in conjunction with the commencement exercises of the school. The services were held in the Hurst College of History building. Dr. Lucius Charles Clark, chancellor, presided. The annual convocation address was delivered by Dr. Edward T. Devine, who spoke on "Intrepid Scholarship."

The faculty prize of $20 for the student with the highest scholastic average was presented to William E. Parrish, Baltimore, Md., a freshman. Miss Dorothea McDowell was given the degree of "cum laude."

Citizen Delegates Guests of Ad Club

Representatives from all of the civic organizations in Washington were present at the Ad club luncheon at the City club yesterday. On behalf of their organizations the representatives pledged cooperation with the Ad club's effort to bring the national convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the world here next year.

Harold Levy, former president of the Ad club, extended a welcome to the visitors and told of the work and purposes of his organization. Allen de Ford reported for the "On to Philadelphia committee." More than 50 members have already pledged themselves to attend this convention. Wesley Barry, actor, who is appearing at the Earle theater, spoke briefly of his work and experiences. Norman Kai, president of the club, presided.

June Rush Started On Marriage Licenses

The rush of June brides started off yesterday in great shape, according to the records kept by Col. William A. Kroll, of the marriage license bureau, at the courthouse.

Col. Kroll issued 50 licenses for better or for worse or for just medium. June is always the biggest month for marriages, even keeping ahead of October.

Kiwanis Club Gets Music for Patients

Patients at the Tuberculosis hospital will be afforded entertainment in the way of band concerts during the summer months. The local Kiwanis club, through the efforts of Committee Chairman Harry G. Kimball yesterday completed the arrangements which the organization strove to attain.

The concerts will be held in the band stand, which was donated and erected by the club. The Army Music school, Army, Navy and Marine bands will furnish the tunes. The schedule follows: Army band, June 8; Navy band, June 17; Army band, June 24; Marine band, July 9; Army Music school band, July 14; Navy band, July 22; Army band, July 29; Army Music school band, August 12; Navy band, August 19; Army band, August 26; Marine band, August 31, and Army Music school band, September 8.

U. S. ARMY BERTILLON EXPERT DIES AT HOME

W. S. Kaye Had Charge of Fingerprinting American Soldiers in War.

WAS BORN IN ENGLAND

Walter S. Kaye, the man who had charge of the fingerprinting of American soldiers in the world war, died at his home at Occoquan, Va., yesterday. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Mr. Kaye, who was chief clerk of the identity section of the adjutant general's office, was born at Elland, Yorkshire, England, April 29, 1857, was first appointed a clerk in the office of the surgeon general of the army, June 1, 1885, and was transferred to the adjutant general's office, October 1, 1902. He passed through the various clerical grades to the position he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Kaye was one of the pioneers in identification by means of the fingerprint system, and since the adoption by the army of that mode of identification of enlisted men in the regular army, and applied to the personnel of the national army in the world war, Mr. Kaye had been in immediate charge of it.

He was recognized throughout the country as an authority in this line, and has in his time, been of much assistance to various police departments in determining the identification of criminals and other persons sought. He was the author of several instructive articles pertaining to finger-print classification.

The following incident is indicative of Mr. Kaye's ingenuity: A photograph of a finger print left by a burglar on a pane of glass was brought to his office and after an unsuccessful attempt to identify it he concluded there was something wrong. He surmised that the photograph had been made as a negative instead of a positive, and holding it before a mirror, which reversed it, he soon made the necessary identification.

He was considered one of the most capable and valuable employees of the adjutant general's office.

TAKOMA CLUB OPENS LARGE PEONY SHOW

Approximately 1,000 Varieties of Flower on Exhibition in Library.

What is declared to be the first comprehensive peony show ever held in this part of the country was opened by the Takoma Horticultural club last night in Takoma library with approximately 1,000 varieties on exhibition.

The show will continue throughout the day. The great number of varieties include many that are extremely rare, both foreign and domestic. There are said to be about 2,000 known varieties of peonies. Prizes will be given in the form of choice peony roots, and the great value of the roots make the prizes highly desirable. Furman Lloyd Mulford, in charge of the peony test garden of the Department of Agriculture, will act as judge.

Members of the peony show committee are Mrs. H. I. Houston, chairman; Mrs. A. L. Barrows, A. H. Delke and L. W. Kephart. Miss Margaret C. Lancaster is president of the club.

The club will hold its eleventh annual rose show Friday and Saturday.

Medium's Case Dropped.

The charge of practicing mediumship with out a license, filed against Dr. Charlotte B. Bruen, 2120 Eighteenth street northwest, was nolle prossed yesterday in police court after it was discovered that she did have a license. Dr. Bruen was arrested on May 28, when the police broke up a seance.

Portrait of White To Be Given School

A portrait of the late Chief Justice Edward D. White, of the United States Supreme Court, will be formally presented to the Georgetown law school at exercises tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Some of the Chief Justice's former colleagues, and representatives of the bench and bar of the District are expected to attend.

The portrait of the Chief Justice, a gift of the senior law class, was painted by Richard S. Meryman, of the Corcoran art gallery. It was the purpose of the seniors to honor Justice White, an alumnus of Georgetown, on the fifth anniversary of his death.

The Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., president of Georgetown university, will accept the portrait on behalf of the school. The presentation will be made by Martin F. O'Donoghue.

INCREASED WATER RATES TO BE EFFECTIVE JULY 1

Commissioners Establish New Schedule in Accordance With Act of Congress.

METER COST IS HIGHER

Increased water rates were established for District water users by the commissioners yesterday, in compliance with the recently enacted act of Congress, directing an increase of 12 1/2 per cent. They will take effect July 1.

The principal rate, that for metered water, was increased from $5.65 to $6.35 as a minimum charge, covering consumption of 7,500 cubic feet, or 56,250 gallons, a year, additional water to cost the user 6 cents per 100 cubic feet, or 750 gallons, instead of 5 cents, as heretofore.

Domestic rates for tenements two stories or less in height and having 16 feet frontage or less were increased from $6.25 to $7.03 a year, with the same rate for each apartment, but an additional charge on the first apartment of 44 cents for each additional front foot or fraction thereof instead of 29 cents, as heretofore, and addition of one-third of the $7.03 for each additional story or part thereof.

Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens had advised the commissioners that they should carry out the increase, as directed by Congress, at exactly 12 1/2 per cent, no more and no less, even to the fraction of a mill.

The commissioners, however, ruled that this would involve impracticable accounting procedure, so they fixed the rates at the nearest cent to the directed percentage increase instead.

MRS. GLADYS N. SMITH WINS $200 ART PRIZE

Her Portrait Adjudged Best in Corcoran School; Others Rewarded.

Mrs. Gladys Nelson Smith won the $200 prize and certificate of first class in the portrait class of the Corcoran School of Art yesterday. The judges were Edmund C. Tarbell, principal; Richard S. Meryman, vice principal; S. B. Baker, Mrs. Mathilde Leisenring and Eugene Weiss.

The $25 award and certificate in the life class went to Mrs. Helen F. Collison. Miss Virginia Moorhead and Miss Gertrude MacDaniel received honorable mention. In the antique class the $75 award and certificate award was tied between Felix C. Schwartz and Bjorn Egell. Kizuku O'Hashi and Miss Luy Dicks were honorably mentioned. The still life class award of $25 went to Alexander Carvion, while Miss Mabel Bartlett won the $25 prize in the composition class.

The work of the students for 1925-26 will be on exhibition to the public until June 10. The exhibit will be open Sunday from 1:30 to 4:30; Monday, 12 to 4:30, and other weekdays from 9 to 4:30 o'clock.

LIGHTS TO CONTROL TRAFFIC OVER CITY

Plans Completed for Extension of Electric Signals, Moller Announces.

Assistant Director of Traffic I. C. Moller yesterday announced that plans had been completed for a city-wide extension of the electric traffic signal system like that in Sixteenth and Massachusetts avenue northwest, contingent, however, on Congress enacting the pending amendment to the traffic act which will provide funds for installing the lights with fees for operators' permits.

Three areas have been designated in which systems of the signals, independently operated, will be maintained. The first of these consists of the thoroughfares already partially equipped. The second will cover the downtown section between Pennsylvania and Massachusetts avenues and Fifteenth and North Capitol streets. The third includes Maryland, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania avenues, Woodley road and M street, in Georgetown.

Jailed on Check Charge.

Wallace Hickox, 34 years old, was sent to jail yesterday in police court for one year on charges of passing worthless checks and fined $25 or 30 days more on each of seven other such charges. Judge Mattingly imposed sentence. The checks were all for small amounts.

Burglar Routed by Woman.

Mollie B. Bryant, living in the apartments at 1619 R street northwest, yesterday morning frightened off a colored man as he was trying to "jimmy" the apartment of William T. Clerk, of the same address, according to police.

HIGH SCHOOL CADETS COMPETE IN STORM FOR NAYLOR MEDAL

Eastern Boys. Drenched.
Complete Maneuvers in Soldierly Fashion.

10 COMPANIES TO VIE
IN TODAY'S PROGRAM

Ratings Are Kept Secret; Secretary Davis Will Present Award.

Marching resolutely through sheets of rain that swept Griffith stadium yesterday afternoon, cadets from the Eastern High school completed their maneuvers and formation exercises in the thirty-ninth annual drill of the Washington High school cadets. Finally, drenched to the skin, they left the field with military precision.

Martial airs were played by the Cadet band as company after company deployed on the field at the conclusion of the downpour. About 500 spectators who decamped hastily from field boxes when the storm burst, gradually resumed their former places of vantage. Each detachment of cadets was applauded roundly by its supporters as it marched into the stadium. Undaunted by the mud, participants in the drill went through the usual routine of skirmishing tactics, throwing themselves face downward on the ground as they prepared to attack an imaginary enemy.

14 Companies Drill.

Mud and rain might well be cited as real enemies to yesterday's drill. All cadets wore the regulation blue full-dress uniform with white gloves, and the elements did their utmost to ruin this attire. Yet, in spite of the weather, 14 of the 24 cadet companies representing the five senior high schools, drilled with automatic precision and marched from the field with buttons as brightly polished, gloves as immaculate and uniforms apparently as spotless as when they made their appearance in the arena.

Twenty-five-minute periods were allotted each company yesterday. Eight companies from Central, three from Eastern and three from Western were put through their paces by Col. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military science and tactics. At approximately 5 o'clock today four companies from McKinley Manual Training school, three from Business and one each from Central, Eastern and Western will have drilled, completing the competition. Secretary of War Davis will review the winning company and present to its captain the Allison Naylor gold medal.

The board of judges officiating at the drill are Maj. Fred L. Walker, Maj. Paul W. Hinder, Capt. Lewis C. Allen, all of the infantry, United States army. While the ratings are being guarded with the utmost secrecy, it was evident from the high standard of yesterday's performance that the winning company must achieve a mark close to 100 in order to emerge victorious from one of the most energetically contested drills in years.

Sodality of Church Will Hold Festival

The first annual strawberry festival and rummage sale will be held tonight in the immaculate Conception school hall, Eighth and N streets northwest, under auspices of the Sodality of the church. Mrs. Robert Berberich is in charge of the booth, a novel feature of the evening.

Others assisting the society are Mrs. John McGilvery, Mrs. John Quigley, Mrs. John DeMeza, Miss Ethel Shilling, Miss Edna Reiter, and the ladies of the sodality. The committee from the Holy Name society consists of John Willis, Francis McCann, Fred Simonds, Robert Berberich, John DeMeza, Frank Horstkamp, James Hagan and Gwynn Horstkamp.

Aid Asked in Giving Outing to Veterans

The entire membership of the Board of Trade was circulated yesterday by letter urging them to loan their automobiles and services to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who are giving disabled veterans in the local military hospitals an outing next Sunday.

The outing will consist of a three-hour automobile ride through the city parks and suburbs, starting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Those who wish to assist in the work were asked to notify Ben T. Webster, secretary of the trade body, at the Board of Trade office in the Star building.

Joyrider Is Jailed.

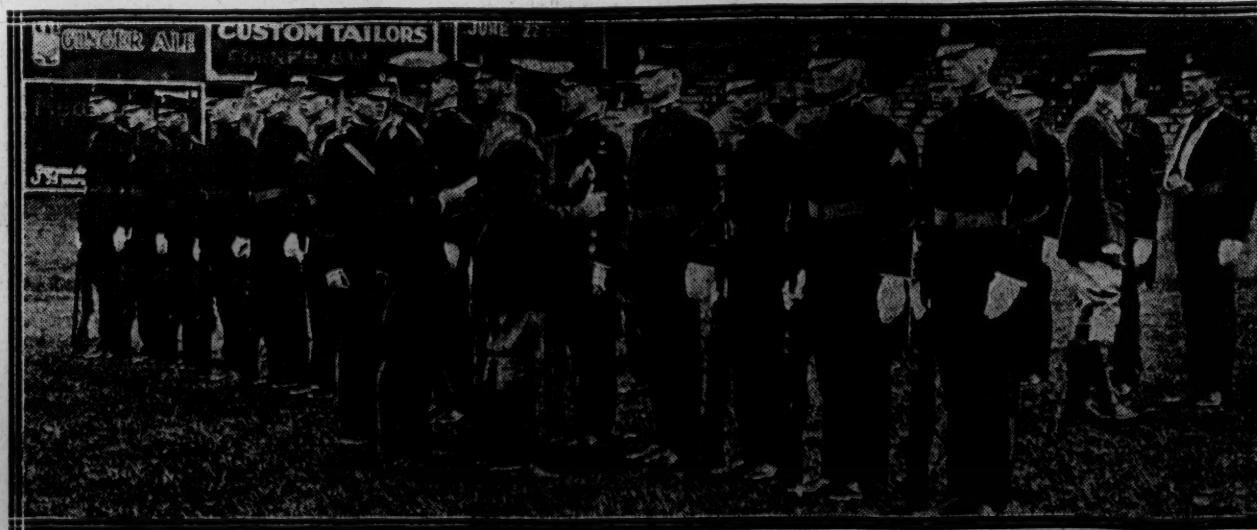

John F. Ratcliffe, indicted on a charge of joyriding, pleaded guilty yesterday in criminal court before Justice Stafford and was sentenced to serve three years in prison. He was charged with taking an automobile belonging to William E. Ferris, 2807 Channing street northeast, on April 22.

Trade Board Program.

At the regular weekly meeting of the membership committee of the Board of Trade yesterday, it was voted to meet bi-monthly during June, July and August. W. W. Ross, chairman, announced that the committee would meet every second and fourth Tuesdays of the month.

To Study Borland Law.

Further study of the Borland law will be made by the Board of Trade at a joint meeting of its streets and avenues and law committees Friday at 4:30 o'clock. George C. Shinn and Alexander Wolfe are the chairmen of the respective committees.

Company H, of Western High school, maneuvering at the annual competitive drill of the Washington High school cadets in American League park yesterday. The awarding of the Naylor medal for the winning company will take place this afternoon.
